Sales Tax In Maryland Is Modified By Assembly

Legislators' Action Will Save Residents Of State $7 Million In Pennies Yearly

By Edward F. Ryan
Post Reporter

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 10. A seven million-dollar portion of sales tax relief for Marylanders became law at 6:30 p. m. today with Gov. William Preston Lane, jr.'s signature on two bills.

The measures were enacted in post-election harmony by an extraordinary session of the General Assembly.

They were the last bills that will be signed by Governor Lane, whose term expires January 10.

Effective December 1, the two new laws take the sales tax and the companion use tax off the following items previously subject to the State's 2 percent sales levy:

1. All restaurant meals.
2. All items costing 50 cents or less.
3. Baby oils and baby powders.
4. Soaps, soap powders, cleaning fluids and detergents for home use.

The direct sales tax applies generally to retail purchases within Maryland. The use tax, parallel in its provisions, applies to articles bought outside the State for use within it.

McKeldin Takes Hand

Governor Lane's successor, Governor-elect Theodore R. McKeldin, took a direct hand in the special session. He met with Republican Party members of the General Assembly in their early morning caucus. The group decided to indorse in full McKeldin's view that the special session should consider only the sales tax relief bills promised by both parties in their campaign platforms.

Simultaneously, Governor Lane passed the word along to Democratic leaders that he wanted nothing done during the special session that would in any way embarrass the incoming Republican Governor.

This move headed off a number of bills which had been prepared by individual Democrats, including measures to repeal the sales tax outright and to repeal, the State income tax.

Bills Sidetracked

In a caucus of their own, Democrats discussed these poltically explosive bills and decided to sidetrack them. From that point on, by what leaders said was remarkable coincidence, the special session ran a harmonious course.

The note of harmony was reechoed by a surprise conference between Governor Lane and Governor-elect McKeldin in Lane's office. It was their first meeting since the election. Both said the discussion was friendly, was devoted mainly to matters connected with the forthcoming State budget, and included no mention of

Sabotage Charged in Phone Strike

Cutting of Cables Laid to Workers In Midwest Cities

By Sam Stavisky
Post Reporter

Sabotage of telephone lines was reported in two cities yesterday as Western Electric installation and repairmen conducted their Nationwide strike against the Bell System for a second day.

Southwestern Bell said a 3-inch cable carrying 150 pairs of wires to Springfield, Mo., was sliced with an ax. Telephone and teletype service was tied up for eight hours for some of the company's clients.

At Minneapolis, Northwestern Bell said a main telephone cable was cut.

Both companies charged that the wire-cutting incidents were acts of sabotage by striking Western Electric equipment workers.

On Thursday, the first day of the strike, phone company officials in San Francisco asserted lines there were severed by saboteurs. Union officials denied responsibility.

Altogether some 17,000 Western Electric workers who are employed by the manufacturing subsidiary of the Bell System are striking in 43 States and the District of Columbia for a "substantial" increase in wages. The company has offered an average of around 11 cents an hour pay boost, but the employes—who belong to the CIO Communications Workers of America — have rejected the proposal as inadequate. The union says the Western Electric pay hikes are poorly distributed and tied in with an 18-month contract.

Also on strike are 16,000 CWA employes of the Michigan Bell Company. They have been offered

Jury Indicts Collazo in Plot At Blair House

Trial Held Likely Within 30 Days On Murder Charge

By Joseph Paull
Post Reporter

Oscar Collazo, 37-year-old Puerto Rican Nationalist, was indicted yesterday on first-degree murder charges growing out of the attempted assassination of President Truman.

In a four-count indictment returned by a Federal grand jury before Judge Edward A. Tamm of District Court, Collazo was indicted on two death-penalty charges of murder and two of assault with intent to kill.

Collazo is specifically charged with the premeditated killing of Police Pvt. Leslie Coffelt, with murdering the officer while trying to break into the Blair House to slay the President, and with attempting to kill officers Joseph H. Downs and Donald T. Birdzell, who were wounded.

Indicted along with Collazo was his confederate, Griselio Torresola, who was shot down and killed during the bloody gunplay at the steps of the Blair House on November 1, while the President was inside.

United States Attorney George Morris Fay, who led the three-day presentation of the case to the grand jury, said Collazo will probably be arraigned next Friday. The trial could be held within 30 days.

Meanwhile, at 1:30 p. m., Collazo was taken from Gallinger Hospital, where he has been re-

Sawyer Sees Compulsory Controls

By Alfred Friendly
Post Reporter

Secretary of Commerce Sawyer indicated yesterday he was changing some of his ideas about how the defense production job would be accomplished.

First, he told a press conference, he believed that production controls would have to be compulsory, and that voluntary agreements with industry "just won't work" in the present situation. In the early stages of defense production planning, Sawyer had been considered the exponent of the voluntary approach.

Second, he intimated he hopes the steel industry will make a "substantial increase" in its plans for capacity expansion above those which Sawyer himself recently announced in the industry's behalf.

When he disclosed the steel companies' expansion plans Sawyer praised the industry and suggested that the proposed enlargement was ample. Since then, however, the program has been widely criticized elsewhere in the Administration and among labor groups as insufficient.

Yesterday, Sawyer appeared to be gently shifting his earlier position, and called on the industry to provide "all the capacity we can get."

It is presently producing about 100 million tons of steel a year. Its plans call for a capacity of 109 million tons by 1952. If that rate of expansion is kept up, Sawyer said—and hinted that it ought to be—then by 1954 production could be at 120 million tons. This is the figure commonly heard as the necessary level for steel capacity.

Questioned at his news conference on the possibility of mandatory controls to provide defense industry with the materials it needs, Sawyer said that there is "very little likelihood" that anything will be worked out along that line.

He reported, however, that industry appeared resigned to or content with the mandatory orders that have been issued so far by the National Production Authority.

"I think there's very little resistance to the program," he said.

Sawyer said the full impact of defense production and rearmament may hit industry next spring and summer. Meantime, he said, the Commerce Department is carefully watching the possibility that some materials and civilian production curtailment orders may cause a certain amount of business slack before military orders arms output are rolling swiftly enough to make up the difference.

In another development in the economic mobilization field yesterday, William M Rand, president of Monsanto Chemical Co., turned down the job of Price Administrator.

Economic Stabilizer Alan Valentine was planning to meet with Rand to try to persuade him to accept the post. Yesterday, however, Rand announced from St. Louis that in a telephone conversation he told Valentine that "for several reasons"—which he did not expand in his announcement—he would not be available for the job.

New Figure In Defense Setup

John D. Small New Munitions Board Chief

Appointed to Guide Defense Production And Stockpiling

ABOARD YACHT MY MARY GAIL, Nov. 10 (AP).—President Truman today appointed John D. Small as chairman of the Government's Munitions Board.

Small was an important figure in the reconversion period following World War II, when he headed the Civilian Production Administration.

As head of the Munitions Board, he will guide the procurement and production schedules for the armed services and the national security stockpiling program.

The President approved the appointment as he cruised today aboard the yacht Williamsburg.

Small, a business executive, succeeds Hubert Howards who left as the aftermath of the resignation of Louis A. Johnson as Secretary of Defense.

The appointment is subject to Senate confirmation when Congress reconvenes.

Small, a graduate of the United States Naval Academy, served as deputy director of the Army Munitions Board in 1942-43 and left the Government in 1947 to become president of Maxson Food Systems, Inc. He formerly resided in Douglas Manor, Long Island, N. Y., but recently has been living in nearby Chevy Chase, Md.

Mr. Truman made the appointment as he continued his post-election cruise aboard the presidential yacht Williamsburg.

Press Secretary Charles G. Ross said Mr. Truman has begun work on a series of messages to lay before Congress

Ross said Mr. Truman has made no final decision but is still considering a move to call Congress back before November 27.

U. N. Votes China Action; Malik Jolted

By Ferdinand Kuhn
Post Reporter

LAKE SUCCESS, Nov. 10. The Security Council voted today to give first priority on its schedule to the menace of Communist Chinese troop movements in Korea.

It overrode bitter and abusive protests by Jacob A. Malik of the Soviet Union in deciding to make Gen. Douglas MacArthur's report of November 5 its first item of business. This was the report announcing that United Nations forces were "meeting a new foe" in the form of Chinese Communist units.

The vote to take up MacArthur's report ahead of other items was 10 to 0, with Egypt abstaining and Malik, for reasons unexplained, not voting at all.

Warning in Resolution

Immediately afterwards a resolution of warning and of reassurance was submitted by the United States, Britain, France, Ecuador, Cuba and Norway.

It will be debated next week, although Malik is sure to try to block it and, if necessary, to veto it.

The draft recalled previous action against North Korean aggression; "noted" MacArthur's report; affirmed "that U. N. forces should not remain in any part of Korea" longer than necessary to carry out U. N. purposes; and insisted "that no action be taken which might lead to the spread of the Korean conflict to other areas and thereby further endanger international peace and security."

It then called upon "all States and authorities, and in particular those responsible" for helping the North Koreans, to cease and desist, and "to cause the immediate withdrawal" of those giving such help.

Most Sweeping Assurance

In the most sweeping assurance yet given to Communist China, the resolution pledged "that it is the policy of the United Nations to hold the Chinese frontier with Korea inviolate and fully to protect legitimate Chinese and Korean interests in the frontier zone." Ambassador Warren R. Austin of the United States later broadened this assurance to include Soviet interests as well.

By way of a veiled warning, however, the draft called attention "to the grave danger which continued intervention by Chinese forces in Korea would entail for the maintenance of such a policy." And, finally, the resolution asked the new U. N. Korean commission to hurry to the scene to help settle any frontier problems in which Korea's neighbors have an interest.

The resolution went on the Council's agenda amid sombre warnings from leading non-Soviet delegates. Jean Chauvel of France saw the increasing strength of Chinese Communist troops

Barkley Not Dead, Just 'A Cranky Man With a Cold'

A rumor that Vice President Alben W. Barkley had died swept through Washington yesterday but was quickly squelched by his office here and by Mrs. Barkley at their home in Paducah, Ky.

After the office said it had heard the rumor and that there was nothing to it, a telephone call was put in to the Vice President.

He was taking a nap. Mrs. Barkley took the call.

"Oh, my goodness," she said. "I hope you'll write something to put an end to such talk. The poor dear is a cranky man with a cold right now but it's nothing serious. We'll be back in Washington on Monday or Tuesday."

Marines Ask Red Division To Surrender

Chinese Unit Sent Note After Attack Led by D. C. Colonel

WITH U. S. FIRST MARINE DIVISION, North Korea, Nov. 10 (AP).—A Marine first lieutenant eagerly awaited today the results of his effort to get the 124th Chinese Communist Division to surrender.

Lieut. Albert J. Hausske of Seattle, Wash., set noon Friday as the surrender deadline. But it will be some hours after that before the results are known.

Hausske, a language officer who lived in China 14 years, dropped a message inviting surrender from a plane Thursday afternoon just south of the big Changjin reservoir. Prisoners had reported the Communist division command post was near there.

"After talking to some of the prisoners I thought it was worth a try," Hausske said.

"We apparently just beat the daylights out of that division. Prisoners say they believe the enlisted men are ready to quit. I hope the general is a Chinese first and a Communist second."

The surrender appeal was approved by Col. Homer J. Litzenberg of 2138 California st. nw., Washington, D. C., commanding the Seventh Marine Regiment. The message read:

"Your division has fought well but many of your units have been practically annihilated. Your men are lying in the hills wounded and untended. Many have not eaten for days.

"We invite you to surrender honorably. Lead the remnants of your division to our side, south along the main road. Be sure to bring your wounded, as we have adequate medical facilities for their care."

[Colonel Litzenberg, who won a Silver Star for action in Kwajalein during World War II, has been in Korea since August. In the Marine Corps for more than 30 years, he had been given command of the Sixth Marines at Camp Lejeune, N. C., in 1949. For a year prior to that, he had attended the National War College here.

[The Litzenbergs have made their Washington home at the California st. address since 1945. His wife, Alice, and daughter, Betty Lee, 15, are living there now. A son, Larry, 20, is a student at the University of Pennsylvania.]

Fliers Blast Yalu Bridges, Marines Win Power Plant

Americans Reported To Have Linked Up Line Across Korea; Enemy Tanks Are Hit

SEOUL, Korea (Saturday), Nov. 11 (AP).—Furious Allied air blows knocked out two border bridges in the supreme effort to choke off the stream of Chinese Red troops and arms pouring into North Korea, official accounts said today.

Aground, the United States marines in a five-mile dash on the northeast front seized the last of four big hydroelectric plants which supply power to North Korea and parts of Communist Manchuria.

On the Northeast Front, air observers said units of the United States 10th Corps from the East Coast linked up with the United States Eighth Army from the West Coast at Tokchon, 60 miles Northest of the fallen North Korean capital of Pyongyang.

An Eighth Army spokesman said, however, there was no ground confirmation of the report and it could be in error.

Villages were set afire by ceaseless fighter and bomber attacks on enemy movements in this sector.

Aim to Block Chinese Advance

It appeared efforts were being made to keep the Chinese Communists from striking south and turning the flank of the Eighth Army in the Northwest or the 10th Corps in the East.

The tempo of the air war increased.

The Army in Washington reported that two B-29 Superforts in a series of raids Friday were so badly shot up by enemy fighters that one ditched at sea and another was destroyed in landing at its base.

The United States Air Force said enemy jet planes were believed to have used rockets for the first time Friday in an air battle with United States jets near Sinuiju. Neither side suffered damage in the dog fight between four United States jets and seven swift enemy MIG-156.

One Russian jet was shot down. A United States jet fighter was damaged but got back to its base.

Fire Bombs on Pukchin

The U. S. Superforts struck widely. They dumped 10,000 fire bombs on the military center of Pukchin in north central Korea. They loosed 96 tons of fire bombs on the Red command post and supply point of Uiju, 10 miles northeast of Sinuiju. And on the east coast they blasted the port

Chinese Believe They Are Fighting U. S. in Manchuria

WITH THE UNITED STATES FIRST MARINE DIVISION, KOREA, Nov. 10 (AP).—A Chinese soldier was quoted today as saying many of the Chinese fighting in North Korea actually believe they are in action in Manchuria against invading American forces.

Marine Sergt. James F. Dempser, of San Francisco, who speaks Chinese, disclosed this—plus a strange coincidence. Dempser said the questioned prisoner turned out to be a former member of the congregation of Dempser's missionary father.

The sergeant's father was a Salvation Army missionary in North China from 1924 to 1937. Dempser and his mother watched Chinese Communists kill his father in a hospital at Weihsien in Shantung province.

He quoted the prisoner as saying the Communists had acted to prevent desertion by forming units with Chinese who speak different dialects. The prisoner said that was so the men could not talk things over with each other.

"Many of us would desert but we fear to because men in another dialect group might shoot us if we tried," the prisoner told Dempser.

After Four-Week Campaign

$2.5 Million Paid or Pledged As Chest Meets 60% of Goal

Four weeks of campaigning have netted 60 percent of a $4,260,000 area goal and indications are "it will be a long, hard campaign," Community Chest chairman Hugh K. Duffield said yesterday.

"I honestly feel it will be successful," he told a luncheon-meeting group of Business-Employes Unit II at the Willard Hotel.

A total of $2,559,331.40 has been collected or pledged thus far. A tentative concluding date for the Chest drive had originally been set for the middle of November, but Duffield indicated it would be extended.

The added $230,000 budget for needs of the Armed Forces has "made our job tougher," he said, . . . "but if we can secure the 100,000 gifts not donated by employed people last year, the campaign is bound to be successful."

Dr. Paul Douglass, president of American University, guest speaker at the same luncheon, likened the Community Chest to the largest retail book store in England where people browse for weeks at a time just "absorbing." The manager profited by this at-home atmosphere to the point of selling 10,000 volumes a day, he said.

He recommended the Community Chest use the method—"expose the most people for the longest possible time to the product—in this case serving human needs—" and they'll buy or give as the case may be.

Business II reported 44.84 percent or $109,047.49 of a $243,200 quota collected.

At the simultaneous luncheon-meetings of Government and Business Unit I the following totals were announced:

Business I—56.31 percent or $934,141.09 of a $1,658,800 quota.

Alexandria to Pay $454,905 For Fairfax Land, Court Orders

By William H. Smith
Post Reporter

Alexandria will have to pay $454,905 for the 7½ square miles of Fairfax County territory it has won in annexation proceedings.

A three-judge court, which previously indicated it favored the land exchange, laid down the terms yesterday in a ruling that will become final as soon as a decree can be prepared and approved by attorneys for both the city and county.

Assessments ordered by the court, totaling $454,905, include the cost of one school, the cost of a school site, a "proportionate" share of Virginia Literary Fund loans previously floated by the county's school board and part of a 3-million-dollar bond issue recently sold by the county for sewage improvements in Sanitary District No. 1. The annexation zone is part of the sanitary district.

The court's terms made no provision for assumption by Alexandria of any share of a $10,500,000 bond issue for school improvements and a $980,000 issue for a new courthouse addition, approved by county voters in referendum last May 31.

In this respect, the decision was considered a smashing financial reversal for the county. From the start of the case more than three weeks ago, Fairfax attorneys argued that the city should be made liable for a "just proportion" of the bond debts in the event it won the annexation case.

Attorneys for Alexandria argued against this on the ground the bonds have not yet been sold. They contended, therefore, no debt actually exists.

Figuring in the final settlement terms are these items: $102,801 for the Lee-Jackson Elementary School, which will be taken over by Alexandria; $53,100 for an eight-acre school site in the Shirley-Duke Apartment development, also to be acquired by the city; $124,572 as the city's share of Literary Loan debts previously contracted by the county, and $174,432 to reimburse the county for sewage connection revenues that will be lost by deletion of the annexation zone from Sanitary District No. 1.

The court also ordered revision of one boundary of the annexation zone to permit the county to retain the Lincolnia School and its surrounding area. In the original annexation map prepared by Alexandria, the school property was split by the boundary line.

Another setback for the county was seen in the court's order that the annexation become effective January 1, 1951. The county had asked for an order effective July 1, 1951, which would have permitted the county to collect 1951 taxes from the disputed territory.

Robert J. McCandlish, jr., attorney for Fairfax, said the county "definitely" would appeal the decision.

Fantastic Maze of Errors

GOP Trails, Then Regains Lead For Michigan Governorship

DETROIT, Nov. 10.—Discovery of a major election error in Macomb County tonight tossed Republican Harry F. Kelly back into the lead in Michigan's fantastic governorship election by a margin of 319 votes.

Louis Luchtman, chairman of the Macomb County board of canvassers, reported the error which gave Kelly 381 votes more and subtracted 525 from the total for Gov. G. Mennen Williams, the first-term Democrat who once was considered beaten and then pulled into the lead late today in the midst of a maze of election errors.

With 32 of 52 Macomb County precincts canvassed, the State totals changed to give Kelly 934,851 votes and Williams 934,532.

Luchtman said the remaining precincts would not be canvassed until Monday.

Thus Michigan's most chaotic and closest election in history reached almost an absurd stage as county after county reported continual changes in their election figures.

Luchtman said he "had no alternative" but to certify the new Kelly gain in Macomb County although he implied that it did not agree with other election figures.

Any correction of the suggested error would have to come in a recount.

[Special significance attaches to the party affiliation of the new Michigan Governor in case ailing Senator Arthur Vandenberg (R., Mich.) should relinquish his Senate post. In such case, if Michigan should have a Democratic Governor he undoubtedly would appoint a Democrat and the Republicans would suffer a loss in their Senate strength. Senator

New Drive on Reds Indicated by GOP

By The Associated Press

Republican leaders yesterday forecast a new drive to root Communists out of Government when the Eighty-first Congress returns for its "lame duck" session.

The lawmakers scheduled to reconvene November 27 unless President Truman summons them back earlier, face a number of other controversial proposals.

These include strengthening and extending the rent control law, levying excess profits taxes on corporations and Statehood for Hawaii and Alaska.

Republican spokesmen, spurred by election results which they interpreted as a stinging rebuke against any "whitewash" or cover-up, called for a searching new investigation of Red influences in high places.

One of the first steps, they indicated, may be to try to set up a permanent Senate committee or a joint Senate-House committee on Un-American Activities.

The House now has such a committee, but the bulk of last summer's headline-making hearings on communism were conducted by a special subcommittee of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, headed by Senator Tydings (D., Md.). Tydings was roundly defeated in Tuesday's election. During the campaign, his Republican opponent, John Marshall Butler, accused Tydings of applying the whitewash brush to Reds-in-Government charges by Senator McCarthy (R., Wis.). Tydings hotly denied the charge.

McCarthy disclosed to newsmen that he is now planning to let fly at the State Department again in the immediae future, following up his earlier accusations that the department is honeycombed with Communists.

The Wisconsin Senator has had three investigators digging up new material since the Tydings committee wound up its inquiry.

GOP suggestions for a new Senate Un-American Activities Committee, or a joint committee with the House, may come up at a meeting of Senate Republicans called by Senator Taft (R., Ohio) on the first day of the forthcoming session of Congress.

Senator Mundt (R., S. D.) and freshman Senator Nixon (R., Calif.), his old colleague when both served on the House Un-American Activities Committee, were reported as strong advocates of setting up a new committee to deal with alleged subversives and carry on where the Tydings group left off.

Senator Hickenlooper (R., Iowa), who won reelection by a thumping majority, has also declared that a "genuine" investigation of the State Department is needed.

Hickenlooper and Senator Lodge (R., Mass.) were minority members of the Tydings committee, and refused to sign the committee report denouncing McCarthy.

As a result of Tuesday's elections, the Republicans will have 47 Senate seats to the Democrats' 49, and in a coalition with Southern Democrats they could easily swing control of the chamber.

Moreover, there is a chance that deaths and resignations might even wipe out the thin Democratic control of the new Senate, although it could work the other way, of course, and cut down on Republican strength.

Meanwhile, an Administration informant said legislation to strengthen and extend rent controls will be set before Congress shortly after the lawmakers return this month.

A spokesman said Housing Expediter Tighe Woods is receiving numerous complaints of tenants being "gouged," particularly in defense areas.

The spokesman said Woods' office has drawn up a bill to:

1. Extend rent ceilings automatically from December 31 to next March 31. Under present law, all controls end December 31 unless communities or their governing bodies vote to extend them to June 30, 1951.

2. Give the housing expediter authority to reimpose rent controls in housing shortage areas.

Marines Celebrate Birthday

The Washington Post

OBSERVANCE—Brig. Gen. Melvin J. Maas, USMCR, national president of the Marine Corps Reserve Officers Association, places a wreath at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier in observance of the 175th birthday of the United States Marine Corps

Nation's Armistice Day Rites Center at Soldier's Tomb Here

Formal tribute to America's war heroes will be paid at 11 a. m. today at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier, focal point of the Nation's Armistice Day observance.

Government officials, representatives of foreign powers, leaders of patriotic organizations, and others will participate in the ceremony in Arlington Cemetery.

Whether Mr. Truman would attend the ceremony, on the thirty-second anniversary of the signing of the Armistice in Compeigne Forest that brought to an end World War I, was still in doubt yesterday. At the White House it was said that no word had been received as to whether Mr. Truman, cruising on the Presidential yacht Williamsburg, would be present. If not, he will be represented by an aide.

Spectators are asked to arrive at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier before 10:45 a. m. for the wreath-laying ceremony.

Erle Cocke, jr., of Dawson, Ga., national commander of the American Legion, will give the chief address.

The United States Army Band and Chorus will provide music, and Rabbi David Lefkowitz, of Shreveport, La., the Legion's national chaplain, will give the invocation and benediction.

In an earlier ceremony, Gen. George C. Marshall will lay a wreath on the grave of his World War I chief, the late General of the Armies, John J. Pershing, in Arlington, cemetery and make a brief address.

The 10 a. m. ceremony is sponsored by the District, Virginia and Maryland departments of the Legion.

The Blue Star Mothers of America, led by Mrs. Hazel Rue Scott of Willoughby, Ohio, national president, will place a wreath in an 8:30 a. m. ceremony. Mrs. Scott will be accompanied by Miss Louise Yim, a Korean delegate to the United Nations. At 8:45 a. m., Col. B. C. Limb, Foreign Minister of Korea, will lay a wreath on behalf of the Republic of Korea's President Syngman Rhee.

A city-wide Armistice Day "Corporate Prayer for Peace," sponsored by the Christian Emphasis Committee of the Twelfth Street Branch, Y. M. C. A., will be held in Shiloh Baptist Church, 9th and P sts. nw. The Rev. Dr. Clarence W. Cranford, president of the Washington Federation of Churches, will lead the service. Cooperating organizations include the Methodist Preachers' Union, Baptist Ministers Conference, Interdenominational Ministers Alliance, Phyllis Wheatley YWCA and the Ministers Wives Council.

Special prayers for the safety of United Nations troops in Korea will be said at an Armistice Day mass to be celebrated at 10 a. m. today at St. Peter's Church, 2d and C sts. se., under auspices of the Catholic War Veterans Auxiliary, District of Columbia.

Celebrant of the mass will be the Rev. Martin W. Hyland, chaplain of the CWV Auxiliary, D. C. The Rev. Anthony Phole of Catholic University will preach.

Special masses will be celebrated in other Catholic churches.

Members of the American Veterans Committee will observe Armistice Day by contributing blood to blood banks in behalf of the Korean war effort.

Many other religious, patriotic and social events are scheduled for today.

Among them is a flag-raising ceremony at American Legion Post No. 131, at 4103 Lawrence st., Colmar Manor, Md., beginning at 11 a. m. Dancing is also planned by the post.

Numerous events in celebration of Armistice Day were also held last night.

In Alexandria, the annual VFW Citizenship Medal will be presented by Russell Mitchell Post, No. 609, Veterans of Foreign Wars, to Alexandria Police Sergt. Henry F. Grimm at ceremonies at the Veterans Memorial in Alexandria Union Station Plaza, 11 a. m.

Sergeant Grimm was chosen in recognition of his work with the city's AAA schoolboy patrols and for the improvement of the police boys' camp. The camp was named after his son, Herbert F. Grimm, who was killed in World War II.

4th Largest Farm Output Is Reported

By John W. Ball
Post Reporter

Only man-made laws limiting the number of acres of many crops a farmer could plant, kept this year's harvest from being close to the greatest in history.

As it is, the aggregate production of all the farms in the country this year is the fourth largest on record. Had farmers been permitted to plant without interference the total yields would have been tremendous.

Corn was slightly below last year in per acre yields. So was cotton. The only other crops that didn't exceed the 1949 per acre yield were buckwheat, beans, and soybeans.

Other Records Expected

Higher than last year were per acre yields of wheat (although still below average for the 10 years, 1939-48), oats, barley, rye, flaxseed, rice, sorghum grain, hay, peas, peanuts, potatoes, sweet potatoes and tobacco. Except soy wheat and flaxseed the other yields were higher than the average.

New per acre records were estimated by the Crop Reporting Board for rice, sorghum grain and potatoes. Per acre yields of barley, hay, soybeans, peanuts, tobacco, sweet potatoes and sugar beets are second highest of record. Several others are in the upper bracket.

The composite yield index, based on current estimates for 28 major crops, is 141 percent of the 1923-32 base. This is nearly up to that of 1949, and otherwise exceeded only by the 151 percent in 1948.

Outturns of most late-maturing crops improved in quality and quantity during October. Conditions were virtually ideal for maturing and harvesting in most of the country. Corn improved greatly, but production is estimated now at 3102 million bushels, 13 millions less than estimated October 1. This is 273 million bushels less than a year ago. Corn was one of the crops where the per acre yield fell below a year ago. This year's per acre yield is estimated at 37.4 bushels against 38.9 in 1949.

Area Output High

Generally the yield per acre of most crops were greater in the States nearby Washington than for the Nation as a whole.

Milk production per cow was above average in Maryland, but slightly below in Virginia and West Virginia. Egg production per 100 hens was below the national average in Maryland and West Virginia, but slightly above in Virginia.

Here is how production per acre, per hen or per cow in nearby States compares with the Nation as a whole:

Tito Aid Plans Forwarded to 'Hill' Leaders

Plans for immediate food relief to drought-stricken Yugoslavia, and a proposed program for longer term aid to be acted on by Congress, have been forwarded by the Administration to a dozen Congressional leaders, it was learned yesterday.

The White House has communicated with ranking foreign policy Senators and Representatives of both parties, it was understood, explaining the need for urgent action on the interim program, even though there is no explict Congressional direction to give aid to Marshal Tito's country.

That interim program, meantime, is said to be rapidly taking final shape. It entails the expenditure of about 35 million dollars. When Congress reconvenes, it will be asked to authorize another 60 million dollars, for aid in future months.

Bilateral Pact Planned

An important aspect of the immediate program is a contemplated bilateral agreement between Tito and the United States, under terms of the Mutual Defense Assistance Program.

As now proposed, the agreement would commit Yugoslavia to use the aid it gets in a way to bolster individual and joint measures of self defense, under terms of the United Nations charter. Also, Tito would undertake to stimulate the supply of strategic materials for joint defense purposes.

The bilateral agreement is not the sort which would bring Yugoslavia into the North Atlantic Treaty Organization on the same terms as the Western European nations. It would, however, strengthen previous commitments Tito has made to align his forces with the West against Russian aggression.

Food to Be Bought Here

If the agreement is signed, Yugoslavia would receive about 10 million dollars worth of MDAP funds with which to purchase food here. In this case, officials agree, food is in reality an item of defense and therefore can be legally supplied with MDAP funds.

For without food, there is grave danger of Tito losing control of Yugoslavia, with Kremlin Communists succeeding him. In that event, there would be lost, as a force in opposition to Russia, Yugoslavia's 30-odd army divisions.

As previously reported, the other 25 million dollars in the immediate relief program will come from the Export-Import Bank and the Economic Cooperation Administration.

The Export-Import Bank is making 13 million dollars of a loan previously granted to Tito available for food purchases, freight and transportation. The ECA is trans-shipping flour from Italy and Western Germany to Yugoslavia, promising to make up these amounts by future Marshall Plan shipments of wheat.

3 Powers Protest Russian Pressure On Austria Police

The United States, Britain and France protested to Moscow yesterday that Soviet authorities are interfering in the Austrian government's control over its police forces in the Soviet zone.

The protest arose out of the conduct of Soviet authorities last month during Communist demonstrations and riots in Austria.

The protest note was delivered to the Soviet foreign office in Moscow by American Ambassador Alan Kirk. The State Department said that Britain and France also made protests at the same time.

During the demonstrations in the Soviet zone on October 4, Russian military authorities in the city of Viener Neustadt obstructed the efforts of Austrian police to restore order and to take control of the federal post office from demonstrators.

The Soviet commander also ordered the Austrian police out of town, threatening them with action by Soviet troops.

Steel Output Hits High

NEW YORK, Nov. 10 (U.P.).—The Nation turned out more steel in October—8,718,978 tons—than in any previous month in history, the American Iron & Steel Institute reported today. The previous record month was May, 8,552,000 tons.

Letters to Stalin, Churchill and Mussolini are among the private letters of FDR's to be published in The Washington Post. The first installment of this series appears tomorrow in the Sunday Post.

Red Fire Knocks Out 2 B-29s at Sinanju

Two B-29 bombers were badly damaged by enemy fire in the North Korean fighting Thursday and only one was able to limp back to its base in Japan, the Defense Department reported yesterday.

An Air Force spokesman told a press briefing that the crew of the other bomber ditched their plane after three of its engines were knocked out, apparently by enemy fighter planes. It was flying in formation when attacked in the Sinanju area north of the thirty-eighth parallel.

The second plane managed to get back to its base in Japan where it crash-landed. The spokesman did not know whether it was hit by ground fire or attacked by Communist fighters.

He had no word on casualties.

An Air Force F-80 jet fighter was damaged in a fight with a Russian-built MIG-15 in the Sinanju area but the pilot escaped unhurt.

The Navy reported that Naval and Marine Corps carrier aircraft are continuing to strike North Korean troops and railroad and highway bridges.

"Frontline Express" Is Restored by Yanks

HAMHUNG, Korea, Nov. 10 (U.P.).—The "Frontline Express" is carrying United Nations forces and supplies to the northeast Korea front today. South Korean soldiers are running the battered trains, North Korean civilians operating the stations and a major from Texas bossing the show.

It is the first railway to be put back into operation in North Korea. Americans here call opening of a 153-mile track and repairing bullet-riddled engines a railroading miracle.

The railroad is under the control of Maj. Joseph W. Brantley, Fort Worth, Tex., Tenth Corps staff transportation officer. And he is mighty proud of its record of moving 2500 troops and 400 tons of cargo in one 24-hour period.

In some cases, fully loaded trains were dug out of bomb-sealed tunnels. One such train yielded 15 Yak plane engines and a large hog.

The Soviet-built engines were sent to the rear for study and the hog became the main dish in a Korean army mess.

First Lieut. C. J. Kuehle, St. Louis, said "I marvel at the way those engineers did this job. There wasn't a roundhouse or a set of tools left. They began the project with their bare hands."

3-Day Guatemala Vote Is Begun Peacefully

GUATEMALA, Nov. 10 (A.P.).—Guatemalans voted peacefully today in the first round of a three-day presidential election. The heaviest balloting is expected Saturday and Sunday.

There are 10 candidates in the field, with platforms ranging from extreme right to left. The election is regarded as critical for the country, which has known democracy for only six years.

Chinese Reds Aid Yanks; Let Many Escape

ON NORTHWEST FRONT, Korea, Nov. 10 (U.P.).—Chinese Communists in North Korea have given first-aid treatment to wounded Americans and have permitted them and large numbers of trapped United Nations troops to escape to friendly lines.

It is difficult to understand why they mounted such massacres as the Unsan assault—where two United Nations regiments were chopped up and sent into headlong retreat—and yet let so many able-bodied soldiers escape instead of annihilating them.

The most generally accepted reasoning among responsible officers and noncoms with whom I talked goes like this:

The Chinese are interested only in protecting the power and industrial plants south of the Yalu River border which over a period of many years has become essential to the Chinese economy.

They set out to establish a defense line roughly across the Sonchon-Unsan-Hamhung line, embracing the vital hydro-electric area but close enough to home to make the question of supply comparatively easy.

Now the Chinese will dig in and fight a political war in United Nations councils to win guarantees of access to the industrial strength south of the border.

Wounded GI at Walter Reed Calls Korea War 'Just Fun'

The Washington Post

WOUNDED—Pvt. Ersil Wright (left), of Mount Hope, W. Va., and Pvt. William C. Skinner, of 469 M st. sw., are recovering from their wounds at Walter Reed Hospital

By Bill Brinkley
Post Reporter

It was the shock of one's life to hear 18-year-old Pvt. Ersil Wright, lying in Walter Reed Hospital with a red scar a foot long up on his belly, describe the Korean war as "fun."

We take it, having heard many words but never that one applied to war, that Private Wright is either a born soldier or one of those reckless mountain boys like the Hatfields from West Virginia.

"It was fun," said the grinning private, who actually is from Mount Hope in the mountains of West Virginia. "They would load us down with ammo and we'd sit there a-firing it away on a mountain across the river, not a-knowing if there was North Koreans on it but knowin' if there was there wouldn't be for long, the amount of ammo we was puttin' on that hill.

"Then we'd go down and raid a village. That was some of the most fun of all, a-raidin' those villages."

Private Wright might have been a Sergeant York if a North Korean machine gun bullet had not got in his way at 4 a. m. on September 17.

"We'd been in convoy all day—8 a. m. to 12:30 p. m., walking just the last part when we got near the front. Then we slept until 3 a. m. by the river.

"So we got up then and the nine of us started across this river in a rowboat—only three oars, so couldn't paddle fast. We got 'most across, then this bullet came twistin' into me.

"The platoon sergeant, the medic and an engineer put me on a litter and carried me back across the river. It was shallow enough you could wade. I got wet on the litter, and it was right cold, but they got me back."

It was the end of Private Wright's war and he made the round trip to Walter Reed Hospital, where he had been stationed as a medic until July.

"I got married two weeks before I left. I though I was gettin' a furlough but I got papers which said 'Far Eastern Command.' Korea. But I got married here—Flora Lee's her name, from North Carolina, and after two weeks was off to Korea. No longer a medic—they made an infantryman out of me."

Also making the round trip back to Walter Reed was 30-year-old Pvt. William C. Skinner of 469 M st. sw., who was a military policeman at the hospital in 1947.

Skinner brought 74 pieces of shrapnel back with him in his arm.

Skinner served with the Third Army in Africa and Sicily, got out of the Army for 11 months after the war, then decided to get back in. His war in Korea lasted six days.

He was assigned to a mortar platoon but the night September 3 found him armed with an M-1 and grenades protecting a dug-in mortar squad. The enemy lobbed one over—mortar or artillery, he doesn't know which—and the war was over for Private Skinner.

Up until September 28 they tried to save that right arm. But finally they had to take it off 4 inches below the elbow.

Those 11 months he was out of the Army Private Skinner, who's married and has a child, was a truck driver. He won't be driving a truck again but he's already shopping around for a business.

Plea for U. N. Intervention in Tibet Reported

NEW DELHI, Nov. 10 (A.P.).—Tibet has appealed directly to the United Nations to intervene in the Chinese Communist invasion of that little Himalayan country, usually reliable sources said today. These informants reported the appeal was made Wednesday.

The Indian Foreign Ministry said it had not received any intimation from the Tibetan government about the appeal, but Foreign Ministry officials conferred with Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru and cabinet ministers on matters including the latest Tibetan developments.

(There was no word from U. N. headquarters at Lake Success that Tibet's appeal had been received there.)

Sources close to the government said Tibet had declared the Chinese aggression unprovoked and staged at a time when Tibet, at China's suggestion, had asked a Tibetan delegation to proceed to Peiping in an effort to settle Chinese-Tibetan differences.

The Chinese Embassy said it had heard the news of Tibet's appeal to the U. N. from the Indian government radio, but had no comment.

Reports reaching here from Uttar Pradesh state said security measures along the Tibet-Nepal borders had been tightened after a top-level conference in the state's capital of Lucknow between Chief Minister G. B. Pant, Police Minister L. B. Shastri and Maj. Gen. Misri Chand, general officer commanding Uttar Pradesh state.

Refugee King Tribhuvana Bir Bikram of Nepal and his family will arrive here by special planes Saturday as guests of the Indian government, the Foreign Ministry announced.

The 44-year-old king was deposed in a bloodless coupe last Monday after he fled from his palace to the Indian embassy at Katmandu, his capital. He was replaced on the throne by his 3-year-old grandson Gyanendra, by governmental groups headed by Nepal's powerful Prime Minister.

Hagerstown Man Among 5 Surviving in Company of 164

WITH FIRST CAVALRY DIVISION, Korea, Nov. 10 (U.P.).—Five men shivered in the early morning damp. Five men in green fatigues and brown sweaters.

These five were left. Five out of 164. There's nobody else around in "Fox" company who made the original landing with the First Cavalry Division in Korea and stayed on, alive and uninjured.

There were 164 men in "Fox" company of the Fifth Cavalry Regiment when it landed with the division at Pohang July 18. "Fox" company went into the line and stayed. The battles cut down the men. Each fight was like a scythe—Yongdong, Kumchon-Cherjye, Waegwan and Hill 303, Shindo and Hill 203.

"Fox" was the first company to cross the thirty-eighth parallel as an organized rifle company, although others had sent patrols across earlier. It spearheaded the attack into Pyongyang—the assault company of the assault battalion.

Time and again it was drained of men. After Yongdong, on July 26, "Fox" Company had only 13 men. It was built up again. Then, by the time it attacked Hill 203, September 16, it was down to 13 men again.

These five remained — and watched the replacements take the places of the dead and wounded. By now, a few of those who made the landing and were wounded in the Korean fighting have returned to the company from hospitals. But only these five came through alive and unhurt.

We went into a room of a Korean elementary school and sat around a crude iron stove, and the five listed their names:

Corp. Thomas P. Little, 19 of Cochrane, Ga.; Sergt. Frederick L. Smith, 23, of (1001 Main ave.) Hagerstown, Md., first cook; Corp. Thomas L. Kirkham, 20, of Delight—that's right—Ark., company supply; Sgt. Norman D. Powers, 20, of War—yep, War—W. Va., company clerk; and Sgt. Alvin Urbanke, 26, of Saratoga Springs, N. Y., a mortar squad leader.

They were five typical G.I.'s who had been through occupation duty in Japan. When they were asked what they intended to do when the war is over, none hesitated for an answer.

"Reenlist," said Little.

"Six more years, and then get out," said Smith. "I'll try to go back then to my old job as a pressman on the Hagerstown newspaper."

"I got 17 more years to go before I reach the Army 20-year retirement mark," Kirkham said.

"You're not going to shoot for 30?"

"I'll think about that at the end of 20," Kirkham replied.

"I've got a long time to go, too, before retirement," said Powers. "I've only got three and a half years in now."

All of the five who came through have been recommended for medals.

Normandy Picture Had a Prototype

By Richard L. Coe

ARMISTICE DAY finds the Warner with a picture about American infantrymen battling from the Normandy beaches to St. Lo.

The picture is aided by official shots from Defense and newsreel company files of the actual fighting. The story emphasizes the relationships of the men, in particular how a newcomer to a squad makes good, and the humorous surface talk sounds reasonably likely, though I wouldn't know.

The Army, through information chief Maj. Gen. Floyd Parks, describes it as "true to life and the whole picture a commentary on the heroic and difficult part played by the foot soldiers in modern combat."

David Brian, John Agar and Frank Lovejoy have the leads in a story by Joseph L. Breen, jr., and Lewis Seiler has directed.

To a regular movie-goer, the disadvantages of "Breakthrough" are evident, especially since only a year ago M-G-M produced a similar film, "Battleground." In that one the story hinged on the Christmas '44 battles of the Ardennes Forest. The personalities of the infantry squad were similarly depicted, the tough-gentle sergeant, the thin, lonely soldier, the lively comic, et al. There was even an excuse for a French girl, Denise Darcel, whose role in the rival studio's production is now played by a new French girl, Suzanne Dalbert, who is, as you've learned from the ads, "The girl who put the whammo in their ammo."

In short, "Breakthrough" is the sincerest compliment yet given Metro's "Battleground," and whoever thought up the title must also be a numerologist.

"BREAKTHROUGH," a Warner Brothers release, produced by Bryan Foy, directed by Lewis Seiler, screenplay by Bernard Girard and Ted Sherdeman from a story by Joseph L. Breen, jr. At the Warner.

THE DEATH of young Sam Keller yesterday morning was a sad shock to Washington's theatrical circles . . . Sam had seemed to be recovering from the heart ailment which had caused him to give up his job as press representative of the National Theater . . . He was such a fine fellow, quiet, sincere and truly heartbroken about the fate of the National . . . Sam loved the theatre and when he first took the job he was in his element; then came the theater's switch to movies and the long months of uncertain hoping that a compromise solution might be found . . . Sam, slight and taut, had his heart broken, and I shall always doubly treasure a book he gave me: "For your patience and my persistence," he'd written . . . Funeral services will be held at Danzansky's on Sunday morning at 10.

"LOST IN THE STARS" closes tonight in Chicago, thereby canceling several months of a road tour which was to have brought that fine musical to the Gayety for two weeks starting December 18 . . . This leaves Manager Bernie Ferber without a booking for the years' traditionally best weeks, Christmas and New Year's . . . It also leaves Washington without a hearing of a deeply moving, beautifully scored work by the late Kurt Weill.

THE PLAYWRIGHTS' COMPANY, producers of the Anderson-Weill musical, are inclined never again to send a production to Chicago, where the closing is generally ascribed to the Tribune's phenomenally influential Claudia Cassidy . . . Since "Anne of a Thousand Days," Miss Cassidy has been carrying on a feud with Writer Anderson, which continued in her review of "Lost in the Stars." . . . Previously the show had been paying its way, but during the first half of its projected Chicago month it dropped $20,000, and since the initial cost hadn't yet been paid off, and running costs were close to $25,000 a week, the producers had no choice, New York informed me yesterday on the phone.

THE METROPOLITAN will hold "The Great Dan Patch" and "The Admiral Was a Lady" through tomorrow only, with Errol Flynn taking over Monday in "Rocky Mountain," seen recently at the Warner.

"LEND AN EAR," which got unanimous applause from all the local reviewers, seems to be proving what we all prefer to think is a questionable point about Washington theatergoers . . . Potential ticket-buyers seem to be asking, "Who's in it?" and since it offers no highly publicized stars, are inclined to pass it up . . . This is too bad, since the revue is one of the brightest and most uproarious of recent years, even though the capable, likable cast presents no big names. There's a matinee today, and, if the phrase weren't so worthless, I'd say I guarantee you'll enjoy those sketches.

E. M. LOEW'S Open Air drive-in on the Richmond highway closes for the season tomorrow night, and what happens to the kiddies' pony you'll have to ask Manager Don King . . . Today the features are "Sorrowful Jones" and "Streets of Loredo," tomorrow "Speed to Spare" and "The Unconquered."

BOB PORTERFIELD, the Barter Theater's panjandrum extraordinary, rushes word to remind you that his "The Comedy of Errors" production, to be shown Monday night at Arlington's Washington-Lee High, has been directed by Margaret Perry . . . The daughter of the late, resourceful Antoinette (in whose memory those "Tony" awards are made) has done a "magnificent job—not trying to influence you, of course," writes Bob.

IN BRIEF: "The Little Ballerina" will have two children's morning matinee today at the Plaza, 9:30 and 11 o'clock; at 12:45, "A Run for Your Money" resumes its merry way . . . The Children's Museum of Washington, which holds the American franchise on those amusing Pollock Toy Theaters, reports they are for sale at the Book Mart on the south side of F between 8th and 9th . . . "The Curious Savage," which Lillian Gish played at the Gayety, will close in New York a week from tonight.

THE BIG HIT: "All About Eve," at the Palace, is getting the biggest play from the movie-going public our town has seen in months. Here are Celeste Holm, Hugh Marlowe and Bette Davis listening to "Eve" tell a big whopper about her scurvy self. A lively, sophisticated comedy, it gives Miss Davis her best role, though old "Of Human Bondage" fans may differ

Gable and Stanwyck Create An Anachronistic Picture

By Orval Hopkins
Post Reporter

THE movie called "To Please a Lady," at the Capitol, is an anachronism. No other word for it. Clark Gable and Barbara Stanwyck might have made it 20 years ago, and perhaps did, for all I know. With the single exception of the use of a television screen, everything in the picture could have happened a generation ago and have been in keeping with the times—more in keeping than "To Please a Lady" is, let me add.

The film is about a race driver who tangles with a lady columnist. They row, then they make it up and become sweethearts. Then they row again, and then they make it up again. It's old stuff. It's stale. Why do people like Clarence Brown, who produced and directed this and who has been around long enough to know better, do these things?

Gable is the same old Gable. He crinkles up his forehead, he waggles his eyebrows, he puckers his lips. He speaks roughly to the lady, he slaps her, he masterfully kisses her, he walks stiffnecked from the room. At that, he's but a shell, as they say, of the prewar Clark Gable.

Miss Stanwyck is the routine portrait of a high-powered business woman. She strides around through a building dictating to a covey of underlings at her heel. She assiduously dictates her column to a machine (I happen to know one or two columnists who actually write their own copy. Adolphe Menjou is in this, too. He deserves better work than stooging for the likes of Barbara Stanwyck.

The racing shots, not to entirely raspy here, are authentic and, for the most part, exciting. Also, there is a mildly amusing sequence when Gable catches Miss Stanwyck writhing, quite alone, on a couch.

All in all, you'd have to say this one is the malarkey. Clark Gable's a big boy now. Seems to me M-G-M, which sponsord this production, could find something for him to do in which he could act his age.

Kay DeWitt and Roy Roberts lead off the live show with some tidy musical comedy items, and Janis Paige tops the stage department with a few songs. Also, on the bill are Bobby Sargent, an earnest young humorist; the bars, and the Duanos, a dance team.

"TO PLEASE A LADY," A Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer release, produced by Clarence Brown, directed by Brown, story and screenplay by Barre Lyndon and Marge Decker. At the Capitol.

Trio Beats, Robs Arlington Man, 58

A 58-year-old Arlington man, who told police he was severely beaten by three men and robbed of $18, was in fair condition at Arlington Hospital last night.

John G. Spencer told police he was crossing a vacant lot on his way home, 1353 S. 28th st., Thursday night when the men attacked and robbed him near S. Glebe and Arlington Ridge rds. Neighbors who heard cries for help summoned police. Spencer was taken to the hospital by the Jefferson Rescue Squad and had 21 stitches taken on his face and head. Police said they were hunting the thugs.

Italian Chamber Votes Defense Participation

ROME, Nov. 10 (U.P.).—The Italian chamber of deputies voted 268 to 132 tonight to support the Christian Democratic government's participation in the proposed European defense force.

The deputies defeated a move by leftwing Socialist Leader Pietro Nenni which would have barred Italian participation.

In a second vote, the chamber expressed its approval by a show of hands to a motion expressing support for the formation of a unified European army with German participation.

Ohio Man Is Indicted In "Voice" Tower Blast

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Nov. 10 (U.P.).—Herman F. Kinner, 38-year-old former mental patient, was indicted by a Federal Grand Jury today on a charge of dynamiting a voice of America antenna tower at nearby Bethany, Ohio.

Kinner was arrested October 25 at El Paso, Tex. He confessed to FBI agents that he touched off a box of dynamite at the base of the antenna September 17 because he had been "hearing voices."

15,000 Guerillas Lie in Wait Across Borders, Greeks Charge

LAKE SUCCESS, Nov. 10 (NYHT).—Amid Greek charges that 15,000 Greek guerillas remain ready in Cominform Albania and Bulgaria for potential attack or subversive efforts in Greece, the United States and four other nations today called for extending the life of the three-year-old United Nations special committee on the Balkans for another year.

The five-nation resolution was introduced in the Assembly Political Committee by Australia, France, Pakistan, Great Britain and the United States, all members of the nine-nation Balkan watchdog group.

Jean Politis, Greek permanent Undersecretary for Foreign Affairs, indorsed the proposal, and introduced a separate Greek resolution urging U. N. and International Red Cross efforts to repatriate 1300 Greek government soldiers being held in Cominform states.

Despite cessation of organized guerilla resistance after the Greek army's victories in the Grammos Mountain area 14 months ago, the five-power resolution said "there remains a threat to the political independence and territorial integrity of Greece."

Soviet-bloc opposition to the Balkan committee's extension is certain. But today the only speaker for the bloc, Poland's Juliusz Katz-Suchy, limited himself to asking the United Nations to circulate a dozen documents from various groups protesting alleged Greek concentration camp conditions and death sentences.

One document cited by Dr. Katz-Suchy, dated yesterday, was a telegram claiming the Greek crew of the Honduras-flag ship Omeros was being taken from the vessel in Kiel, Germany, for imprisonment or execution in Greece.

The crew, according to a Federation of Greek Maritime Unions' telegram, had signed on in the United States, and holds discharge in Germany is illegal. The appeal sought United Nations intervention with British occupation authorities to obtain asylum for the crew as political refugees.

Little Assembly Given 'Good Offices' Proposal

LAKE SUCCESS, Nov. 10 (AP).—The United Nations political committee today recommended that the year-round Little Assembly study a Yugoslav proposal for a permanent "good offices" committee to help settle international disputes.

Yugoslavia had asked for approval of the plan at the present session of the General Assembly. The vote to shunt the plan to the Little Assembly, known officially as the interim committee, was 46 to 5, with five abstaining.

The Soviet bloc countries cast the negative votes. They argued that the whole question should be tossed out, since the question of mediating disputes was one for the Security Council to handle.

Soldier Ordered Held In Rape of Girl

Richard L. Beall, jr., 19-year-old Army private, said by police to be AWOL from his Alaska base, was held without bond for the grand jury yesterday on charges he raped an 11-year-old girl.

He waived a hearing before Trial Magistrate James R. Miller in Bethesda Police Court. Beall was arrested November 6, shortly after the attack is alleged to have taken place in his Bethesda home.

Italy Names Navy Chief

ROME, Nov. 10 (U.P.).—Admiral Massimo Girosi was appointed commander in chief of Italian naval forces today. He succeeds Admiral Romeo Oliva, who held that post for two years.

No Basis in Fact

Cab Driver, Marine Freed In Robbery

The District grand jury ignored on Monday a robbery charge which had been placed against a Marine and a cab driver here.

Cleared of the charge was Pfc. Irving L. Hook, jr., 18, of Quantico, Va., and George W. Whalen, 25, of Rockville, Md.

The complaining witness was Upton Perrell, 58, of 1217 33d st. nw., who told police that after a wild ride into Virginia on October 24, he was robbed of $17 at knifepoint.

Both men charged denied complicity. Hook said that the accusation had no basis in fact.

1-Pound Infant Dies

HAMILTON, Ont., Nov. 10 (U.P.).—Six-day-old Jerris Davis, who weighed one pound at birth, died today. The tiny girl, born to Mrs. Bert Davis, 28-year-old wife of a Hamilton plumber, had been kept alive in an incubator.

Robeson Suit Dismissal Is Refused by Court

NEW YORK, Nov. 10 (U.P.).—A Federal judge today refused to dismiss a two million dollar damage suit brought by singer Paul Robeson and 27 others against officials and residents of Westchester County, where the 1949 Peekskill riots occurred.

Federal Judge Sylvester J. Ryan said the plaintiffs will have a choice between trial by judge or by jury. The court dismissed an individual complaint in which Robeson charged that his constitutional rights as a Negro had been violated.

Britain Due to Reveal Plan for Asia Nov. 21

LONDON, Nov. 10 (U.P.).—Official quarters today said that details of a giant investment plan for aid to southern Asia drawn up by Commonwealth finance ministers at a meeting in London last month would be published as a White Paper probably on November 21.

The plan is top secret pending its submission to Parliament, but unofficial estimates put the total planned expenditure at about two billion pounds ($5,600,000,000).

Jury Seeks Tin Box In Inspector's Death

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 10 (AP).—Federal grand jury investigators continued their search today for a tin box mentioned in a memorandum left by former Police Vice Squad Inspector Craig D. Ellis, who committed suicide the day he was to have appeared before the jurors.

Ellis' keys led to one discovery the investigators considered important yesterday. With one of the eight keys they opened a compartment in a large safe in Ellis' city hall office and found a sheaf of six typewritten sheets of paper. On the paper was listed what the investigators described as names and addresses of known gamblers in Philadelphia and in Pennsylvania and neighboring States.

Investigators also said they had found "something very important" but decliend to identify what it is, saying only, "it is a great help to us and must have further investigation."

Search of Ellis' home and office was made after the grand jury investigating gambling in the Philadelphia metropolitan area heard Mrs. Ellis and her attorney, Yale L. Schekter.

Neither was able to clear up the mystery of the initials, "O.P.D.", listed on a paper found on Ellis' body when he ended his life. The memorandum listed the initials as the source of $14,000 in gifts.

Relief was expressed by Mrs. Ellis the initials referred to the brother of Craig's mother, Oliver P. Dicken of Baltimore. Investigation in the Maryland city showed Dicken was a gardener who died and left an estate of $3,675.46.

Dicken's attorney, Walter J. Boggs, said in Baltimore he handled the estate eight years ago and there was nothing to indicate Dicken had ever had anything like $14,000.

Dicken's daughter in Richmond, Va., Mrs. Jean D. Harrison, said her father was fond of Ellis and the police inspector "was almost like a son to him."

Mrs. Harrison said it was possible Dicken had made a cash gift to Ellis before he died. Boggs said he was certain it couldn't have happened.

Britain Pares Attendance at 'Peace' Parley

LONDON, Nov. 10 (U.P.).—Extra immigration officials, assigned to ports and air fields to screen delegates arriving for the Communist "peace" congress, today were expected to help pare attendance from 2100 to 700.

The British "peace" committee said there was no chance of calling off the meeting, scheduled to open in the steel city of Sheffield Monday, because of the government's tough policy toward the delegates who could be potential subversives.

'Rump' Session Likely

There was a definite prospect, however, that a "rump" session may be held in Prague, Czechoslovakia, with the "big name" delegates from Russia, East Europe and Asia meeting there instead of Sheffield.

Refusal of visas to more than half the Soviet delegation, plus cancellation of 18 chartered flights scheduled to bring some 500 delegates here over the weekend, left Prague hotels jammed with Russians, Chinese and others who had hoped to attend.

(The Red Party paper, Pravda, in Moscow said 40 Soviet delegates were refused visas, including Dmitri Shostakovich, composer; Ilya Ehrenbourg, Konstantin Simonov, David Zaslavsky and Nikolai Tikhonov, writers; Metropolitan Nikolai Krutitsky, a high church official, and president of Moscow University A. N. Nesmeyanov.)

Immigration officers at London Airport today detained six persons arriving from France and one from the United States. Five of the French were returned to Paris. The American was the Rev. John Paul Jones, moderator of the Presbyterian Church, Bay Ridge, Brooklyn, who said he was chairman of the National Peace Conference of America. After two hours of questioning he was permitted to enter.

Some 40 to 50 American delegates are expected, the bulk of them tomorrow at Southampton aboard the S. S. America. Among them will be O. John Rogge, former United States Assistant Attorney General.

Still Found in Prison

MCALESTER, Okla., Nov. 10 (AP).—A 10-gallon whisky still and a batch of mash was discovered today inside the walls of Oklahoma State Penitentiary here.

Mrs. Roosevelt writes the foreword to FDR's personal letters. The first installment of this important correspondence will appear tomorrow in The Washington Post.

Allied Planes Seek to Stop Red Chinese Troops at Border of Chongjin, 80 miles from the Siberian border.

In the third straight day of the heavy air blows, navy planes pounded the six major Yalu River crossing points used by the Chinese Communists in throwing at least 60,000 troops into North Korea.

The main railway and highway bridge at Sinuiju, near the mouth of the boundary river, was hit at least six times by bombs. The bridge was not claimed to be knocked out, although it was damaged.

But a Navy release said, however, that upstream bridges at Chongsong and Kanggu were left unusable by bomb hits.

Other carrier-based planes scored four hits on the railroad bridge across the Yalu at Manpojin, also upstream from Sinuiju. The bridge is another major Chinese Communist crossing point.

Air Force planes destroyed eight Russian-made tanks southeast of Sinuiju. Jets destroyed 25 trucks there.

Pilots reported anti-aircraft fire was heavy from both sides of the Yalu River.

An Army spokesman in Washington said the estimated 60,000 Red Chinese already in North Korea would be hard to drive from the rugged North Korean mountains. The Chinese and an estimated 60,000 North Korean Reds have joined forces there.

So fast did the Marines in the northeast move that they captured cooked food, machine guns and mortars abandoned by a Chinese Communist division fading back before them.

This was at Koto, 8 miles south of the big Changjin reservoir. Patrols were but 3 miles from the reservoir, field dispatches said.

The seized power plant was practically intact. The Changjin reservoir and a sister one at Pujon, 15 miles to the east, supply much of Korea's industrial power and a part of that used by Mukden, Manchuria.

U. S. Seventh Division troops striking from the east were 15 miles from the Pujon reservoir.

On the east coast, the South Korean Capital Division advanced 15 miles to within 85 miles of the Siberian border. It was closing in on the battered port of Chongjin.

There was little activity on the western end of the front, where United States and British troops had pushed ahead 4 to 5 miles Thursday.

A spokesman for the First Corps, said patrols in northwest Korea kept contact with enemy troops throughout the day but the main enemy force still had not been found.

Reinforcements for the Reds were seen rushing south from Manchuria.

The harbor of Chinnampo, port for Pyongyang, was cleared of mines and United States ships began bringing in supplies there for the first time. The cleared harbor will take a lot of pressure off the air lift.

On the east coast an entire Marine battalion attacked at dawn today to try to rescue a 60-man Marine patrol cut off 12 miles west of the industrial city of Hamhung.

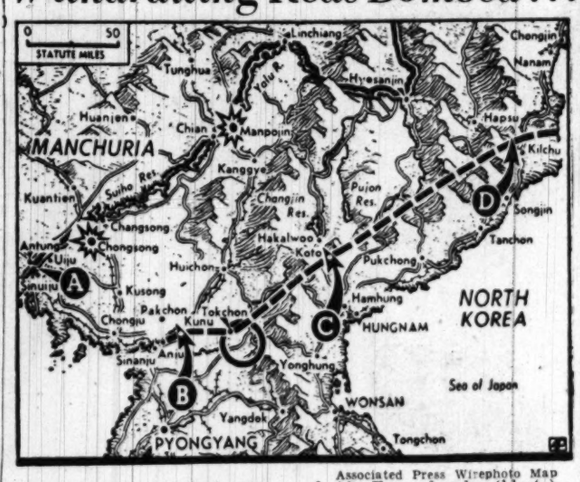

AP Correspondent Ben Price reported 17 Marines who escaped said the patrol was being attacked from three sides by approximately 2000 Red stragglers.

A Tenth Corps spokesman said a new Chinese-North Korean holding line was materializing around Kapsan, 18 miles above Pungsan on the U. S. Army's Seventh division front northeast of the Marines' sector.

Aerial observers reported heavy movement north of the Changjin reservoir, where two new Chinese divisions are believed to be stationed.

Marine Corsair pilots reported they killed 250 Communists near Meijon and destroyed two Red tanks below Changjin.

U. S. UNITS LINKUP—Navy and Air Force bombs (blasts) rained on the Yalu River crossings yesterday as Chinese Reds continued withdrawing in Korea. Particularly hard hit was the rail-highway crossing (A) between Antung and Sinuiji where most of the Chinese crossed the border. Circle marks the linkup of elements of the United States Eighth Army and Tenth Corps southeast of Tokchon. Elsewhere on the ground British and United States drives (B) moved north of Kunu while United States Marines (C) entered Koto. South Koreans (D) pushed 11 miles north of Kilchu. Collazo Indicted for Murder at Blair House covering from his wounds, to District Jail. He was able to walk to the marshal's automobile.

Fay has refused to say whose gun fired the shot which killed Coffelt. Under the indictment, it could be either or neither of the defendants who actually did the killing.

The count naming the President said that the defendants while trying to break into the Blair House intended to "assault with dangerous weapons and to assault with intent to kill, and with intent to murder, the President of the United States, who was then within said dwelling and building, and any other persons or persons who might be therein present with him or guarding him."

23 Witnesses Testify

The indictment does not necessarily end the possiblity that a charge of conspiracy involving the attempted "liberation" of Puerto Rico, as wished by the defendants, will be placed.

Some 23 witnesses gathered by the FBI, Secret Service and the Metropolitan Police Department, testified before the grand jury.

The 22 grand jurors present, after voting the indictment, filed into the almost-empty courtroom of Judge Tamm. The jurist read the indictment carefully and then ordered the grand jurors to resume deliberations into any matters before them.

The indictment was handled to the judge by the foreman, Lloyd Wilson, a real estate man.

Torresola Is Buried In San Juan Outskirts

SAN JUAN, P. R., Nov. 10 (U.P.).—The body of Griselio Torresola, who tried to assassinate President Truman, was buried today, five hours after its arrival from New York by plane.

Burial took place at the Isle Verde municipal cemetery in San Juan's outskirts, instead of in Torresola's native town of Jayuya. Only a small group of relatives, including Torresola's aged mother, his sister Angelina and a brother-in-law, were present.

U. N. Jolts Malik, Votes Action on China, 10-0 fraught with danger; Sir Gladwyn Jebb of the United Kingdom declared that "continued intervention by Chinese forces in Korea would have the most serious and unforeseeable consequences."

Ambassador Austin, for the United States, reported dramatically that two B-29s had been forced down by "Russian-type fighters operating from Manchuria." Pinning responsibility squarely on the Chinese Communist leaders, Austin declared:

"Whatever their motivation, the fact of intervention cannot be excused, condoned or ignored. Intervention must cease. The forces of the U. N. engaged in Korea are entitled to our immediate and constant support.

"The objective of the resolution before you is to localize the conflict. Vigorous pursuit of that objective cannot be delayed. The attitude of this Council toward that resolution may save the Peiping regime from a grave and tragic miscalculation."

Even Sir Benegal Rau of India, whose government declined to send troops or to serve on the Korean commission, said the situation in Korea "is so dangerous and so explosive that the great need of the hour is to lessen tension and remove fear." He thought it right to introduce the resolution now, but urged giving the Peiping regime "a reasonable time" to send representatives here before discussing it.

It was Malik himself who cleared up the mystery of the whereabouts of the Chinese Communist delegation, which had been invited here September 29 to discuss the Formosa question on or after November 15, and was again invited last Wednesday to attend the discussion of MacArthur's report.

Malik hinted that the delegation was still in Peiping, and he later confirmed the hint more explicitly in corridor conversation with other delegates. He pleaded the great distance between Peiping and Lake Success, and argued that "even with modern machines that distance cannot be covered in a moment, all the more so when communications between the two points are complicated by climatic conditions at this time of year over a wide area."

If the State Department in Washington had not delayed issuing visas to the Chinese emissaries, Malik went on, they might already be in New York. Here he had a point; for U. N. officials later confirmed that the State Department from October 25 until November 7—election day—before answering a request from Secretary General Trygve Lie to make entry visas available.

Here is the chronology, as U. N. official researches determined it:

October 23—Foreign Minister Chou En-lai in Peiping told the U. N. that nine persons were coming by way of Prague, and asked the U. N. to make the necessary arrangements.

October 25—The U. N. made a formal request to the State Department, and also told the Peiping authorities it had done so.

November 7—The State Department told the U. N. that the necessary visas would be issued at Prague; the U. N. immediately notified Peiping.

November 8—The State Department publicly announced that it would issue visas to the Chinese Communist emissaries. On the same day the U. N. cabled Peiping the reassurances voted by its interim commission on Korea, and at night forwarded the new invitation from the Security Council.

Nov. 9.—The United Nations told Peiping it had asked the director of its office in Prague to be available for help, and also said it would appreciate knowing when the Peiping delegation expected to arrive.

So far, not a word of reply has come to the United Nations' last three messages to Peiping, and the Chinese have not yet applied for their visas.

Malik did not fail to mention the fact that the State Department delayed its decision until election day. He said the whole episode showed the United States had been "hypocritical" in agreeing to invite the Chinese Communists here.

Why all the hurry now? Malik asked. You would think there was a fire, he said—a remark that drew a sharp rejoinder from Sir Gladwyn Jebb that "the house is on fire, and my delegation, at any rate, feels we must recognize this fact."

Malik took 45 minutes for his speech of protest, which, with the English and French translations, took about two hours of the Council's time. He first objected on procedural grounds: he then argued that the Council could not possibly discuss the Korean issue without the presence of the Chinese Communists.

Suppose foreign troops under a foreign general "notoriously hostile" to the United States were marching northward in Mexico, he said, and suppose the U.N. were discussing the question; would the United States Government let it be discussed without the participation of an American representative?

Finally, Malik launched into a bitter personal attack on General MacArthur as a man who "hates" the people of China and of all Asia, and whose report of November 5 was "biased and tendentious." Only the participation of the Chinese Communists, he said, could hasten a settlement of the Korean problem; and he defined "settlement" to mean the withdrawal of all non-Korean forces from Korean soil.

In spite of Malik's argument rather than because of it, most members of the Council felt the Chinese should have a few days, at least, to get here. Accordingly, the debate on the six-nation resolution was deferred until after the weekend, and the Council adjourned subject to call by Ales Babler of Yugoslavia, its present chairman.

Alaska Volcano May Warm GIs

The possibility of "tapping" Alaskan and Aleutian volcanoes to warm American armed forces in the event of war was suggested yesterday by Dr. H. E. Landsberg of the Government's Research and Development Board. He said it warrants investigation.

"It's been done already, to a limited extent, in Naples, where people utilize steam coming from ground gaps near volcanic Vesuvius to run their laundries," he added.

"In theory at least, there's no reason why we couldn't pump water into the ground near volcanoes of Alaska and the Aleutian chain so that it would reach a level sufficiently hot to convert it into steam and then come out through natural gaps.

"If it did prove practical, it would be a source of steam for heat and perhaps power applicable for peacetime as well as wartime purposes."

14-Pound Ice Hunks From Sky Mystify Britain

EXETER, England, Nov. 10 (U.P.).—A 14-pound hunk of ice which apparently fell out of the sky and killed a sheep on Edward Latham's farm the other day has started a whopping mistery in these parts.

Latham found the sheep dead with a deep wound in the neck. Nearby the hunk of ice lay buried inches deep in the rocky Exmoor ground.

Latham looked around. In nearby fields and along the roadway he found other hunks of ice, almost as large as the one that apparently killed his sheep.

The Air Ministry's meteorological experts say they don't know the answer. They say the biggest hailstones on record in England were mere two-inch specimens and that they did not believe 14-pound blocks could be formed in England by natural causes.

The Royal Air Force says it could not have been an airplane that dropped the ice because all RAF planes are equipped with de-icing apparatus.

a few luxurious apartments still available for immediate occupancy

Never before such a wealth of luxury, at such ordinary rentals. This magnificent new addition to Quebec House offers bright, spacious rooms, all with outside locations. There are picture windows, huge closets, parquet floors. And services run the gamut from parking facilities to a secretarial switchboard.

Efficiency and One-Bedroom Apartments

Surprisingly, efficiencies with large dressing rooms and full kitchens, including dinettes, rent for as little as $85; the larger 1-bedroom apartments are modestly priced from as little as $115.

Open for inspection weekdays from 4:30 to 8 P.M. Saturdays from 2-8 P.M.; Sundays 12-8 P.M.

(After hours inquire at Quebec House South)

Washington's most desirable new address, 2801 Quebec Street N.W., overlooks beautiful Rock Creek Park, just east of Connecticut Avenue's fine shopping district.

Prince Georges Cleanup

Until Tuesday Prince Georges County had the reputation of being run pretty much like an old-fashioned mining town. The Democratic machine bosses gave a minimum of concessions to newcomers during a 25-year reign in which the county population grew from 50,000 to 193,000. Nepotism on county payrolls was flagrant, the county a gamblers' paradise, and such pressing problems as schools and zoning had to be practically thrust down the throats of officials at Upper Marlboro before anything was done. John F. Lillard, jr., one of the Republicans elected to the Maryland House of Delegates, probably described the astounding sweep of Republican candidates accurately when he said that the people of Prince Georges County were "fed up." A key to where much of the revolt came from, and why, also may be seen in the dour comment of Representative Lansdale G. Sasscer, one of the few Democratic holdovers, that one of the main causes of defeat was the "apartment vote" of "uninformed" newcomers.

It would be hard to say which of the factors in the general public discontent had the most influence. Certainly no decent citizen could have been proud of his county's reputation with respect to crime. Yet a former sheriff who admitted taking $22,000 in graft from gamblers is still unindicted on this charge. Almost unbelievable overcrowding in the schools—a condition described graphically by Agnes E. Meyer in her series in this newspaper last winter—no doubt had a great deal to do with the upset. Prince Georges, of course, is not a wealthy county, and it would be foolish to think that any miracles can be wrought in the way of new revenue for schools. A great deal can be done, however, to make more effective use of available money. Civic groups such as the League of Women Voters have been strong in their insistence upon streamlined county government. It is significant that State Senator L. Harold Sothoron, the author of an interim bill which many felt was a smokescreen to prevent real reform of the county government, went down to defeat.

Republicans have been lavish in their promises of reform, advocating among other things a scientific study of the county government, an effort to obtain the county manager plan, a shakeup of law enforcement and a cleanup of gambling and racketeering. This is a big order which will bring many new problems, and it is a big responsibility. Republicans would do well to remember in this connection that their victory was possible only with the support of many independents and disgusted Democrats. As the victors embark with good wishes upon their task, we hope that the citizens and civic groups who voted for clean government will continue to keep a watchful eye on what is being done.

Telephone Walkout

Telephone service in many parts of the country has been disrupted by the strike of some 17,000 installation and warehouse employes of the Western Electric Co., an A. T. & T. subsidiary, because of the refusal of nonstriking unionized employes of operating companies to cross picket lines. Although nondial telephone service has been hard hit, A. T. & T. officials declare that dial systems can work indefinitely and that long-distance service is not likely to be seriously interrupted for "some time." Such assurances will not allay public concern over the possibility of a Nation-wide walkout of telephone employes that would eventually tie up an essential communications system and have a most injurious effect on trade and industry.

At any time, but especially at a time when the country is feverishly mobilizing its resources to build up its defenses, a few thousand disgruntled workers should not be permitted to prolong a strike that might do incalculable damage. If a settlement is not reached within a few days the Government should invoke the emergency provisions of the Taft-Hartley Act—the only weapon at its disposal to deal with strikes that threaten to imperil the national health or safety. To be sure, workers would be free to strike again, if the present strike were enjoined, after complying with the provisions of the Taft-Hartley Act. But the parties to the dispute would at least be under pressure to achieve a settlement.

If they failed to do so, the Government could resort to seizure of telephone properties under the Selective Service Act on the ground that a continuance of the strike would interfere with defense production. It is hoped that such extreme measures can be avoided, but time is running out, and the Government will have to intervene very soon if the walkout spreads and so jeopardizes national safety.

McCarthyism

Undeniably the particular form of demagoguery now commonly known as McCarthyism played an influential part in Tuesday's election results. McCarthyism may be defined as a reckless exploitation of popular anxiety about communism. This anxiety has its roots in a realistic awareness that American Communists are willing tools of the Soviet Union and are likely, unless effectively checked, to commit espionage and sabotage against the United States. It fed on the disclosures that some Communists had been in Government employ in the 30's and on the revelation of atomic spying of Fuchs and his associates. The misgivings were exacerbated rather than diminished by the early tendency on the part of the Administration to dismiss all warnings of Communist infiltration as "red herrings." Senator McCarthy's extravagant and indiscriminate attack on the State Department, although it was shown to be utterly without foundation, played upon these fears and blew them up.

What was necessary was a trustworthy means of giving the public the full facts on Communist infiltration. This was the recommendation of both majority and minority members of the Tydings subcommittee that investigated the McCarthy charges. The failure of the Administration to do this was a default of leadership and doubtless heightened the importance of the issue in the elections. So Senator Tydings lost out in Maryland. Senator Tydings had had the courage in his committee role to issue a forthright report denouncing those charges as "a fraud and a hoax." Voters in his State were cajoled into believing that this veteran of 24 years' service in the Senate, a stanch conservative, was guilty of softness toward communism.

Outside of Maryland, where Senator McCarthy campaigned actively, the exact impact of McCarthyism is more difficult to measure, for there were instances pro and con. But the presence of the fear is indisputable. It poses a serious threat to the preservation of American traditions of diversity and personal freedom. It imperils a sane and rational approach to the problems of foreign policy. The anxiety behind it, fomented by campaign excesses, cannot easily be allayed. We believe, as we have said before, that the best means of reassuring the American people with respect to the efficacy of the measures being taken to protect the country's internal security is to create an independent, nonpartisan commission of distinguished citizens empowered to make a searching study of the whole relationship of national security and individual liberty. We renew our suggestion that the President, in consultation with Congress, appoint such a commission without delay. There is urgent need for the wise and sober counsel that can come from such a source.

Passage To India

Normally there would be no news in a palace revolution in secluded Nepal, but, with the Chinese invasion of Tibet, the unseating of the King to make way for his grandson is exciting general wonder. It is asked: are the Chinese Communists preparing the way for an assault on India when Tibet has been subjugated? The question is superheated. It should be: Why should China be interested in Nepal? To be sure, Nepal in the old days of monarchical China used to send tribute to the court of Peking, but Nepal is too remote and backward and warlike to be of concern to present-day Chinese. It has never figured, as Tibet has, in Chinese Republican politics. In any case, the great barrier of the Himalayas allows extremely limited access, and this applies, also, to egress from Nepal into India. Thus the tiny valley, where the real life of Nepal is concentrated, is pretty well shielded. Communications within Nepal itself are nonexistent, and the hinterland is populated by primitive peoples.

Nepal is an extraordinary country in that, politically, the King is a figurehead, and the Prime Minister, in whom all controls reside, has been hereditary for a century. The original people have been more or less displaced by the Gurkhas, perhaps the greatest fighting race in the world, who are spreading over to the gentler areas of Sikkhim and Bhutan, which share with Nepal and Kashmir most of the southern border with Tibet. The Gurkhas are fiercely independent, and, though they have probably absorbed the new wine of social and political change from their journeyings abroad, the entire country is still too primitive and hemmed in to be hospitable to communism.

Rescuing Germany

Fresh word comes from Paris, where there is already much worry over American "coddling" of Germany, about Germany's relations with the European Payments Union. The EPU credit that was supposed to last Germany until next July has not been entirely used up, as originally reported, but will be exhausted by the end of November. To halt the drain on vanishing dollar reserves, the German government has been getting ready to restore import restrictions—a most distasteful proceeding from the viewpoint of the EPU, for EPU aims at removal of trade barriers. Consequently, the EPU has come to the rescue by granting Germany a special 125-million-dollar credit repayable at the end of next March. Meantime the German government has agreed to restrict domestic credit expansion and to intensify its efforts to increase exports to Marshall Plan countries. These countries in turn (and France, in particular, which has a large favorable trade balance with Germany) are being urged to buy more German goods.

We realize, of course, that the EPU will be embarrassed if Germany is forced to raise barriers against imports so soon after becoming a party to an agreement intended to hasten the removal of such restrictions. Nevertheless, we doubt the wisdom of EPU's trying to save face by advancing more credits to Germany in the hope that her exports will rise sufficiently to make such restrictions unnecessary. Germany has dissipated the extremely liberal credits already placed at her disposal by EPU by overbuying and the only sure and prompt remedy for overbuying is less buying. Internal financial reforms intended to keep down prices of export goods and increase export trade are slow-acting, and it is doubtful whether appeals to other EPU countries to buy more German goods will have much effect.

For such reasons we conclude that Germany should be compelled to face the consequences of her own folly right now instead of being given additional credits that will enable her to avoid immediate recourse to import restrictions. Any other course will justify the French in the mounting suspicions—which came to a head in the French refusal to go along with the other Atlantic countries on German rearmament—that Germany is fast becoming the spoiled child of the United States.

Expensive Surplus

Although the tale is indeed ludicrous of the Texas farmer who bought $1,209,600 worth of surplus aircraft computers for $6.89 in 1946 and sold them back to the Air Force for $63,000, the miracle is that there were not more such cases. This was, no doubt, a stupid mistake, and there ought to be some red faces in the Air Force. But this incident, which Senator Lyndon Johnson describes as "perhaps the most outstanding case of shortsightedness" his Defense Investigating Committee has encountered, must be judged in the context of the times. After the war the military departments were under instructions to dispose of their surplus equipment, and the whole approach was to sell off the 27 billion dollars surplus as quickly as possible. This is now shown to have been an expensive and foolish policy, and the services would be glad to have some of the items disposed of—though many of the articles now purchasable in surplus stores probably are obsolete from a military standpoint.

Quite properly, in our opinion, the Johnson subcommittee envisions its job as one not of assessing blame but of drawing lessons for the future. It is not the occasional instance of bad judgment, but the major mistakes in policy which demand scrutiny. The investigating committee has already done good work in halting the sale of a synthetic rubber plant and in transforming the projected sale of another Government-owned property into a lease instead.

In this connection we hope that the committee will not neglect the reports current some time back about acres of jeeps, tires and other equipment decaying in the Pacific, as well as the more serious reports of abuses of surplus property disposal in the Philippines, and the alleged resale of American property to Communist China. In many instances investigation probably will show that the policy followed was the cheapest one at the moment—that there was not enough money to refurbish equipment or store it properly. Like the precipitate demobilization of military manpower, however, in retrospect this turns out to have been a very shortsighted form of economy, and there is an important lesson to be gained from it.

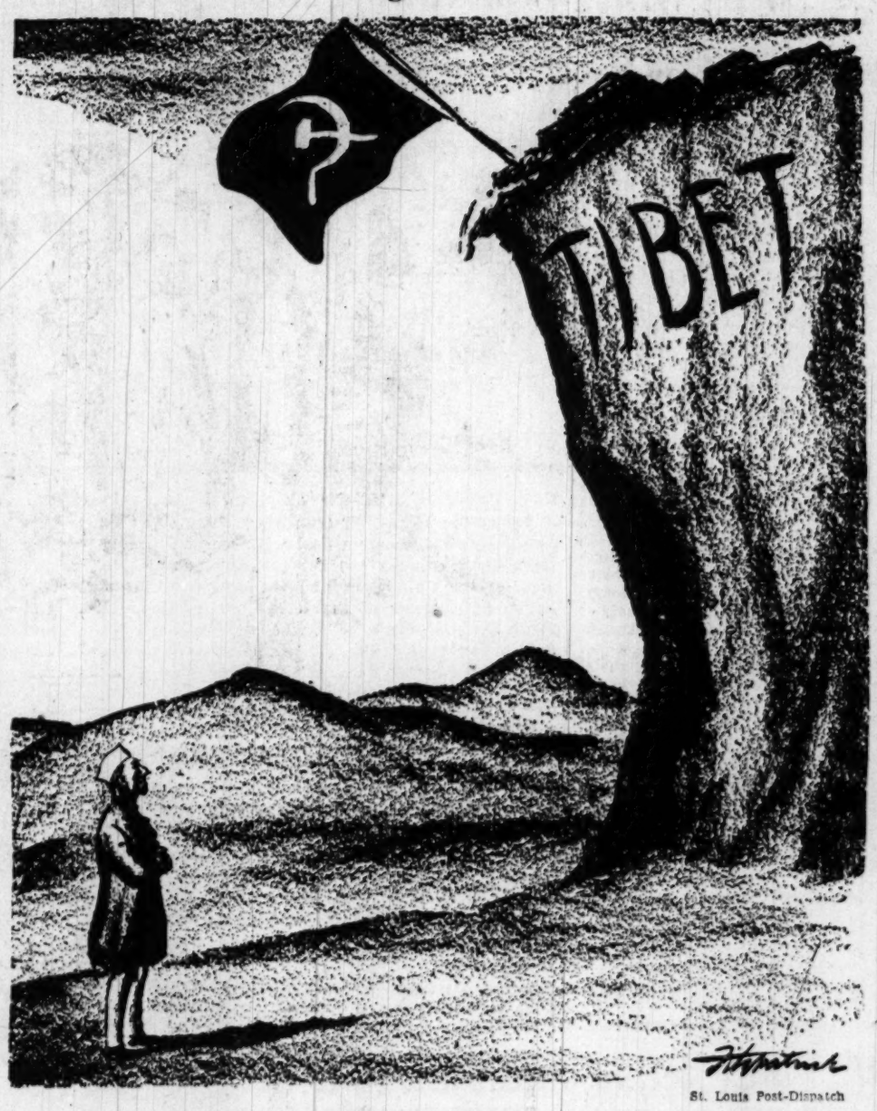

Woman-Size Job

Secretary of Defense Marshall has picked a female dynamo in the person of Mrs. Anna M. Rosenberg to handle the immensely difficult problems of manpower allocation and personnel policy arising out of the rearmament program. There will be increasingly acute labor shortages, at least in sensitive areas and industries, as the Army takes its pick of young men for military training and as weapons production grows in volume. Mrs. Rosenberg will undertake, as chief among her duties as an Assistant Secretary of Defense, to see to it that an adequate supply of workers is made available to the plants handling contracts for the military establishment. It is a job of the highest importance.

Mrs. Rosenberg will bring to the job an extensive and varied experience in labor relations. She was actively engaged in the manpower problems of World War II, having served as regional director of the War Manpower Commission from 1942 to 1945. There, in other Government posts and in the conduct of her own public relations firm, she has shown great imagination, resourcefulness and daring. She has a knack of getting her own way; to masculine forcefulness and toughness, she adds, by common consent, a compelling personality, and she is an exceedingly persuasive public speaker.

All these attributes are assets in the task ahead of her. But she will need also to show a capacity for teamwork and for self-submergence with which she is not credited by those associated with her in the past. How successful she will be in holding the confidence of the labor and industrial leaders and of the Government colleagues whose cooperation she must enlist is something to be tested by the event. We are glad to see so great a responsibility entrusted to a woman and glad to see so able a woman chosen to discharge it.

'Mandates' Of The People

Tower of Babel

Scene—A meeting of the Association for Advancement.

Chairman — We have met to decide what Congress should do when it returns.

Mr. Cavil—The big thing is to find out who got us into this Korean mess.

Mr. Dare—Mr. Chairman, as president of Atomic Age Citizens, Inc., I demand that now the campaign is over we stop this mad rout into the past. We should notify Congress that we expect it to spend its brains and energy on the perils of tomorrow—not of yesterday.

Mr. Janus—I demand that we stop appeasing these Chinese Reds. We should tell 'em where to get off! Why should we send American boys to die on foreign soil?

Mrs. March—If you precipitate a war with 450 million Chinese, how are you going to keep the boys at home?

Mr. Janus — You're confusing the issue. This campaign has shown that Americans don't want war. It makes 'em nervous. Ladies and gentlemen, what we need is tougher action in Asia. Congress should tell President Mac—I mean General MacArthur to order the Chinese to get back of their border and stay there.

Mrs. McAddle—What if they won't do it?

Chairman—The question is irrelevant.

Mr. Cavil—Let's get back to irrelevancies—I mean investigations. Who got us into this jam in China, Formosa, Indo-China, Tibet, Malaya, Germany, Puerto Rico?

MR. JANUS—We should demand that Congress stop pouring money down a European rathole, and stop communism in Asia. Americans are fed up with fighting other people's battles. We should make the Chinese Communists give back the country to Chiang Kai-shek, and bring the boys home by Christmas.

Mrs. McAddle—I don't seem to follow—or am I just dumb?

Mrs. March—Mr. Chairman, the big enemy is already within our gates. It's inflation. Look at price indices! Look at meat! We should demand that Congress do something about speculating, profiteering, hoarding—

Mr. Shellback—I object! All those are good, old fashioned, honest American traits!

Mr. Vanderpuffer—It's completely impractical to do anything about prices. Besides, there's no mandate from the people on that. They don't care anything about inflation.

Mr. Cavil — Exactly! What they want to know is who let Malik into the U. N.?

Mr. Dare—This is farcical! Here we stand on the brink of World War III, and we're fighting the election all over. We should first of all recommend to Congress that when it comes back its members talk with more restraint and wisdom in all public utterances. Carl Sandburg has just warned us that "loose mouths are the Nation's present most dangerous liability" Remember what Lincoln said —

Mr. Vanderpuffer—All that's impractical!

Mrs. March—But its morally right.

Mr. Vanderpuffer—That's impractical too—er I mean you can't change human nature.

Mrs. Feddup—I'm about to scream.

CHAIRMAN—Order! Mr. Nesselrode Groove, our civic leader, has a suggestion.

Mr. Groove—We should wait and see what happens by the time the new Congress comes in.

Mr. Vanderpuffer — Exactly! Then the coalition will be in a better fix to run things.

Mrs. McAddle—What party is that?

Mr. Dare—Mr. Chairman, what are we going to do about financing our armament program? About taxes? The arming of Europe? Continuing the draft? Are we going to "wait and see"?

Mr. Cavil—I'm tired of all this muddling. We should turn the country over to some good strong military man, say——

Mr. Vanderpuffer—No! What we need is a smart business manager from some big corporation.

Mr. Dare—This is Fascist talk!

Mr. James—You sound like a Communist!

Chairman—Order! Mrs. Montclair St. Vitus, our ace project woman, has a suggestion.

Mrs. St. Vitus—I'm due this minute at my atom bomb defense class and three fashion shows, but I do want to suggest that we might facilitate action by Congress if we'd hold a big public talkathon for all the new members, and let them tell what's been done wrong.

Mr. Dare—And just exactly how they're going to get it done right!

Mr. Cavil—That's subversive talk.

Chairman — Order! Mrs. St. Vitus has the floor.

Mrs. St. Vitus—We could give favors and prizes and sell tickets to the public. Think of the money we'd make!

Chorus—Second the motion.

Action Photograph

The photograph in your sports section of November 6 showing Forrest Griffith of the Giants making a short gain and being pounced upon by assorted Redskins, is, to my untutored eyes, one of the finest sports-action photographs ever taken. It seems to symbolize sheer power, to grasp vividly the concept of extreme human effort being thwarted. Its balance, technically, is almost flawless. With a little touching up to emphasize certain of the lines and lighting which were necessarily blurred because of the tremendous rushing force in the action itself, this photograph should win a prize in any gallery.

"That T-H Law"

Your November 7 editorial, "That T-H Law," is a real public service. It pointed out with honesty and candor that it was unpardonable for President Truman to use his prestige to distort the facts with respect to the Taft-Hartley Act.

Too long have the editors of the liberal press failed to accept the evidence of their senses, choosing instead to join the hue and cry of those labor leaders who characterize this law as a "slave labor" law. Your frank recognition of the fact that laboring men and women are prospering, that employment has achieved record heights, and that wages have been going constantly upward, and that it is absurd to pretend that the effect of the Taft-Hartley Act is to lower wages and create unemployment, may set a pattern for those editorialists who are still lost in the fog of vilification irresponsible labor leaders have caused to surround the act.

Apartment Taxes

As a resident of one of Arlington's largest apartment developments I am happy to observe that the coordinating council for the Arlington school bond campaign released figures which reveal that the apartment dwellers of the community are paying at least their share of the costs of the school program.

The council's figures show that the average real estate tax paid by each of the occupants of 6494 apartments was $78. If this figure is extended to all apartments of the county, it becomes clear that apartment residents are paying at least one fourth of the total real estate taxes in Arlington. Since only one fourth of the school-age children of the county live in apartments, the claims that citizens who rent their housing instead of owning a home are not paying their way are proved false.

As a matter of fact, I am not surprised by the council's findings. Last year I had occasion to examine studies prepared in other communities relative to the proportion of taxes provided and services consumed by various types of land users and taxpayers. These studies generally indicated that nonslum apartments provided more tax dollars than they consumed in services received. The residents of apartments were, in fact, providing an excess of tax funds for use in supporting services to deficit areas of the community. The owners of detached homes, on the other hand, did not pay for all their services and were partially dependent upon taxes on businesses and apartments to make up the difference.

It is my conviction that an equitably administered real estate tax program based upon current, accurate assessments will assure that all real estate owners and users pay a share of the tax burden which is reasonably fair. We in apartments admit that some development may be underassessed, just as some detached houses may be underassessed. We hope that the reassessment nearly concluded in Arlington will remedy such inequalities as may exist.

"Accepting Franco"

Your editorial of November 3, "Accepting Franco," discusses a subject of supreme importance to the human race.

If our Government's change of policy toward Franco means that when application is made to this country for the recognition of a particular regime in a foreign country, we are not going to look beyond its de facto existence, then we have closed the door to man's best hope for deliverance of millions who are the victims of tyrants.

It was the late Elihu Root who said: "There is a rule of international law which is very plain, very simple. It is: The citizens of any given country resident or commorant in a foreign country are required to accept the same justice that the native receives; provided the laws of the country and the administration of those laws measure up to a reasonable standard of civilized society" (emphasis added).

From this it will be seen that so eminent an authority on international law as Elihu Root laid down the postulate that there is an inescapable moral approach connected with the question of recognition of particular regimes.

If the door is to be forever closed to any condemnation of the maladministration of justice from beyond the borders of any state or nation, then every regime which has come into power through the exercise of force and cunning enjoys the prospect of continuing thus in perpetuity.

Atlantic Union

Your editorial of November 4 concerning the obstacles now delaying Atlantic military integration asks the very pertinent question, "Why is there a separation between the Defense Ministers and the Foreign Ministers when all the matters under discussion are politico-military?" It then makes a suggestion for further Atlantic political integration.

There is a growing body of opinion throughout the country which believes that we no longer have time to achieve Atlantic integration by piecemeal methods, now political, now military and now economic. It seems obvious that Atlantic security must be sought by means of Atlantic, not merely western European integration. It seems clear, moreover, that to achieve any adequate security in time, we now need to pursue Atlantic integration by over-all, rather than piecemeal methods.

Your suggestion for a "council of governments of the Atlantic powers" might lay the basis for such over-all action. A broader basis would be exploration of an Atlantic Union, the creation of which would effect rapidly complete military, political and economic integration of the Atlantic area.

Such a union would eliminate deep-lying French fears of German divisions, since Germans could then be enlisted in the union's divisions. In view of the widespread advantages of such a union for all the Atlantic democracies, it seems probable that our Government could now overcome French and other obstacles blocking an adequate Atlantic defense by stating its willingness to explore its possibilities.

Hopi Indian Patriotism

An advertised meeting of the Hopi Tribal Council members of First Mesa was held at Keams Canyon, Ariz., on October 25, attended by all the council members of First Mesa, the chiefs, and many representative members of the village. Upon full discussion of the subject in hand, it was unanimously decided that the following resolution be adopted:

"It has come to the attention of individuals, groups, and other non-Indian citizens that the Hopi Tribe has petitioned the President of the United States to be exempt from participation in Selective Service. The embarrassment to which we have been subjected by newspaper publication of this act on the part of the Hopis does not speak well for the tribe, and it is the unanimous agreement at this meeting that we inform the President and the proper officials of the Indian Department of conditions that really exist and our governing status in the village.

"The Hopi Tribe under the Wheeler - Howard Act went through the legal procedure of setting up their council. That council represents all phases of Hopi life and is the legal spokesman for the tribe. Now it is the desire of the First Mesa members of the tribal council, backed up by members of the First Mesa village, that they make the emphatic statement that the petition presented by a minority group of the Tribe to President Truman demanding that Hopis be exempt from Selective Service does not represent the Hopi Tribe. The Hopi Tribal Council is the legal recognized organ of the tribe and the President of the United States should only listen and consider actions and petitions from this legally constituted body of the Hopi Tribe.

"The Hopi Tribe is not a separate nation from the United States Government and stands 100 percent behind any law enacted by Congress in cases of emergency or pertaining to the life of the Hopi. In our former wars, our young men, without hesitation on their part or on the part of their parents, obeyed the law and took part in the war almost 100 percent voluntarily. On the victory in the second war, the young men who had part in this war returned and organized two American Legion organizations, and these organizations have functioned so far with credit to themselves which deserves commendation from the citizens of the country . . .

"There were nearly 300 Hopis in the armed services, including a lieutenant in the Nurses Corps and two in the Waes. Of the 300, approximately 30 percent were privates; 40 percent, private first class; 10 percent corporals, and 20 percent sergeants. Many hundred awards were presented to the Hopis for their combat service in all theaters. Fifteen Hopis were killed in action and several have died since as a result of war injuries.

"We deplore the accusation of the Navajo Tribe and Norman Littell, their attorney, which was reported in The Washington Post on October 16, which termed the Hopi Tribe as "perfectly contemptible," pointing out that the attitude of its 63,000 members was in "striking contrast" to that of the Hopi Tribe who was reported to have demanded exemption from the draft. The Navajo Tribe seemed to use this to back up their desire to deprive the Hopis of their land-holdings which were granted by executive order under date of December 16, 1882, containing 2,472,320 acres."

Editor's Note: In a letter to The Washington Post published October 17 Mr. Littell asserted: " . . . There was no statement made by the Navajos, as quoted in your article, in criticism of their neighbors, the Hopis, for not wishing to be drafted for military purposes . . . "

Arlington Schools

Comment On Arlington Ridge Report

I refer to your editorial of November 4 entitled "Schools and Sewers." Paragraph 3 of that editorial contains statements regarding a report "of a group representing the Arlington Ridge Civic Association."

You will find that the basis of comparison included representative schools in respective areas, either being built or under construction in 1950. Furthermore, statistics and information used on each of the Maryland counties was furnished by the assistant superintendent of schools in one instance, and by the superintendent in the other. The report so states. There was no intent to utilize only certain schools or partial figures to present favorable or unfavorable comparisons. The report showed very clearly, in the case of each school used, actual facilities, construction materials and costs.

The statement that "incidentally, the names of some of the 'signers' of this report appear to have been used without their knowledge" is not correct, and the facts might have been ascertained. As a matter of record, all five members of this special school committee met, discussed and concurred in the report. Subsequently, at a meeting of the executive committee of the Civic Association, which this school committee was requested to attend, all members again concurred in the report (one member, A. B. Leggett, was absent, but had given his concurrence to the president of the association prior to this meeting.) Thereafter the executive committee approved the report for release.

LEON K. BRYNER,
Chairman, Special School Committee, Arlington Ridge Civic Association.

I wish to take exception to the statement of Miss Emma C. Johnson in her letter of November 8 that all members of the school construction cost committee signed the report and concurred in the reading of the report. On November 7, Mr. L. K. Bryner, chairman of this committee, acknowledged that at no time had any member of this committee signed this report, nor had they a copy of the report to sign if they wished to do so. He further stated that in the call for the two meetings that no member had been advised that this report was to be published. At each reading of the report lines were missing, sections marked for rechecking and it was at no time considered to be complete. I should like to submit further facts:

On June 7, as secretary of the Arlington Ridge Civic Association I recorded a motion to have a special committee study school construction costs.

On June 19, I was called and requested to attend a meeting I assumed to be an executive committee meeting to be held June 21. I was unable to attend this meeting.

On June 23, I received a copy of the minutes of that June 21 meeting stating that members had been appointed and assignments given. My name was on this list but to my amazement the maker of the motion was neither chairman nor member of the committee he had activated. I was not given an assignment.

At the September 13, regular monthly meeting, the chairman of the school construction cost committee did not attend, hence no questions were asked.

At the October 4, regular monthly meeting, the construction cost committee stated that his report was nearly ready. Having received no assignment up to this point and having attended no meeting, I assumed that due to my efforts in behalf of the school bond issue I had been dropped from the committee.

On October 19 the chairman of school construction cost committee, requested me to get enrollment of 13 of the Arlington County public schools. I stated that I had signed the petition for the bond issue to appear on the ballot and that I was going to vote for it.' My contribution on enrollment figures was not included in the report as I heard it read.

On October 25 the members of the special committee were called to hear a supposedly finished report so that it might be submitted to the executive committee. No motion was made; one member stated that if the wording of this report were not changed he would be agreeable to its being submitted to the executive committee. The full committee concurred in the belief that the report was worthy of the executive committee's attention. At this reading the long and involved report was incomplete.

October 29, as secretary I attended the executive committee meeting and recorded the following motions: (1) That the report as read be approved. (There were many pauses in the reading of the report where items were to be further checked). (2) On motion of Miss Emma C. Johnson, it was resolved that the regular meeting be moved forward so that the full membership might hear the reading of the report. (3) That because of the limited time the county paper would have after the regular meeting that a copy be released to this paper before the meeting of the regular mmbership.

It must be perfectly obvious to all who read the facts, that I was drawn in this affair at the last moment so that my name might be included as a member of the committee. At no time did this committee function as a committee with full knowledge of all the members as to what was going on. The names of people who actually contributed much in the way of obtaining school construction cost were withheld at the discretion of the chairman for political reasons.

I am sorry that I did not realize the intent of this committee earlier.

Republican Blocs

By Marquis Childs

Progressives, Taft And McCarthyism

THE MAJOR struggle for political power in this country has been shifted, for the time being at least, to the arena of the Republican Party. That is one of the highly significant results of the conservative sweep in the recent election.

Childs

The struggle promises to grow increasingly bitter as June of 1952 draws nearer and the Republicans prepare to choose a presidential candidate. It is possible in this preliminary phase to see three distinct factions that will each have a leverage of power along with an ambition to take over the party.

In a most striking way the outcome on Tuesday aligns the two most conspicuous Republicans in the same kind of opposition that built up to the contest in the Republican convention in '48. Senator Robert A. Taft's impressive victory in Ohio makes him again—regardless of his own disclaim of interest—a leading contender for the nomination.

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's triumph in New York likewise puts him in a strategic position. Dewey has publicly backed Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower for '52.

HERE, then, are the two principal factions that emerge. In the new Senate each will have formidable strength. In the Dewey-Eisenhower camp will be found those Republicans whom the Chicago Tribune refers to contemptuously as "Eastern internationalists." Among them are Senators Ives of New York, Aiken and Flanders of Vermont, Lodge and Saltonstall of Massachusetts, Thye of Minnesota, and Gov. James Duff of Pennsylvania, who will take his place in the Senate in January.

It will also include those who are listed as liberal or progressive, such as Senator Morse of Oregon and Tobey of New Hampshire. Gov. Earl Warren of California will almost certainly be in this camp, too.

These men, it should be added, are not necessarily all supporters of Eisenhower at the present moment. But they can be expected to recognize their own mutual interest in preventing the party from taking an isolationist-reactionary line. And at the present writing Eisenhower would seem to be their most likely candidate.

Taft has unquestionably enlarged his hold on wide segments of the party and the machinery that operates it. In the Senate he will have with him a solid phalanx of conservative Republicans, among them Senators Millikin of Colorado, Brewster of Maine, Butler and Wherry of Nebraska, Kem of Missouri and Watkins of Utah.

Taft's old friend and former chief supporter, B. Carroll Reece, was elected in Tennessee to the House in the face of opposition in his own party. This will mean an added margin of strength for the Taft faction. Already, in his newfound confidence, Taft is challenging the base of the Truman foreign policy which is the strengthening of western Europe to resist communism.

But if these are the two principal factions, a third must also be recognized as arising out of the results of Tuesday. This faction can be claimed by Senator Joseph McCarthy of Wisconsin since he can boast that he brought it into being.

It consists of the extremists who would take the party not merely into isolation but into a kind of reaction that would seem to have as its end product the garrison or, perhaps more accurately, the stockade state. In the McCarthy faction will be found Senators Jenner and Capehart of Indiana, Malone of Nevada, Schoeppel of Kansas and several new recruits who will come to Washington thanks in considerable part to the violent exploitation of the McCarthy technique of repeating over and over the same indiscriminate charges regardless of how often they are refuted.

These groups cannot be separated into airtight compartments. The Taft and the McCarthy factions are inclined to blur together. And it is here, or so it seems to me, that Taft is faced with a problem in political strategy.

He must preserve his own middle ground position short of the complete reaction, both on the foreign and domestic fronts, of the McCarthy group. At the same time the temptation will be to want the backing of the McCarthyites in the showdown for the big prize of '52.

But to accept it will, in my opinion, be to risk ultimate defeat. The reaction against Communist charges in an off-year election is one thing. To embrace McCarthyism on a national scale in a national election is something else again. It is hard to believe that the country as a whole is prepared to swing to that extreme.

Faulkner Wins Nobel Prize For Writings

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Nov. 10 (AP)—The 1949 Nobel literary prize, withheld last fall, was awarded today to William Faulkner of Oxford, Miss., author of the best-selling "Sanctuary," "Intruder in the Dust" and other novels of the South.

Bertrand Russell, 78, British philosopher, mathematician and moralist who is now on a lecture tour in the United States, received the 1950 literary award "in recognition of his many-sided and significant writings, in which he appeared as a champion of humanity and freedom of thought."

The award of this year's honors was completed with the announcement of physics and chemistry prizes.

British Physicist Honored

Prof. Cecil Frank Powell 46, of Britain's Bristol University, won the physics prize for his development of a simple photographic method to probe the secrets of the atom nucleus and his discoveries regarding mesons, the particles that are believed to hold the nucleus together.

A German teacher-pupil team—Prof. Otto Diels, 74, and Prof. Kurt Adler, 48—was awarded the Nobel chemistry prize for joint work in 1927-28 on the discovery of the Dien Synthesis, a method by which odors and complicated chemical compounds can be produced artificially.

Faulkner's prize is worth $30,007. The others are worth $31,715, with Diels and Adler splitting that amount.

Swedish King Gustaf VI will present the awards at a ceremony here December 10. That is the fiftieth anniversary of the death of Alfred Nobel, inventor of dynamite, whose fortune provides the prizes. In the 50 years, Germany leads all the rest in the total number of winners, with 46. The United States is second, wtih 43.

Faulkner told an interviewer on his Mississippi farm: "When I receive formal notification from the Nobel Foundation I'll let the newspapers have a statement. And I'll take a couple of days to prepare it."

"I am highly pleased and gratified," said Powell in Bristol. He is a vice-chairman of the British Peace Committee, sponsor of a Communist-inspired peace congress next week in Sheffeld, Eng., but said he himself is not a Communist and can't spare the time to attend.

Adler shrugged his shoulders at his home in Cologne and wondered: "How much of the money will the tax office leave me?" (German tax officials said they believed there would be no levy at all.)

Diels Hopes for Library

The elderly Diels, who lives in a small apartment in Kiel, said he wants to acquire a large scientific library. He lost all his books in World War II, in which two of his three sons perished.

Russell was en route from Indiana to Princeton University when the awards were made public. A frequent visitor to the United States, the British philosopher declared in an interview at Bloomington, Ind., this week that the East and West can get along if both sides forget their "stupid imperialism." He is among a group of noted Westerners denounced by Moscow as "warmongers."

The delay in making a literary award for 1949 was caused by a deadlock in the Swedish Academy. The members were unable to choose between Italian philosopher Benedetto Croce and Winston Churchill. Neither figured in the final balloting this year.

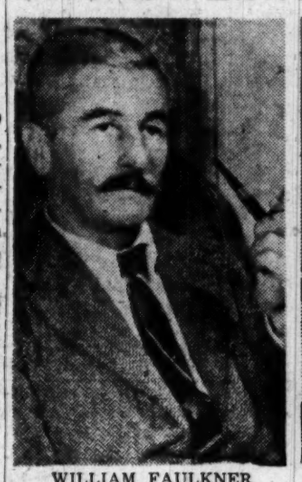

The 53-year-old Faulkner was cited "for his powerful and artistically independent contribution to the new American novel." His south is not one of moonlight and magnolias. It is a region haunted and at bay, but still clinging to its heritage.

He is the fourth American to receive a Nobel prize in some field this year and also the fourth American in the 50-year history of the Nobel foundation to win the literary prize.

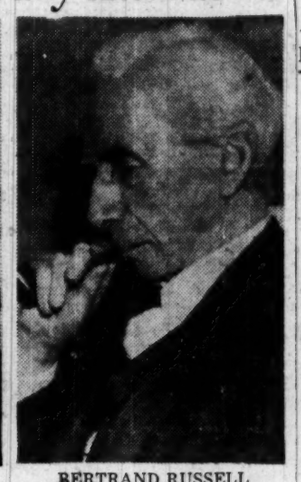

Dr. Ralph Bunche was awarded the 1950 peace prize earlier this year for his work as U. N. mediator in Palestine. Dr. Philip S. Hench and Dr. Edward C. Kendall of the Mayo Clinic, Rochester, Minn., shared the medical prize with a Swiss physician.

Previous Nobel literary prizes have gone to American novelists Sinclair Lewis and Pearl S. Buck and Playwright Eugene O'Neill.

GOP Trails, Then Regains Lead For Michigan Governorship

Vandenberg's term expires in January, 1953.—Editor's note.]

Before the Macomb muddle was discovered, Williams had a lead of 587 votes over Kelly in a Statewide tally which was a maze of mistakes and errors.

Admittedly there were more errors to be listed.

Wayne County election officials, producing their first vote totals for both candidates in the late afternoon, said they had included all known major errors, but had not yet tabulated discovered errors in arithmetic.

The possibility of more errors was heightened by the fact that no reports had been received from the official canvassers in such large counties as Genesee, Saginaw, Calhoun, Ingham, Macomb, Monroe, Oakland and Wayne.

A recount appeared certain.

Talk of Irregularities

And Republicans and Democrats alike were beginning to throw charges of irregularities.

Attorney General Stephen J. Roth, a Democrat, conferred with State Police Commissioner Donald S. Leonard and Republican Secretary of State Fred M. Alger, jr., and asked them to notify all local election authorities to guard carefully the ballots in their possession.

Roth said he was acting because of "rumors" of "irregularities."

Detroit City Clerk Thomas D. Leadbetter threatened angrily to fire all election workers responsible for the muddle in Detroit election returns.

Their errors gave Williams a net gain of 3398 votes in Detroit. Major errors of more than 700 in Muskegon, 700 in Genesee County adn 700 in Eaton County further confused the outcome.

282 Votes Challenged

A further complication was a Democratic challenge to the entire vote in Republican Plymouth township of Wayne County. The chance that the entire township election might be thrown out threatened to cut Kelly's total another 282 votes.

Democrats contended that the township election inspectors simply handed ballots to anyone who asked for them, and did not meet the legal requirement for signing a ballot application.

The Wayne County prosecutor's office was awaiting an official protest before acting.

The election mixup did not affect any of the other State offices, and apparently none of the congressional races enough to change them.

Rep. Macy Defeated By 126, Recheck Shows

ISLIP, N. Y., Nov. 10 (AP).—Representative W. Kingsland Macy (R., N. Y.), the "Dear King" of the famous Hanley letter, was defeated for reelection, a recheck of Tuesday's election vote revealed today.

Election night errors were corrected to give Macy's Democratic-Liberal opponent, Ernest Greenwood, a lead of 126 votes.

However, the figures must officially be confirmed in a canvass that is scheduled to begin Tuesday.

Macy received the letter from Lieut. Gov. Joe R. Hanley. In it, Hanley said he had been assured of clearing up all his debts if he would run for United States Senator. He made the race and was defeated.

The Democrats charged the letter indicated a payoff to get Hanley out of the race for the nomination for governor and thus pave the way for the reelection of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey.

Both Dewey and Hanley denied any such deal.

The letter was released by Hanley after copies fell into the hands of Democrats. Macy said he did not distribute the copies and did not know how the Democrats got them.

Dewey had no comment when informed of Macy's defeat.

Greenwood becomes the first Democrat to represent the district since 1914.

Macy had no direct comment on his defeat. But in his weekly newspaper, the Islip Press Herald, he charged in an editorial that Republican ranks in his district were divided because of attacks on him by the daily newspaper, Newsday, published in Garden City.

Greenwood said he was elated at his election and added in a statement:

"The one thing in which I can concur with Mr. Macy is his blaming the independent Newsday for his defeat."

Pope's Call for Sealing Holy Doors Due Dec. 11

VATICAN CITY, Nov. 10 (U.P.). Vatican sources today said Pope Pius XII probably will convoke a secret consistory December 11 to name cardinal legates to seal the Holy Doors of Rome's great basilicas at the end of the 1950 Holy Year.

The Holy doors of St. Peter's basilica, St. Mary Major, St. John-in-Lateran and St. Paul's-Outside-the-Walls will be sealed for another 25 years this Christmas Eve, officially ending the 1950 Holy Year.

Dealers Seek to Void Rules on Auto Buying

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 10 (U.P.). A group of automobile dealers today filed suit in Federal court seeking to block enforcement of Federal regulations requiring one-third of the sale price of a car to be paid in cash and the remainder within 15 months.

The suit, said to be the first filed in the country, was brought against the board of governors of the Federal Reserve System, various officials of regional reserve banks in Los Angeles and San Francisco, Attorney General J. Howard McGrath, and United States Attorney Ernest Tolin.

Md. Sales Tax Is Modified

the election in which McKeldin beat Lane.

McKeldin said the election was "finished business."

The two men conferred alone for an hour and a quarter. When reporters asked if there would be further conferences, Governor Lane said, "I will be available."

McKeldin said he had been assured that all the information needed to prepare his budget recommendations would be made available to him. Preparation of the budget, McKeldin's first big official task, must be completed by February 9, 30 days after he takes office.

Another highlight of the special session was Lane's farewell address to the joint session. After outlining the financial background of the sales tax bills, Governor Lane told a joint session of the House and Senate:

"I offer you my heartfelt thanks for all that you have done, for your cooperation with me during the difficult period we have faced together.

"I shall forever cherish the harmony of your cooperation with me and your courageous attitude in the public service."

Governor Lane read his prepared speech in a rapid tempo. At the close of his text, he added an extemporaneous sentence and nearly choked on the last word. He said, "What I really mean to tell you is that I am grateful and the most that I can now say is thank you."

After Lane had left the chamber, Majority Leader Leroy T. Pumphrey, (D.) Prince Georges, said "I feel a considerable lump in my throat."

"I bow to the verdict of the people and extend my best wishes to the incoming Governor," said Pumphrey. "But in parting, I want to say that Governor Lane was a magnificent Governor of Maryland." Pumphrey was one of two Democrats elected to the House from Prince Georges.

Another tribute was given to Senate Majority Leader L. Harold Sothoron of Prince Georges, who was defeated for reelection.

A point of discussion was whether Republican Governor McKeldin would get the cooperation of the still-Democratic General Assembly the present lineup of the House is 87 Democrats and 36 Republicans: in the new Assembly it will be 86 Democrats and 35 Republicans. The Senate lineup remains the same, 18 Democrats and 11 Republicans, barring any later changes that might result from a recount).

The bills revising the sales and use taxes were approved unanimously by the Senate and cleared the House by votes of 109 to 1. Delegate George G. McLeish (D) of Prince Georges opposed the bills. He said that from what members had said in previous sessions, passage of the bills 'makes liars out of every one of us. He said they should have been left until the next regular session.

Governor Lane signed the measures in his office in the Executive Mansion following an informal reception there for the delegates.

Telephone Strike Sabotage Is Charged in Two Cities

$2 to $3 more a week, but here again the union strikers are seeking a "substantial" wage boost.

Federal mediators met with representatives of the Western Electric Co. and the CIO Communications Workers of America throughout the day yesterday. A one-hour joint session of both sides ended in a deadlock, but mediators said another parley would be held "not later than 3 p. m. Sunday."

The Western Electric strikers yesterday unwrapped a "hit-skip" picketing technique here and across the country.

Locally, there are only 310 Western Electric workers claimed by the union. They have been maintaining a steady picket line at the Western Electric branch office at 1111 N. Capitol st., and smaller company installations in this area. On Thursday, the strikers also put up picket lines at the two big Chesapeake and Potomac buildings in the 700 blocks of 12th and 13th sts.

Intermittent Pickets

Yesterday, the pickets returned to the 12th and 13th st. buildings but only for half an hour, from 6 to 6:30 a. m. and then they scattered out to picket three other C. & P. buildings—the toll center at 1420 Columbia rd., the Anacostia exchange at 28th and Minnesota ave. se., and the directory department at 2 New York ave. nw.

Local strike leaders said the idea was to keep C&P off balance. The company has been substituting supervisory help for non-striking employes who refused to cross picket lines.

Union officials here said they were getting excellent cooperation from non-strikers in honoring the picket lines. C&P officials said that no more than 50 percent of the employes stayed away at the two picketed exchanges yesterday, and that so far as the overall picture was concerned, 99½ percent of all the more than 7000 C&P employes had reported to work as usual yesterday.

Management here insisted that both local and long distance phone service was running at normal.

In New York, however, American Telephone and Telegraph Corp., parent outfit of the Bell System, said that 46 percent of its regular long distance operators were on duty yesterday morning on its 14 long lines centers across the country, and that these operators, assisted by supervisory employes, were keeping switchboard coverage about 71 percent of normal.

A Western Union Telegraph Co. spokesman said telegraph business was running from 10 to 25 percent higher than the same day a week ago, and said it was probably due to the telephone strike.

National headquarters of the Communications Workers here yesterday expressed satisfaction with the way the Western Electric strike was working out. Other Bell employes around the Nation have been honoring the picket lines, the union maintained. Everywhere the strikers were using the "hit-skip" picketing tactics.

In Michigan, the 16,000 striking Bell Telephone Co. employes tried a different technique. All struck Thursday, returned to work Friday morning, and then began walking out again at 1:40 Monday afternoon in the company's main Detroit office.

In Arkansas, Indiana and Ohio, Western Electric pickets were skipping from exchange to exchange one jump ahead of the law.

In those three States, the Bell companies sought injuctions to ban the strikes—on the grounds the company has no dispute with the Western Electric strikers—as soon as the pickets showed up in town.

Western Electric strikers yesterday picketed the Chesapeake & Potomac Co. building at Norfolk, Va., in a move to test the State's public utility anti-strike act. Long distance calls and manually operated phones were put on an emergency basis. In Richmond, Attorney General J. Lindsay Almond, jr. conferred with C. & P. officials, and considered what action the Commonwealth should take.

Armistice Day . . . November 11th

Salute!

Today we pay tribute to every man who has given the work of his hands, his heart, his brains and his life for the preservation of freedom and civilization in the world.

But for us, Americans, our thoughts are pointed directly to the unknown soldier—one unidentified, unidentifiable fragment of earth — who symbolizes the thousands who sacrificed themselves that we and our children's children might enjoy a fuller life of liberty and greater happiness.

The unwritten, unspoken charge we must obey is that this man's—this nation's sacrifice shall not have been made in vain.

Transplanting Gives Church New Life

Take a large, established downtown church, pick it up and plant it in a new neighborhood. What happens?

Will its congregation follow it? Does its personality change? Will it thrive?

In the case of the Westmoreland Congregational Church, the answer is yes to all three questions.

About 10 years ago, Mount Pleasant Congregational Church found itself facing an inevitable sociological problem. A survey showed that its immediate area had changed in four decades from family dwellings to a transient rooming-house section.

Faced With Hard Decision

Less than 16 percent of its congregation remained within a one-mile radius of its location, 1410 Columbia rd. nw.

The area had become overchurched. Church school enrollment was falling off. Interest was slackening along with attendance.

Church fathers were faced with a difficult decision. Could new programs revitalize the church? Should it just anticipate the inevitable and shut down? Or should it relocate?

The latter decision was chosen. A new site was decided upon, and a new name selected.

World War II held up building plans, but a year and a half ago the first services were held in the imposing colonial, brick and white-trimmed meeting house.

In the past 18 months, its Christopher Wren steeple—lighted at night—has become a beacon for motorists coming up Massachusetts ave. toward Westmoreland Circle.

How is the 90-year-ld church faring? Its pastor, the Rev. Philip Gordon Scott, says he believes the congregation has lost less than two dozen of its former members because of the move.

500 at Sunday Services

Now, Sunday services which used to number 300 attendants, average 500. The church school has grown from 60 to 350 children. The church itself now has around 1000 members.

Most satisfying to all is that the church has once more regained its "community" status, the minister said.

Its workshop is used by neighbors both for personal and church projects. Members have built tables and other equipment, along with scenery for the church-sponsored Westmorelanad Players. There are Brownie, Cub and Boy and Girl Scout groups and three children's choirs. Also the usual adult organizations. Square dances are held. And its kitchens are used at least once a week by neighborhood groups.

Mr. Scott is philosophical about the situation.

Edmund Robert Strait, assistant pastor of the church

Archbishop Seeks Clothes For Koreans

An appeal from the Most Rev. Patrick A. O'Boyle, Archbishop of Washington, for Korean relief supplies will be read to all masses in Roman Catholic churches in the archdiocese Sunday.

"Over two million Koreans have been removed from their homes in the wake of the advancing armies, and they are without clothing, bedding and shelter, and this as the cold of winter sets in," the archbishop's message read.

He requests that Roman Catholics help meet their need with an emergency clothing collection to be taken up in all parishes during Thanksgiving week, November 19-26.

Rev. Lee Holloway To Be Installed by 7th Day Baptists

The Rev. Lee Holloway, recently elected pastor of the Evangelical Seventh Day Baptist Church, will be ordained to the gospel ministry at 10:30 a. m. today.

Mr. Holloway

The ordination service will be held in the chapel of the Baptist Building, 1628 16th st. nw. The church now holds regular Sabbath morning worship services at that address.

Mr. Holloway, a native of St. Louis, is a graduate of Washington Missionary College, Takoma Park, and lives at 16 Allegheny ave., Takoma Park.

West African Native To Speak at 2 Churches

A Christian Umbundu from Lobito, West Africa, will speak through an interpreter to a dinner meeting of the First Congregation Church, Thursday at 6:15 p. m. He is Pastor Jesse Chipenda, who will also address a Pilgrim Fellowship rally in Westmoreland Congregational Church the following Sunday.

100 From D. C. Due to Attend Cleveland Council Convention

A delegation of Washington ministers and laymen, estimated at more than 100, is expected to attend the constituting convention of the National Council of Churches of Christ in Cleveland, November 28-December 1.

The authoritative Christian Century hails the meeting as "the most important event in the life of the Protestant Church since the Reformation." If nothing else, it promises to be the most widely representative church gathering ever held on the American continent.

The congregation of Georgetown Presbyterian Church must have been a bit awed at some of its predecessors listed by the Rev. Russell C. Stroup last week. The event was the 170th birthday of the church, and the minister named, among others, Washington, Jefferson, Monroe and Jackson as former worshipers. . . . Final tally of offerings taken during the six-day Washington Federation of Churches preaching mission more than underwrote the $12,000 expenses. . . . Hamline Methodist Church will hold a highly unusual investiture service for its four choirs Sunday at 8 p. m., at 5401 16th st. nw.

Mount Carmel Baptist Church observed a double celebration this week: the seventh-fourth birthday of the church and the thirty-eighth anniversary of its pastor, the Rev. William H. Jernagin . . . Lookout, a magazine of Christian education ran an editorial praising the recent twenty-ninth annual conference of the Organized Bible Class Associatoin of Washington . . . A meeting last night in Grace Evangelical and Reformed Church is part of a new drive to raise an additional $205,000 for a new home for the aged at Hagerstown . . . Women of a dozen foreign countries will meet with 3000 American churchwomen from 48 States 70 Protestant denominations at the National Biennial Assembly of the United Council of Church Women in Cincinnati, November 13-16 . . . The Rev. Arthur R. Coleman, who resigned from his work as a White House policeman to give his life to full-time Christian work, will teach one of the classes at the Congress Heights Baptist Church church expansion program. Classes will be held for the next 10 Tuesdays at 7 p. m. at the church, Esther and Brothers pl. se.

72 to Read New Testament In Marathon 18-Hour Session

A marathon, 18-hour reading of the complete New Testament will be held next Saturday for the first time in the Nation's Capital.

Seventy-two persons will participate in the project, which will begin at 5 a. m. and continue through 11 p. m. in Foundry Methodist Church, 16th and Church sts. nw.

Laymen from all callings will be readers, including Dr. Paul F. Douglass, president of American University, and two students; Clifford Ketzel, State Department; Herbert Elliston, editor of The Washington Post; Mrs. Wallace Streeter, president of the Washington Council of Church Women; Dr. Mordecai Johnson, president of Howard University, and two students; Harold Russell, president of AMVETS; Walter Emery, Federal Communications Commission; Jesse Donaldson, Postoffice Department, and radio commentator, H. R. Baukhage.

The purpose of the reading is to offer all people an opportunity to hear the Scriptures and to offer a national testimonial to their importance as the source book of the faith by which our Nation lives, officials said.

The reading will be under the auspices of the Washington City Bible Society, and wholly non-denominational.

St. Ambrose Dedication To Be Sunday

The new parochial school, convent and auditorium of St. Ambrose Catholic Church, in Cheverly, Md., will be dedicated by the Most Rev. Patrick A. O'Boyle, Archbishop of Washington, Sunday at 3:30 p. m.

Assisting will be the Rev. Ronald J. Fannon, pastor, under whose direction the construction was started and completed. Cost of the improvements, with equipment and furnishings, will be almost $250,000.

The Rev. Edward H. Roach, pastor of St. Jerome's Church, Hyattsville, Md., will preach at the dedication. The ceremonies will be concluded with the celebration of Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament by Archbishop O'Boyle, who will be assisted by the Rev. James H. Brooks, pastor of Our Lady Queen of Peace, as deacon, and the Rev. Lawrence J. Wempe, assistant at the Shrine of the Sacred Heart, as subdeacon. The Rev. Walter J. Schmitz, S. S. of Catholic University, will be master of ceremonies.

16 to Attend Lutheran Convention

Sixteen delegates from the Washington area are expected to attend the ninth annual convention of the Southeastern District—North of the Lutheran Women's Missionary League in Richmond this weekend.

The league is an organization of ladies' societies in the Missouri Synod of the Lutheran Church, with 48 units having a membership of more than 1600 in the District.

Delegates from this area expected to attend the convention are: Mrs. Julia Van Landingham, Mrs. Hugo Hoffman, Mrs. George Biehl, Mrs. Herbert Roepe, Mrs. Adam Payne, Mrs. Richard Dawson and Mrs. John Sinagel.

Mrs. Anna Morrissette, Mrs. Erwin B. Ambrose, Mrs. Arthur Nolte, Mrs. Mildred Smith, Mrs. A. Karl Boehmke, Mrs. Lena Heitmuller, Mrs. Ruby Miller, Mrs. Ray Thieroff, 9200 Glenville rd., Silver Spring, and Mrs. Clark Dovell.

De Courcy to Lecture At American University

Kenneth De Courcy, editor of the Intelligence Digest, London, will give the McDowell lecture on Christianity at American University Wednesday at 8 p.m.

The lectures, to be given in the president's parlor, are on "The Christian Philosophy of History: Its Meaning in World Crisis," and are open to the public.

Church of Reformation Gives Concert Friday

A concert of sacred music will be presented Friday at the Lutheran Church of the Reformation, 212 East Capitol st., to assist in the restoration of Grace Church in Mannheim, Germany.

The combined choirs under Jule Zabawa will give the concert at 6 p. m.

To Hold 'Quiet Day'

The Daughters of King and the Women's Auxiliary will hold a Quiet Day at St. Albans Church, Massachusetts and Wisconsin aves. nw., Thursday at 10 a. m. Holy Communion will be followed by a meditation conducted by the Rev. E. Felix Kloman. All churchwomen are invited.

Ministerial Union Sponsors 2 Broadcasts

Radio fare for Sunday includes two programs sponsored by the Arlington Ministerial Union. The Rev. Paul Harrell, of Memorial Baptist Church, speaks over WARL at 11 a.m., and the Rev. Harry W. Craver, of Cherrydale Methodist Church, over WEAM at 11:30 a.m.

The National Baptist Hour will feature the Rev. Robert F. McFarlane, of Alexandria, at 7:30 a.m. over WWDC on "One Thing That God Will Not Forgive."

Theosophical Meeting

John L. Toomey, of York, Pa., will address a public meeting of the Theosophical Society tonight at 8:15 o'clock at the Gordon Hotel, 916 16th st. nw. His topic will be, "Christianity and Occultism."

Service Marks Start Of Fellowship Week

Tuesday Night

Installation Set by Baptist Brotherhood

New officers of the Baptist Brotherhood-Council of the greater Washington area will be installed Tuesday night at the group's annual ladies' night banquet.

Roberts

John L. Roberts, head of the Fountain Memorial Baptist Church Brotherhood, will be sworn in as new president at the gathering in Calvary Baptist Church, 8th and H sts, nw., at 6:30 p.m.

Chief speaker at the event will be A. Roy Greene, president of the Tennessee Baptist Brotherhood. His topic will be, "A Call to Arms."

The Brotherhood-Council is composed of brotherhoods of 40 Baptist churches in the Washington area. More than 400 persons are expected to attend.

Others to be installed include: vice presidents, Clarence Hendershot, First Baptist, Silver Spring; Hugh R. Insley, Calvary Baptist; John A. Miller, Luther Rice Baptist, and John A. Patterson, jr., Calvary Baptist.

Secretary, Worth L. Dunning, First Baptist, Silver Spring; treasurer, George E. Hynson, Fifth Baptist; chorister, Harold S. King, Chevy Chase Baptist; assistant chorister, Miles H. Hudson, Fountain Memorial Baptist; and pianist, William R. Bishop.

New Rector to Conduct Grace Church Service

The Rev. Herbert W. Lamb, jr., recently elected rector of Grace Episcopal Church, Silver Spring, will conduct his first services in that church Sunday.

All of the new rector's previous service has been in New York State, including the past eight years as rector of St. Paul's, Waterloo. He succeeds the Rev. Francis M. Hamilton, who resigned to become rector of Emmanuel Church, New Castle, Del.

Fellowship Week, dedicated to prayer for world brotherhood and the work of the Young Women's Christian Association toward that end, will be observed next week with local and worldwide services.

Representatives from all parts of the United States will attend the service opening World Fellowship Week here. A national vesper service will be held at the Washington Cathedral at 4 p. m. Sunday simultaneously with 1052 community and college YWCAs.

The World Fellowship Fund, a collection made by the associations throughout the country, will be presented in the traditional gift bringing ceremony at the Sunday afternoon's national service.

The fund, to be used to further the work of the YWCA in 65 countries, will be carried to the altar by teen-age members of the YWCA, representing the 48 States, Alaska and Hawaii. Also participating in the ceremony will be children in costume from many of the 65 countries observing World Fellowship Week.

More than 50 community YWCAs wil be represented at the national service on Sunday. Associations sending delegations include St. Paul, Minn.; Pueblo, Colo.; Anderson, Ind.; Ashtabula, Ohio; Clarksburg, W. Va.; Passaic, N. J.; Lynchburg, Va.; Tulsa, Okla.; and Lancaster, Pa.

3 District Prelates Will Preside at Tridium for Saint

A tridium honoring St. John de La Salle, patron of teachers, will be held Wednesday, Thursday and Friday at 8 p. m. in the National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception at Catholic University.

The three prelates of the Washington Archdiocese will preside. The Most Rev. John M. McNamara, auxiliary bishop, Wednesday; the Most Rev. Patrick J. McCormick, rector of the University, also auxiliary bishop, Thursday; the Most Rev. Patrick A. O'Boyle, Archbishop of Washington, Friday.

Presbytery to Meet

A stated meeting of the Presbytery of Washington City will be held Tuesday starting at 1:30 p. m. in Chevy Chase Presbyterian Church, Chevy Chase pkwy. and Connecticut ave. nw. Business will include overtures from the General Assembly, election of permanent committees and nominations to the board of trustees.

350 Expected

Convocation At Howard U. Next Week

More than 350 persons are expected to attend Howard University's 34th annual religious convocation next week.

Sponsored by the school of religion, meetings will be held at the university Tuesday through Thursday on, "The Church, the State and Human Welfare."

Among the speakers will be the Rev. Beverley M. Boyd, executive secretary of the department of social relations of the Federal Council of Churches; the Rev. Howard Thurman, of San Francisco's Fellowship Church of All People; and the Rev. John C. Bennett, professor of Christian ethics, Union Theological Seminary, New York City.

On Wednesday at 8 p. m., Mordecai W. Johnson, president, will address his 24th consecutive convocation banquet.

Among the local ministers who will participate in the program will be the Rev. Earl L. Harrison, Shiloh Baptist Church; the Rev. James O. West, Calvary Episcopal Church; the Rev. T. Ewell Hopkins, First Baptist Church of West Washington; the Rev. Robert W. Brooks, Lincoln Memorial Congregational Temple; the Rev. Robert M. Williams, Asbury Methodist Church.

The Rev. E. C. Smith, Metropolitan Baptist Church; the Rev. Hiram E. Smith, Mt. Lebanon Baptist Church; the Rev. Dillard H. Brown, St. Luke's Episcopal Church and the Rev. L. Maynard Catchings, Plymouth Congregational Church.

Feed Hungry To Stop Reds, Sheehy Urges

The Rt. Rev. Maurice S. Sheehy of Catholic University said yesterday we should take the offensive against communism by feeding starving people in other countries, even behind the Iron Curtain.

He told a meeting of the National Conference of Christians and Jews that Asia is "on the march today" because of fear of starvation.

Msgr. Sheehy declared we would "accomplish more than by any victory of arms" if we aid backward areas in an intelligent and farsighted program.

"What we waste in this country in one year," he asserted, "would feed all the people of Korea."

He spoke at the Mayflower Hotel, where the twenty-second meeting of the Conference of Christians and Jews will end today.

Reelected yesterday as cochairman of the Conference were Charles E. Wilson, president of General Electric, Roger W. Straus, chairman of American Smelting & Refining and Thomas E. Braniff, president of Braniff International Airways.

William S. Tyson, solicitor for the Department of Labor, told a labor-management session yesterday an estimated 25 billion dollars a year is lost because of intolerance. With 65 million people in our labor force, against hundreds of millions in the Communist labor force, the unity of American workers is absolutely essential, he said.

Berea Alumni Session

The Washington alumni chapter of Berea College, Kentucky, will hold its semi-annual dinner meeting in the Mary Graydon Hall on the campus of American University at 6:30 p. m., Monday, November 13.

Dr. Ralph John, of American University, president of the alumni association, will preside.

W. Germany, Spain Win Entry to FAO

Western Germany and Spain were elected to the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization yesterday, but only after a moving appeal against Germany's admission by the Israeli delegation.

FAO was the first U.N. organization to accept either as a member since U.N. voted to let down the bars against them 10 days ago. Five votes were cast against admitting Spain; two were cast in the secret balloting against Germany.

Yehudi Lowe, agricultural attache at the Israeli Embassy here, bitterly protested what he called "the policy of appeasement now practiced toward Germany."

"Israel," he said, "supports the principle of universal participation in all international bodies.

"But," he added, "Israel, the only Jewish state, considers herself the representative of the six million Jews who were slaughtered by the Nazi regime in the worst crime ever perpetrated by any nation in the long course of recorded history.

"The memory of these six million victims is still very much alive, nor will it ever be forgotten. The crime has not yet been expiated. No restitution has been made; no repentance shown.

"On the contrary, from all accounts the feeble efforts to teach the German people the essence of democracy have not succeeded, and the evil spirit of Nazism again raises its head in Germany.

Israel Indignant

The government and the people of Israel view with indignation and protest the policy of appeasement now practiced toward Germany," he concluded.

In reply Stane Krasovec, Yugoslav delegate, approved admitting Germany. Stating that he admitted there were "strong remnants of Nazism in Germany," he added that reminders of the Nazi crimes can "easier be brought when Germany is actively with U. N. specialized agencies."

Speeches urging admission of Spain to FAO were made by delegates from Portugal, United States, United Kingdom, Ireland, Philippines, Brazil, Haiti, South Africa, Lebanon, Pakistan, Egypt, Syria, Dominican Republic, Iraq, Saudi Arabia, Nicaragua, Honduras, Costa Rica and Liberia.

Also admitted to membership were Cambodia, Viet Nam, and the Hashemite Kingdom of Jordan.

Ousted Official Wins Back Post

BERKELEY SPRINGS, W. Va., Nov. 10 (AP).—P. C. Yost, ousted from the Board of Borgan County Commissioners several months ago on charges of appropriating county property for his own use, won back the office in Tuesday's election.

Yost, a Republican, defeated Democrat Archie L. Largent for a full term, 1947 to 1007. Yost is a farmer, canner and livestock dealer.

Looking on in foreground (left to right) are Pvt. Donald L. Buchanan, John D. Poole, AOM-2, and William C. Griffith GMM-2. The desk will be open from 10 a. m. to 8 p. m. Friday, Saturday and Sunday to aid servicemen on leave in the city

GW Doctors Pipe Novocaine To Ease Post-Surgery Pain

By N. S. Haseltine
Post Reporter

A new technique of post-operative pain control, by piping novocaine directly to nerve sites, was announced yesterday by George Washington University Hospital.

The method speeds recovery and lessens the need for administering morphine to carry patients over the periods of pain which follow operations, it was explained.

The new anesthesia wells consist of plastic tubes, tunnelled from the affected nerve sites to outside the patient's body by the surgeon before he closes the surgical wound.

The pain-killing drug then can be dripped into the outer ends of the tubes at regulated intervals to deaden the pains at their source.

Drs. Brian Blades and William B. Ford, who developed the new method, said it is particularly valuable in the care of older patients undergoing surgery.

Their use of the method with 18 patients is reported by them in the November issue of Surgery, Gynecology and Obstetrics, official journal of the American College of Surgeons. Dr. Blades is chief of surgery at the hospital.

The patients, they reported, were able to move in bed, and get out of bed sooner than if pain control had been accomplished with morphine alone. Morphine and similar drugs have undesirable effects, particularly when used in excess, they noted.

Can Be Plucked Out

The doctors reported that the inserted plastic tubes can readily be plucked out without harm to the patient after they are no longer needed, generally four of five days after the operation.

Experimental tubes, left in patients as long as nine days to test whether healing processes would pinch them closed, remained open, the surgeons reported.

There were no wound infections nor was there any difficulty in wound healing in the new pain control method, they said.

"The method is easy, and the results gratifying," they said in their official report.

Virginia to Study Social Security Extension Plans

RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 10 (AP).—The Virginia Advisory Legislative Council will meet November 16 at 10 a. m. to begin work on a study requested by Governor Battle relative to extending social security coverage to State and local government employes.

Governor Battle asked the council to make the study following a request by State Senator Andrew W. Clarke, of Fairfax, for a special session of the General Assembly to pass enabling legislation to permit such employes to come under the Federal Old Age and Survivors' Insurance program.

No Manpower Draft Now, Defense View

Demands for civilian manpower growing out of military expansion can be met "at this time" by voluntary means, Mrs. Anna M. Rosenberg believes.

Mrs. Rosenberg, who will be inducted as the Nation's first woman Assistant Secretary of Defense November 20, told a news conference yesterday there is a "general lack of manpower" arising from the Korean crisis and rearmament. This will make a "very large demand" on all resources for a long time to come, she said, and added:

"My hope is that the problem can be met at this time by voluntary measures."

Defense Secretary Marshall, introducing Mrs. Rosenberg to reporters and photographers at the Pentagon, said he was "very fortunate" to secure her services. She will take over the department's personnel and manpower job formerly held by Paul H. Griffith.

Marshall said she is an "outstanding expert" in the personnel field and indicated the scope of her work by calling attention to the "no less than five different offices" in the department concerned with manpower. He said no one "has had more experience" in the field of military manpower and the still controversial issue of Universal Military Training than Mrs. Rosenberg.

Asked by reporters about her views on UMT, Mrs. Rosenberg pointed out that she had been a member of the Compton Commission which strongly recommended its adoption in 1947 and said she was still "very much in favor" of the program.

She confessed to a limited knowledge of the details of her work in the Defense Department and asked reporters to give her time to familiarize herself with them before pressing for a forecast of how she intends to meet the issues.

Week's Sales Off 13% Here; Heat Blamed

By S. Oliver Goodman

A drop of 13 percent in sales of Washington department stores during the week ended November 4 was blamed yesterday on unseasonably warm weather.

For the four weeks ended the same date, dollar volume here was 3 percent behind the same 1949 period, the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond reported.

Store sales in the Fifth Reserve District showed a decline of 10 percent for the week and a dip of 1 percent for the four-week period.

In addition to temperatures in the 80s, merchants attributed the sales drop to tighter credit curbs.

HOLIDAY: Major security and commodity markets, including the Washington Stock Exchange, will be closed today in observance of Armistice Day.

WHO'S NEWS: Robert C. Hill of the Washington office of W. R. Grace & Co. has been promoted to assistant vice president. Gustavo Vidal and Juan E. Godoy have been made vice presidents of the international trading company . . . Harry G. Slater will resign as chief counsel of the division of public utilities, Securities and Exchange Commission, to become assistant general counsel for Niagara Mohawk Corp., effective January 1 . . . Melville E. Stone, sales promotion manager of Pan American World Airways, has been appointed advertising manager . . .

POWER SALES: October Sales of Potomac Electric Power Co. and subsidiary spurted 11.38 percent over the same 1949 month. Sales in the city alone were up 8 percent, while suburban sales leaped 19.45 percent. For the first 10 months this year, Pepco's sales aggregated 1,842,339,930 kilowatt hours, a gain of 5.62 percent over the like period last year.

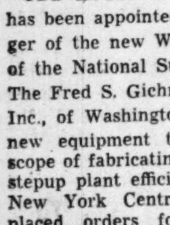

ECHOES: Secretary of Treasury Snyder summed up the views of a lot of people when he turned to Robert V. Fleming, president of Riggs National Bank, at Thursday night's anniversary fete and said: "I think you're a wonderful guy." . . . Mrs. Fleming's eyes were glistening as she listened proudly to the eulogies of her man . . . She recognized his worth back in 1912 when she married him . . . The twenty-fifth anniversary celebration of Fleming's accession to the Riggs' presidency brought the Mayflower to a new high as the gathering place of notables . . . The list read like a national who's who in Government, business and finance.

EXTRA DIVIDEND: Directors of National Capital Bank declared an extra dividend of 2 percent (20 cents) in addition to the semiannual dividend of 5 percent (50 cents), payable December 29 to stock of record December 18. President George A. Didden jr., said this is the 119th consecutive dividend to be paid by the bank and will make the total disbursement this year $1.20 a share. The same amount was paid last year.

ODD LOTS: Ralph S. Lorimer has been appointed branch manager of the new Washington office of the National Supply Co. . . . The Fred S. Gichner Iron Works, Inc., of Washington has installed new equipment to broaden the scope of fabricating processes and stepup plant efficiency . . . The New York Central System has placed orders for 101,300 net tons of new steel rail and for rail joint bars, to cost about $7,700,000 . . . Malayan tin prices skidded the equivalent of 21 cents a pound yesterday to just under $1.34½ . . . Pennsylvania Power & Light Co. has filed with the SEC a registration of a proposed offering of 475,409 shares of common stock . . . Reports are current that National Pan American World Airways would buy 367,790 shares or 30 percent of National's common stock.

Petersen Elected Bank President In Philadelphia

Petersen

Petersen, who will take his new post on December 1, succeeds Stanley W. Cousley, who was elected board chairman.

From 1941 to July 31, 1947, Petersen served under Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson. He resigned to become executive vice president of the Philadelphia bank. He was known as Patterson's "right hand."

Bonds to Be Called

NEW YORK, Nov. 10 (AP).—Directors of the Cleveland Union Terminals Co. have voted to call the company's outstanding first mortgage bonds, amounting to $41,614,400, for redemption April 1, 1951.

Chicago Grain

Chicago, Nov. 10 (AP).—Most cereals moved higher on the Board of Trade today after early strength in corn and oats spread to the rest of the list. Only rye ended with losses.

Corn and oats showed firmness right from the start, although they did not reach the seasonal highs scored Monday. Early buying was based on wintery weather in the Mid West with a prospect of below normal temperatures for the next five days.

Wheat ended ¼ to ½ higher; corn, 1⅜ to 2 cents higher; oats, 1½ to 2 cents higher; rye, ¼ to 1¼ lower; soybeans, 4 to 5 cents higher, and lard, 37 to 70 cents a hundred pounds higher.

Rise Continues For Third Day After Election

NEW YORK, Nov. 10 (AP).—The post-election rally in the stock market today ran into its third day.

The rise Friday was sedate, even sleepy, until the last few minutes of trading when buying interest perked up. Chemicals, in particular, were favored just before the close.

Advances ran to an extreme of around $2 a share though most gains were limited to $1 or less.

The late pickup was something of a surprise. The market will be closed Saturday in commemoration of Armistice Day and traders usually like to coast through a long weekend with commitments at a minimum in order to avoid the effects of upsetting weekend news.

Trading activity leaned to the slow side most of the time with turnover down to 1,640,000 shares from 1,760,000 Thursday.

Much of the buying was evidently an aftermath of the favorable climate created by the surprise strength shown by the Republican Party in the Tuesday elections. Another batch of increased or extra dividends also helped.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced 70 cents to $83.60 a share. Industrial stocks on average accounted for the bulk of the rise.

New York Cotton

NEW YORK, Nov. 10 (AP).—Cotton futures closed 70 cents to $2.50 a bale higher today in a firm and active market. Extensive mill buying in old-crop deliveries provided the principal support, along with some commission house and ing depressed the market at times, but local demand for contracts. Hedge selling prices were near the best for the day.

Taft Questions Defend-Europe Policy for U. S.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Nov. 10 (U.P.).—Sen. Robert A. Taft, (R., Ohio), said today he would insist that the eighty-second Congress give careful reconsideration of the value of defense abroad against defense at home.

In high spirits after his reelection in Tuesday's election by a 430,000 vote majority, the Senator raised doubts over the possibility of defending Europe at all.

"Is Europe our first line of defense?" he asked. "Is it defensible at all?"

Taft stressed that the people of Europe must help themselves, that the United States cannot alone defend Europe for them.

The GOP Senate leader said Congress should make a thorough reexamination of President Truman's foreign policy.

"There are many things on which I have to be convinced," he said.

Some of the questions which will need closer inspection by the Eighty-second Congress, Taft said, are:

1. How large an army do we need at home?

2. Are we putting all our eggs into one basket in depending so heavily on the Atlantic pact and European military aid?

3. Will the American people stand for a three-million-man Army and the universal military service program needed to sustain such an Army?

4. How do we raise the money to pay for this defense force?

Isolationism Revival Out, Says Smith, Wiley

By the United Press

Two top-ranking Republicans on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee declared yesterday that GOP election gains do not mean a return to isolationism or an end to the bipartisan foreign policy.

Senator Alexander Wiley (R., Wis.) said the new Congress may make "judicious" cuts in foreign spending but promised there will be no "meat ax" slashes.

Senator H. Alexander Smith (R., N. J.) said that instead of leaning toward isolationism, the Eighty-second Congress could return to a "realistic, united, American unpartisan foreign policy" if Democrats and Republicans cooperate as they did during the Eightieth Congress.

The two declarations, made separately, indicated that some key Republicans will resist efforts to interpret the GOP election gains as a mandate for sharp cutbacks in United States commitments, particularly to western Europe.

Wiley and Smith rank next to Senator Arthur H. Vandenburg, (R., Mich.) in seniority on the Foreign Relations Committee, which will play a major role in foreign policy decisions of the barely Democratic Eighty-second Congress.

Ban Lifted on Trade In Japanese Bonds

By The Associated Press

The Securities and Exchange Commission yesterday lifted the 9-year-old ban on trading in Japanese bonds.

Dealings in the Japanese dollar obligations will be resumed Monday on the New York Stock and Curb Exchanges.

The ban became effective December 8, 1941, following the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor. A ban also was put on trading in bonds of other Axis countries and issues in those countries.

The ban on Italian bonds was lifted several years ago, but it still remains in effect on securities issued by Germany, Austria, Bulgaria, Hungary and Rumania.

French Bomb Parley of Reds, Ho Chi Minh

HANOI, Indochina, Nov. 10 (AP). French army bombers and fighters wiped out a rebel village near the Chinese frontier last Saturday in the hope of finishing off elusive Ho Chi Minh, Moscow-trained leader of the Viet Minh Party. He was reported in conference there with Chinese Communists.

If French intelligence reports were correct, the surprise attack caught the leader and ranking Chinese in the midst of war talks at Lang Xa, 10 miles south of the China border on the edge of Ha Giang, important Viet Minh center 150 miles northwest of Hanoi.

In another action French warplanes ranged over the rugged Tonkines mountains Wednesday in extensive strikes at two main Viet Minh concentrations menacing the French defense line on the north Indo-Chinese perimeter.

The planes raked Viet Minh installations and communications along the frontier adjoining Communist China. Other aircraft struck at Viet Minh base areas 75 miles north and northeast of Hanoi.

Five German-made Junkers of World War II vintage dumped 100 bombs of 120 pounds each on the Lang Xa target. Twelve King Cobra fighters (P-63's) dived in before and after the bombers, strafing and dropping bomb loads at close range. Lang Xa was newly built, characterized by stone-walled houses with thatch roofs. It formed an irregular ring in a narrow valley between two crags.

Physicist Claims Gadget Eliminates Radio Commercial

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 10 (U.P.).—A Cambridge physicist today said he has developed a new wonder of science that can eliminate spoken commercials from musical radio programs.

It's one difficulty is that the device won't eliminate singing commercials and that it can't be used to eliminate commercials from spoken programs, Dr. R. Clark Jones said.

Jones said that you just attach the gadget to your radio, turn on an all-musical program and as soon as an announcer starts to talk the radio goes dead.

He said it's not too reliable on selections like the patter songs of Gilbert and Sullivan, but "when the words are subordinate to music as they are in opera, the device will not interrupt the singing." Jones developed the electronic gadget as a hobby and no definite decision has been made about marketing it.

2 Arlingtonians Charged In Liquor Transport

Two Arlington men were arrested yesterday and charged with illegally transporting liquor into Virginia from the District.

The men, William B. Dickerson, 40, of 1009 S. Queen st., and Herman C. Parks, 40, of 1420 S. Queen st., were picked up in the 1000 block of S. Queen st. on warrants by M. K. Bryant, State Alcoholic Beverage Control investigator. Bryant said their 1950 Chrysler sedan carried 12 fifths of wine, 5 fifths of whisky, and 4 cases of beer. State law prohibits transportation of more than one gallon of alcoholic beverages into Virginia. Dickerson and Parks, booked by Arlington police, were freed under $500 bond each for hearing in Arlington County Court 9 a. m. Monday.

General Tire Votes $1 Extra Dividend

General Tire & Rubber Co., Akron, Ohio, declared an extra dividend of $1 on common, payable Novemmber 30 to holders of record November 20. On the payable November 30 to holders of year, shareholders also will receive the 25 percent quarterly and 50 percent extra, which were declared on October 16 with record date November 20.

The action today brings the total for the fiscal year to $3, against $2 in the preceding year.

Al Lopez, 42, Named New Cleveland Manager

By Milton Dolinger

CLEVELAND, Nov. 10 (U.P.).—In an abrupt and amazing maneuver, the Cleveland Indians kicked out their popular player-manager, Lou Boudreau, today and brought in former big league catcher Al Lopez to replace him, then paved the way for Boudreau to take another job as manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Sources close to Branch Rickey, the new Pittsburgh general manager, said in New York it was likely that Boudreau would be offered the job as Pirate pilot, provided that waivers could be obtained on him as a player in the American League.

Boudreau himself was crushed when he got the news at his home in Harvey, Ill.

"It was a complete surprise to me," he said. "When President Ellis Ryan called me this morning to say that Lopez had been named to my job, that was the first I knew about it.

News Long Withheld

"I had never talked to Mr. Ryan about the job before," he said. "Until this morning I assumed I would still be manager. There was no indication of anything else. He told me they had decided to make a change and that was it."

Ryan announced the decision to replace Boudreau was made at the end of the 1950 season but had no explanation why the news was withheld until today.

"Lopez has been manager of the Indianapolis Indians the past three years," Ryan said. "He won the pennant in 1948 and finished second in 1949 and 1950. In 1949, the Indians went on to win the playoffs and the Little World Series."

Ryan said the Indians were doing everything they could to get Boudreau another job.

Still a Nice Guy

"I'd like to make it clear that Boudreau's disassociation with the Indians has no bearing on our admiration for him as a gentleman and a player," Ryan said.

"Because of his high personal regard and Lou's long and efficient service to the Cleveland club, we have been endeavoring to arrange a managerial job with another major league club. We're happy to say that this is now nearing completion. Nothing is definite at the moment, though, because several details remain to be worked out.

[The Associated Press reported that it was Rickey, Ryan disclosed, who made it possible to hire Lopez. He said Frank McKinney, owner of the Indianapolis Indians of the American Association and a Pittsburgh farm, declined to let Lopez go last October.

[He needed Pittsburgh's consent, having just signed Lopez to a one-year contract. When Rickey came in, he consented to release Lopez, Ryan said.]

In New York, associates who were with Rickey in all of his negotiations to take over as boss of the Pirates, said "there is a lot of smoke and probably a little fire to that Boudreau report."

Must Be Waived Out

"The transfer of Boudreau from Cleveland to Pittsburgh would involve a lot of things," one source said. "First of all, since he is a player, it would require getting him waived out of the American League. However, if he had an offer to manage the Pirates, the other clubs involved probably would make a courtesy waiver for him."

Lou Shocked By Dismissal, Says It Was Badly Done

HARVEY, Ill., Nov. 10 (AP).—Lou Boudreau said today he was "shocked" by his replacement by Al Lopez as Cleveland Indian manager and raised the question whether he had been given his unconditonal release.

"I don't know anything of the Indians' arrangement for me to take another major league managerial job," said Boudreau at his home here.

"So far, all I have been told is that Lopez has replaced me as manager. As far as my own plans go, I can't do anything until I've found out what the Cleveland club intends to do with my contract."

Boudreau said he "regretted" that the Indians waited until this time to make the change.

"I do think that they handled this thing badly. If they were determined to make a change, they should have made it earlier, not only on my account, but on account of the coaches. It won't be as easy for those fellows to find jobs now as it would have been a month ago."

The 33-year-old Boudreau said he believed he "easily" could play 125 games per season for three or four more seasons. He continued:

"If I can't continue in baseball, I may accept a standing invitation from athletic director Doug Mills of Illinois to join the athletic staff at that school." A former Illinois athletic star, Boudreau has remained in close contact with his alma mater throughout his major league career.

Boudreau said he had the impression right up until today that Ryan and General Manager Hank Greenberg would give him a one-year managerial contract to replace an expired pact.

"Ryan told me we would get together when Greenberg returned from a vacation," Boudreau said. "But I understand while Greenberg was on that vacation he conferred with Lopez in the east two weeks ago. Lopez winters in Florida, so I don't believe it was a chance meeting."

Billy Meyer Finds Out Monday How He Stands

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 10 (AP). Likeable Billy Meyer, acclaimed baseball's manager of the year in 1948, may find out next week where he stands in the Branch Rickey era of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The Buc front office got a phone call from New York today. Rickey was on the line. He passed down the word:

Meyer is to meet Rickey in the plush Pirate offices here Monday for a conference. There was no elaboration.

Of course the speculation started.

Is Rickey going to pay off the $40,000 for the year Bill's contract has to run and pick a new pilot?

Is Lou Boudreau, who got fired as Cleveland manager today in favor of Al Lopez, coming to Pittsburgh?

Is former Dodger boss Rickey going to make Brooklyn's Burt Shotten his Buc manager?

LeBaron Passes Quantico to 42-7 Victory

Eddie Tosses 2 Scores and Catches One

By Jack Walsh

Post Reporter

QUANTICO, Va., Nov. 10.—Quantico's Marines observed the 50-50 rule to the letter here today—three officers and three enlisted men scored touchdowns in their impressive 42-7 rout of Camp Lejeune's Leathernecks.

Prior to the game, Quantico expressed considerable concern over the ruling that it could play only five officers at a time. The coaches feared it would ruin the cohesion their units developed in rolling over seven of eight previous opponents.

Truth is, only thing ruined was the gallant team from North Carolina. But this, the 175th birthday of the illustrious Marine Corps, was a good day to keep beatings in the family.

And a predominantly forest-green-clad crowd of 15,000 appreciated an afternoon of good, smart football.

Ksycewski Put His Foot In

Tying them all was Cas Ksycewski, former Catholic U. great, who celebrated his recent promotion to captain by booting all six extra points.

The game was billed as a duel between two of last year's most publicized college backs—Quantico's Eddie LeBaron and Lejeune's Harry Agganis.

It materialized, too. LeBaron cleverly directed Quantico to all of its scores, passing for two touchdowns and taking a surprise aerial for another.

Agganis, the Golden Greek from Boston U., threw a 14-yard pass to Russ Godwin for Lejeune's only touchdown late in the game and played a magnificent game on defense in the safety position.

Agganis Handicapped By Line

It's hardly fair to compare the job Agganis did to that of LeBaron's. As these things usually are, the issue really was settled in the line.

Just take a look at the yardage figures—Quantico rushed for 337 yards to 32 for Lejeune. While Agganis was being chased like a thief, LeBaron could have been throwing from a rocking chair.

At that, Harry completed eight passes; LeBaron seven.

But Agganis couldn't match LeBaron's terrific faking. Even on obvious pass plays, the little College of Pacific magician had Lejeune tackling "ball carriers" without the ball.

Quantico set the pattern in the middle of the first period when it marched 84 yards for its first score. Hard-running Bob Farrell plunged over from the 1.

The Virginia Marines burst loose for three more in the second period. Farrell set up the second touchdown by breaking loose 43

Penalty Costs Louisville Major Upset of Miami

MIAMI, Fla., Nov. 10 (AP).—A penalty that nullified an apparently successful conversion in the last minute and 15 seconds of play cost Louisville a chance tonight to upset Miami, the Nation's ninth-ranking football team. As it was the lightly regarded Kentuckians earned a sensational 13-13 tie with the Hurricanes.

The penalty was imposed on Louisville for an "illegal formation." After the game Coach Frank Camp of Louisville said he was first told it was because he only had 10 men on the field, and then—when he pointed to 11—because Louisville only had 6 men on the line of scrimmage.

Dave Rivenbark, who had split the uprights with his first attempt, tried again, 5 yards further back, and this time he failed. If he had succeeded Louisville would have won, 14-13.

Miami was favored to win by four touchdowns, but the Hurricanes didn't seem to have the spark with their little, limping quarterback, Jack Hackett, on the sidelines.

Miami scored first on a pretty 32-yard pass in the first period. Louisville came charging back at the start of the second half with a sustained drive from its own 42, and Miami retaliated by ripping Louisville's line apart in the last quarter to make it 13-7.

Then came the blow that dashed Miami's hopes for an all-victorious season. Gordon Watson fumbled and Otto Knop recovered for Louisville on the Miami 30. Paul Shelton was thrown for a 2-yard loss, Louisville was set back 15 yards for holding, and then Bill Karns passed to Leonard Ray on the Miami 29.

On the next play Tom Lucia took Karns' pass and snaked down the sidelines for the touchdown that made it 13-13 with one minute and 15 seconds to play.

The amazed crowd of 28,824 watched in silence as Louisville lined up for the conversion. Rivenbark sent kick true between the uprights and a great roar of anguish went up. Then came a frenzied debate on the field between officials and players.

So it was that a Louisville team that has won only three games, and lost four, had to settle for a tie with the Hurricanes who stunned the football world by defeating Purdue the week after Purdue dumped Notre Dame.

Miami	7	0	0	6	—13
Louisville	0	0	7	6	—13

Miami scoring: Touchdowns—Jelley (pass from McDonald), Mallios. Conversion—Watson.

Zastrow Tries Arm Against Tulane Today

By Shirley Povich

Post Reporter

BALTIMORE, Md., Nov. 10.—Bob Zastrow, Navy's air arm, is scheduled for his toughest workout of the season tomorrow when the win-hungry Midshipmen collide with Tulane's out-size line in Municipal Stadium.

Navy strategy makes provision for the probability it will be forced into the air, after a few probing attempts to crash the big Tulane line which owns the Nation's fifth best defensive record against running attacks.

Thus the Middies will be looking to Zastrow, chiefly, with the hope that he will come up with one of his intermittently "hot" days. A year ago, he was the star of Navy's 21-21 tie with Tulane in New Orleans.

Frnka Has "Big Six"

This year's Tulane team is without Ed Price, now with the Giants in the pro league, who last season legged it to all three of the Green Wave's touchdowns against the Middies. Coach Henry Frnka, however, has divided the running duties among what he calls his Big Six—a half dozen backs who shuttle in and out of the contest.

That Tulane will test the running game of the Middies is for sure. It owns the Nation's biggest guard in Jerome Helluin, a 284-pounder, and playing alongside him will be Don Joyce, 230-pound tackle. At the other tackle is Dick Fugler, a mere 228-pounder.

Quarterback Bill Bonar, who operates from Tulane's T-formation, will have Harold Waggoner as his chief helper in the Green Wave's running game. Waggoner has the hefty average of 8.4 yards per carry since the season opened.

Irish Has Beaten Both

Navy and Tulane were common victims of Notre Dame, which licked them, respectively, 19-10, and 13-9. Alabama's 26-14 win was Tulane's only other defeat. Navy is seeking its second victory of the season.

Coach Eddie Erdelatz rates the Green Wave as a stronger outfit than any his Middies have encountered except Notre Dame. "They do a lot of things out of their T—whip up flanker plays, split their ends and tackles, and throw a lot of diversified stuff at you"

Tulane rates a 1½-point favorite in the betting, but Erdelatz views Navy's chances as good. "We played well against Notre Dame and are still coming," he said today.

Caroll Tops Syracuse, 21-16

CLEVELAND, Nov. 10 (AP).—John Carroll University's football team, normally a minor league outfit, startled Syracuse University tonight by coming from behind in the last quarter and winning, 21 to 16.

The Cleveland school, scarcely known outside of Ohio, scored two touchdowns in the final period to amaze the 16,724 fans shivering in 27-degree temperature in the lakefront stadium.

Carl Taseff smashed over from the 1-yard line with the winning score just as the clock hand was ticking into the final minute of the game. Then Carroll hung on against Syracuse's outraged last charges.

As the last Syracuse pass fell incomplete and the game ended, practically the entire student body of John Carroll swarmed onto the field and carried the jubilant players to the dressing room.

Dauthuille Gets Nod Over Young

NEW YORK, Nov. 10 (AP).—Laurent Dauthuille of France slammed out a razor-thin 10-round decision over Paddy Young, stout-hearted young Irishman from New York's Greenwich Village, tonight at Madison Square Garden in his New York debut. Dauthuille weighed 157, Young 156.

All three officials voted for the talented Frenchman but many of the 7186 fans who paid $25,382 roared disapproval. Young, a 2 to 1 underdog, was the peoples' choice in a rugged gruelling battle.

Auerbach's Celtics Play Caps Tonight

Wearing the uniform of the Boston Celtics, three former Caps return to Uline Arena tonight for a National Basketball Association game with the Caps at 8:30.

Coach Red Auerbach and Center John Mahnken, two of the original Caps, and Sonny Hertzberg, who performed here two seasons ago, will be with the Celtics, who are seeking their third consecutive victory.

Auerbach coached the Caps from 1946-49, and one of his key men was Bones McKinney, now the Caps' coach. The combination brought Washington two Eastern Division championships and 123 wins against only 60 losses, including playoff games.

The redhead left the Caps last year to coach the Tri-Cities Blackhawks and split even in two decisions with the Caps. During the off-season, Auerbach accepted the Boston post.

Fans at tonight's contest will see six members of the Celts over 6 feet, 5 inches tall. The parade of giants is led by Harry Boyoff (6 feet, 10 inches), obtained from Baltimore on waivers. I y Ed MacAuley and Mahnken are both 6-foot, 8-inch men. Brady Walker and Andy Ducan (6-6 each) and Chuck Cooper (6-5) are the other tall members of the Celtics.

Boston also has an All-American of last year—Bob Cousey, of Holy Cross.

The Celtics have scored a 76-71 triumph over the Minneapolis Lakers, defending champions, and also hold an 83-64 victory over the Baltimore Bullets.

The Caps, on the other hand, lost, 85-91, to the Lakers here a week ago, and nosed out the Bullets, 86-81, the night after Boston had routed them.

Shea Leads Army's Heptagonal Defense

NEW YORK, Nov. 10 (AP).—Dick Shea led Army to a successful defense of its heptagonal cross-country championship today.

Shea led the pack home over the 5-mile Van Cortlandt Park course in 24:54.2. Army scored 33 points, far ahead of second place Cornell, 87, and third-place Penn, 89. Navy was ninth with 182.

6½-Point Favorite

Terps Seek 1st Victory In 24 Years at Carolina

By Morris Siegel
Post Reporter

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., Nov. 10.—Maryland, which hasn't beaten North Carolina in 24 years, is a 6½-point favorite to turn the trick here tomorrow.

The teams hook up in the day's top Southern Conference battle at 2 p. m. A near capacity crowd of 38,000 is expected to sit in on the eighteenth renewal of the colorful series which started back in 1899.

Maryland has won only four of the 17 previous games, the Tar Heels all the rest.

It's Maryland's last chance to get back into the New Year's Day Bowl pictures, a scene from which they were practically removed when North Carolina State stunned the Terps, 16-13.

A decisive victory over the Tar Heels—something Maryland has never done—and the Terps will find themselves with an outside chance of playing in one of the better New Year's Day affairs.

A defeat and the Terps are through. Carolina is their last big opportunity. After tomorrow's game, come West Virginia and V. P. I., hardly recommendations for prestige.

Maryland goes into the game without the services of Fullback Ed Fullerton, the Pennsylvania sophomore who was beginning to blossom out as a real star in the Duke game. A leg injury has sidelined him for the season.

Quarterback Jack Scarbath, who directed, ran and passed Maryland to its biggest triumphs this season, is still recovering from a shoulder separation and Bob DeStefano, another sophomore, will undoubtedly do most of the quarterbacking.

The Tar Heels got a boost for the game when doctors pronounced Fullback Billy Hayes, of Arlington, Va., ready to go. Hayes, who does most of the Tar Heel passing, cracked his jaw two weeks ago but it's been wired up and he'll take his place in the regular Tar Heel backfield along with Dick Bupting, the successor to Charlie Justice.

About 3500 Maryland rooters will be on hand to whoop it up for the Old Liners. Coach Tatum feels he'll need all the help he can get.

Hoyas 13-Point Underdogs at Fordham

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Grim Georgetown worked out this afternoon in the Polo Grounds where the victory-starved Hoyas, 13-point underdogs to absorb their sixth defeat in seven starts, tomorrow meet Ed Danowski's resurgent Fordham Rams, beaten only by Yale.

Fordham established itself as a good team when it beat San Francisco, 21-14. San Francisco inflicted the only loss on Tulsa, 23-14, and the Oklahomans toyed with Georgetown, 21-7. Fordham beat Georgetown last year by 42-0.

Tomorrow's contest would figure more evenly but Georgetown has three key men whose injuries make them question marks.

Bugs Thompson and Dick Doyle weren't working at full speed this afternoon even in sweat suits. Terry Murphy, fine defensive back, suffered a hip bruise in the Miami game last week and still is a doubtful starter.

Loss of Murphy and Thompson in the secondary would hurt considerably. Fordham's ace is sharpshooting Dick Doheny who led the country with 62 percent of his passes being completed last year. He's slipped to 61 percent so far this season.

End Al Pfeiffer is his favorite target. Fordham also has a great soph back who could make lots of trouble—Jack Hyatt. Injured earlier in the season, Hyatt now is 95 percent ready.

Stout Misses Eagles Game

Up to their neck in losses, the Redskins got more bad news yesterday.

They learned that Fullback Pete Stout will definitely not be able to play against the Philadelphia Eagles Sunday and that Tackle Bob Hendren and End Danny Brown have joined Quarterback Harry Gilmer on the "extremely doubtful" list.

Stout's knee buckled on him in practice yesterday morning while Hendren and Brown, rookie wingman from Villanova, haven't recovered from various injuries received in last Sunday's game against the Giants in New York.

While Coach Herman Ball was fretting, Eagles Coach Greasy Neale was smiling. He signed Halfback Dan Sanifer, who played with the Redskins last year, and will spring him against his old club tomorrow.

The Eagles got Sandifer on waivers from the San Francisco '49ers who picked him up only two weeks ago from the Detroit Lions via the same method. The Redskins sent the former LSU star to the Lions in exchange for Bill Dudley last winter.

Catholic U. Win Would Make Best Postwar Mark

CHESTERTOWN, Md., Oct. 10. If Catholic University wins tomorrow's game with Washington College here, it will close the door on the best season the Cardinals have had since the war.

Catholic has two victories, two defeats and a tie for the season.

Thirteen Cardinal players close their football careers tomorrow. Besides Ennis, they are: Jack O'Neill, Bill DeYoung, Dan Killigrew, Joe Maiuri, Cliff Sisler, Bill Maher, Tony Scoppetuolo, Dick Orsini, Hank Quinn, Tony Pelerossi and Joe Mahon.

Hunt Races End Today At Middleburg

By Harry De Mawby, Jr.

MIDDLEBURG, Va., Nov. 10.—Upward of 10,000 spectators are expected for the conclusion of the National Hunt Races' meeting at the Glenwood Park Race Course near here tomorrow.

The first race is scheduled at 2 p. m.

Attracting a banner field of 11 probable starters, the thirtieth running of the Manly Steeplechase will highlight the final session of brush, hurdle and flat racing.

The early favorite for the $3500 added test, is Mrs. Stephen C. Clark, jr.'s, Trough Hill, winner of the recent Grand National at Belmont Park, the country's richest field event.

Trough Hill, steeplechase horse of the year in the 1949 Daily Racing Form poll, was kept out of Tuesday's Battleship Steeplechase to point for this test and has been assigned the top weight of 160 pounds.

Second on the weight list is Mrs. Marion du Pont Scott's Hampton Roads who scored a three-length victory in Tuesday's renewal of the Battleship over the local course.

Matt Daiger, 78, Retires as Head Of Timonium

PIMLICO, Nov. 10.—Matt L. Daiger, grand old man of Maryland racing, has retired as head of the Timonium race track, a post he held for 35 of his 52 years in the State's turf sport.

Daiger, now 78, had planned to continue as president and general manager under the newly organized Maryland State Fair and Agricultural Society but gave up the job on his doctor's advice.

The new group expressed regret at Daiger's retirement and elected him president emeritus for life. He formerly was secretary and general manager of the Maryland Jockey Club and was in charge of Pimlico for many years.

PGA Meetings Open

CHCAGO, Nov. 10 (AP).—Committee sessions tomorrow will open the six-day, thirty-fourth annual meeting of the Professional Golfers Association of America.

Western, Eastern in Headliner

Three of the four teams battling it out for the Group I Interhigh championship and the right to meet McKinley in the big Interhigh championship game November 24 at Griffith Stadium see action in a doubleheader today at Eastern.

The championship game is sponsored by The Washington Post, Touchdown Club and Board of Education.

Eastern meets Western in the opener today at 12:30 p. m., and Anacostia plays Wilson in the 2:30 nightcap. All but Wilson still stand a chance to take Group I honors.

Eastern's Ramblers have won four games and tied one, and are a half-game ahead of the Anacostia Indians, who sport a 3-0-1 record. An Eastern triumph today would eliminate Western and give the Ramblers at least a tie for the title.

Anacostia, if Eastern wins, would have to win today and next week against Western to tie.

Chief cause of concern for Eastern Coach Dick Mentzer is Paul Weinstein, Western's T formation quarterback, who will return to action today after a month's absence caused by a knee injury. Mentzer didn't get a chance to scout Weinstein before his injury, and, consequently knows little about him.

In the past three seasons Eastern has squeezed by the Red Raiders by one-point margins, 7-6, 7-6, and 13-12.

One thing that pleased Western Coach Fred Mulvey during the week's practice sessions was the bounce exhibited by the boys. Mulvey says that, "They didn't show much spirit Monday or Tuesday, but on Wednesday and Thursday they perked up."

Bullis Plays Fork Union

In a topflight prep school attraction today Fork Union Military Academy visits Bullis Prep in Silver Spring for a 2:30 contest, with no admission price charged. Fork Union has won 17 consecutive games and is seeking its eighth 1950 triumph.

Bullis, with five victories and a 21-7 loss to strong Aquinas of Rochester, is greatly improved over last year, when the Little Admirals were thumped, 60-0, by Fork Union.

A long-standing Virginia rivalry will be renewed for the twenty-eighth time when Alexandria's Episcopal Maroons meet Virginia Episcopal of Lynchburg at 2:30 in Alexandria. The Maroons hold a 23-5 edge in the series, which began in 1922.

Freeman Paces Cardozo's Victory

BORDENTOWN, N. J., Nov. 10. Sparked by Harry Freeman, Cardoza High of Washington, D. C., powered its way to a 14-0 victory over Bordentown Manual Training School here today.

Freeman intercepted a Bordentown pass in the second quarter and galloped for a touchdown. Freeman again shook loose for a touchdown in the third period.

Marusic Sags, Fazio's 70 Cuts Lead by Three

SAVANNAH, Ga., Nov. 10 (U.P.) Milon Marusic of Albany, N. Y., failed to maintain his own pace by eight strokes today, but held the lead in the $10,000 Savannah Open Golf Tournament after 36 holes.

Marusic, a 34-year-old unknown in big-time golf, shot a par 72 over the flat, well-trapped General Oglethorpe course here for a total of 136 strokes. His 64 yesterday set a course record.

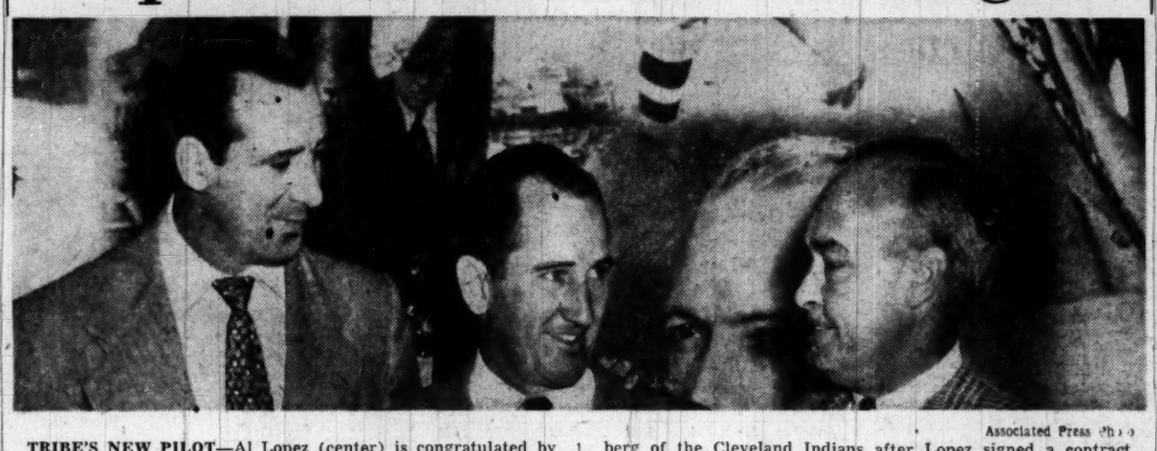

Behind him at 137 was Felice Torza, from St. Charles, Ill., who had a 68 today, one better than his first round.

Three of the favorites were tied at 139. Jim Ferrier of San Francisco fired a 69 today, George Fazio, pro at Woodmont Country Club, Washington, a 70, and Tommy Bolt of Durham, N. C., a 71.

The field was cut to those scoring 152 or better, and British Amateur Champion Frank Stranahan of Toledo, Ohio, barely made it with a 65 today for a 151 total. Dick Chapman of Pinehurst, N. C., led the amateurs with a 144, after two straight pars.

Replaces Fired Boudreau

Lopez Named Tribe Manager

TRIBE'S NEW PILOT—Al Lopez (center) is congratulated by President Ellis Ryan (right) and General Manager Hank Greenberg of the Cleveland Indians after Lopez signed a contract yesterday to manage the Indians next season. Lopez is 42 with the possible transfer of Boudreau to Pittsburgh. Until he was signed to manage Cleveland, Lopez was the No. 1 candidate to succeed Billy Meyer at Pittsburgh.

When the news of Boudreau's firing reached the Cleveland fans they went on the war path.

They called newspapers, radio stations, and the offices of the Cleveland club in an unbelievable volume to protest. The situation recalled a previous incident in 1947 when Bill Veeck, then owner of the club, tried to replace Boudreau.

He had to give up the notion when he was barraged by protests from the fans who worship the black-haired, handsome ex-college basketball star from the University of Illinois. Veeck admitted his mistake after Boudreau came through by winning the 1948 pennant and the World Series, first for Cleveland in 28 years.

The one-time boy manager of the Indians, still only 33 years old, had directed them from his shortstop post for the past nine seasons. He was operating under a two-year holdover contract for $70,000 a season, signed with Veeck after the 1948 World Series triumph over the Boston Braves.

Boudreau, who was dean of the major league managers in point of service with one club despite his comparative youth, knew nothing of any negotiations to get him to Pittsburgh.

"This is the hunting season," he said. "And I suppose I better do most of my hunting for a job. But I don't suppose I'll have much trouble finding one."

Ryan said the telephone call to Buodreau "was the most unpleasant job I had to do in my lifetime."

Hank Greenberg, general manager of the Indians, said "I never considered anyone but Lopez for the job from the start. He can bring us a pennant. We're not going to stand pat. We still need to make some player changes and we'll get them made."

Ryan, who couldn't explain why the announcement had been held up since the World Series, even admitted that he hadn't intended to break the news today.

"Although we were not ready to make the announcement, we had to do it clear up misunderstandings."

These misunderstandings involved Boudreau's remarks earlier this week that he had expected to stay with the Indians next year.

Lopez, who will get about $35,000 a season on his two-year contract, said he would represent the Indians at the winter baseball meetings in St. Petersburg, Fla.

Herrlein Stars

Mt. Vernon Loses, 25-13, To W-L High

By Gordon Beard

Washington-Lee High of Arlington scored three second half touchdowns for a 25-13 triumph over Mount Vernon in a Northern Virginia League game last night at Arlington.

John Herrlein scored two third-quarter W-L touchdowns from the 1-foot line after the scores were set up by big Sam Ebedert.

Eberdt picked up 115 yards on the ground and 117 passing as the Little Generals chalked up their fifth win in eight starts.

Eberdt also scored the last W-L touchdown with one and a half minutes remaining, charging over from the one. Dick Brooks accounted for the other Little Generals' score in the first quarter on a 34-yard pass from Eberdt, deflected by Stan Kelly on the 5-yard line.

Mount Vernon, seeking its seventh victory but instead absorbing its second defeat, took a 7-6 lead in the second period when Eddie West threw an 8-yard pass to Bob Wadell. Buddy Lakey, who recovered a W-L fumble on the Little Generals' 40 to set up the score, booted the extra point.

With seven seconds remaining, Kelley went 3 yards around left end for the final Mount Vernon score.

Washington-Lee	6	0	13	6—25
Mount Vernon	0	7	0	6—13

Washington-Lee scoring: touchdowns—Brooks, Herrlein (2), Eberdt; conversion—Riddle (placement).

Mount Vernon scoring: touchdowns—Wadell, Kelly; conversion—Lakey (placement).

Sporting News Says Zeckendorf Is Buying Browns

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 10 (AP).—The Sporting News reported today William Zeckendorf of New York is negotiating for purchase of the St. Louis Browns with the idea of moving the American League club to Houston, Tex.

The Sporting News, national baseball weekly, said in a copyrighted article by its publisher, J. G. Taylor Spink, that Zeckendorf "already has interested a number of Texas multi-millionaires in the projected move."

Zeckendorf, head of the New York real estate firm of Webb and Knapp, recently tried to buy a 25 percent interest in the Brooklyn Dodgers from Branch Rickey.

Davis Against Jasonek

GW Meets Furman Today In Pass Vs. Run Game

By Herb Heft
Post Reporter

GREENVILLE, S. C., Nov. 10.—Andy Davis, one of the Nation's foremost passers, and Ed Jasonek, one of its topflight ball carriers, square off here tomorrow in a pass vs. run Southern Conference football game at 2 p. m.

Davis, of course, will be pitching for George Washington University, and Jasonek will be carrying for Furman.

Davis will have a bit of an advantage. He'll be firing away at a Furman team which is notably vulnerable on pass defense. On the other hand, Jasonek will be banging up against a G. W. line which did itself proud against the strong ground-gaining machine of Wake Forest and Maryland.

However, Jasonek has done well enough against better teams than G. W.; against Alabama, for example, he rolled up 90 yards. The 198-pound senior from Bergen, N. J., is fifteenth in the Nation in rushing, with a 6.3 yards average.

He has an able running mate in Sonny Horton, who has a 6.1 average. Despite Furman's split T offense, Quarterback Joe Watt does little passing, preferring to hand off or pitch out to Jasonek or Horton. It has apparently paid off for the Purple Hurricane have averaged better than 200 yards rushing per game.

Davis is eleventh in the Nation in passing and fifth in total offense. If Furman's defense is as weak a pit is reputed to be, Andy should move up even higher.

A blow to Furman was the announcement today that two key defensive players have been suspended for disciplinary reasons, there was no amplification.

The players are Harold Pridmore and Bill Shearer, both first string defensive halfbacks. Their banishment is indefinite.

G. W. is trying to pull out of a three-game losing streak. Second-half collapses were responsible for all those defeats. Against Wake Forest, G. W. had an 0-0 tie at halftime, and against South Carolina anad Maryland, it was 7-7 at intermission.

The Colonials arrived here by train at noon today. They were greeted by two old Washington friends, Bill Young and Jim Meade, head coach and backfield coach at Furman. Young used to play for the Redskins anad Meade for Maryland and the Redskins.

Mrs. Erkenbeck Wins Army Navy Golf

Mrs. Vernon Erkenbeck and Mrs. Ann Anderson both had 31 points yesterday in Army Navy Country Club's women's hickey tournament but Mrs. Erkenbeck won in a matchoff. Mrs. Jeanne Duffy took third with 29 points. Mrs. J. M. Malloy won the nine-hole tournament. All won turkeys.

Tech Crushes Bell, 49-0, in Title Tuneup

In a tuneup for its Interhigh Championship game at Griffith Stadium on November 24, McKinley Tech romped over Bell Vocational, 49-0, yesterday at Tech.

Halfback Stan Kernan scored three touchdowns and Ben Colandreo and John Wege two each for the Trainers.

The Trainers roared to an 18-point first quarter lead on touchdowns by Kernan, Colandreo and Wege.

Kernan sprinted 37 yards in the second quarter, before Back Ray Murray went 15 years with an intercepted pass to give Tech a 30-0 lead.

After a 58-yard drive in the third period, Ben Colandreo scampered 10 yards for a score. Kernan ran a Bell punt back 45 yards along the sidelines early in the fourth quarter, and Colandreo, after a 45-yard punt return to the Bell 10, added the final Trainer score. Jim Owens made the only conversion.

McKinley Tech	18	12	6	13—49

Maryland Park Bows To Frederick, 33-12

FREDERICK, Md., Oct. 10. Frederick High defeated Maryland Park, 32-12, here in a subfreezing football game. Touchdowns by Dick Shippley and Jim Baker put Frederick ahead, 13-0, at the half.

Maryland Park	0	0	6	6—12
Frederick	7	6	7	12—32

yards to the 1. On second down, with still a yard to go, LeBaron passed to Kaasmann in the end zone.

After Hosea Rodgers and Ed Romankowski ripped off the sizeable yardage, Len Aloy cleverly scampered 5 yards into the end zone for the third score.

Late in the period, LeBaron found End Bob McElroy with a 23-yard scoring toss.

After intermission, Romankowski, one of the other top backs on the field with his outstanding defensive and offensive play, intercepted a pass by Bob Boller and raced 44 yards to the one.

John Merricks, a buck sergeant, bucked over.

LeBaron saved his arch piece of trickery until the end. From the 17, he slipped Quantico into the old Notre Dame box. Navy's Bill Hawkins took a lateral, then, and threw a scoring pass to Mr. LeBaron who was completely alone. It was the second pass bone-crushing Hawkins has thrown all season.

That made it 42-0, but Agganis wasn't through. From the Quantico 20, Harry put Lejeune in a weird spread that stretched from sideline to sideline. In the middle of the field and on the end of the line was Center Ken Schoff, eligible to take a pass in the formation. He did, and Lejeune had a first down on the 14.

Agganis then clicked for the 14-yard touchdown with a perfectly-executed screen pass to Russ Godwin.

Barnett Goes 85 Yards as Landon Wins

Landon School found a hero yesterday in Halfback Dick Barnett, who toted a fourth-quarter kickoff 85 yards for the winning touchdown and his school's third triumph over St. Albans in 23 years. The final score was 18-14.

St. Albans, behind 12-7, went ahead on a 6-yard pass from Spud Parker to Bill Hoffer early in the final period. Buddy Somerville's kick was good, and St. Albans led 14-12.

Barnett took the following kickoff on his own 15, went up the middle and raced the distance for the score.

Landon took a 6-0 lead in the opening quarter. Bob Chatfield passed to Bill Gess from the St. Albans 37 to the 29-yard line. Bill Brawner went to the 6, and Barnett sped around end from there for the touchdown.

St. Albans went ahead, 7-6, in the next period when Don Tredennick intercepted a lateral on the Landon 16. A pass from Somerville to Hoffer was good for the score, and Somerville put St. Albans ahead with his placement.

Gess intercepted a St. Albans pass on the Albans 26 to set up Landon's second tally. Four plays later, Brawner scored on a 5-yard plunge.

The Albans went ahead—until Barnett got his hands on the ball on the kickoff.

Aunt Jinny Tops Field in Marguerite

PIMLICO, Nov. 10.—Sixth running of the Marguerite Stakes, mile and a sixteenth event for 2-year-old fillies, headlines the program at Pimlico tomorrow and a smart field of eight has been named.

Duval A. Headley's Aunt Jinny and Brookmeade Stable's Atalanta rate as the two performers in the field in view of previous stakes triumphs, and a victory for either probably will earn for the winner the championship of the juvenile filly division.

Aunt Jinny comes into the Marguerite fresh from triumphs in the Demoiselle Stakes at Jamaica and the Selima Stakes at Laurel. A third straight score would clinch honors for her.

Belair Stud's Vulcania, beaten a head by Aunt Jinny in the Selima and who has since had a race over the Pimlico strip, looms, as a strong candidate for honors.

Rounding out the field are Greentree Stable's Toto, who finished fourth in the Demoiselle, Brookmeade's Two Rainbows, a three-time winner this season but unplaced in the Selima; George D. Widner's Discreet, Cary A. Boshmer's Carolina Queen and Lochinvar Stable's Flanvee.

Aunt Jinny will be attempting to complete a lucrative Maryland Selima-Marguerite double, as Bed O'Roses did in 1949. WALTER HAIGHT.

Joe Loses 3 Close Ones At Pimlico

By Walter Haight
Post Reporter

PIMLICO, Nov. 10.—Joe Culmone, "Mr. Saddle, Himself," rode three winners on today's program but was also thwarted three times.

The Italian youth was second in the final three races of the day, losing by margins of a head, a nose and a half-length in thrilling battles to the wire.

With 318 winners for the year under his belt and needing only one to match Johnny Longden's national record set in Culmone twice found little Auggie Catalano in his way.

The Arlington County youth, also of Italian parentage, kept M. Kahlbaum's Risk a Whirl going long enough to stave off Culmone and J. Marsch's Whirling Dough in the featured sixth race. Both boys were on sons of Whirlaway. Culmone brought Whirling Dough along with a mighty rush but, somehow, Catalano's mount clung to the lead.

Shoemaker Wins 2, Leads Culmone by 3

INGLEWOOD, Calif., Nov. 10 (AP).—Jockey Willie Shoemaker broke the American record for horse race victories in a single season today and maintained a dwindling lead over Joe Culmone, his nearest rival, in the race for 1950 riding honors.

Shoemaker won two races at Hollywood Park this afternoon, bringing his total to 321 and breaking the old record of 319 posted by Johnny Longden in 1948. Culmone, who scored a triple at Pimlico today, boosted his total to 318. Shoemaker won aboard Harbor Pilot in the first race and hit the winner's circle on Fair Regards in the featured seventh race.

Catalano Does It Again

Culmone put up another sterling ride in the seventh race on Mrs. F. J. Vollmer's Infirst. He took the mare to the front and she appeared to have the race locked up but the pesky Catalano roused Kidded and caught his rival in the final lunge for another victory for the Kahlbaum barn.

Jolting Joe was up on the Blue Stone Farm's Pine Vision in the eighth race and once again took the lead and appeared headed for his fourth victory of the day. This time Edward McMullen upset Culmone's backers by sneaking through on the inside and winning going away aboard R. A. Johnson's Chief John O.

Culmone, who cancelled two mounts that won the seventh and eighth races yesterday because he had an upset stomach, proved he was shipshape as today's program opened.

Wins 1st, 4th, 5th

He climbed up on R. R. McLarin's Conewago and brought the 5-year-old home to pay $7.60 and set the stage for an $82.40 pay-off on the 4-and-5 combination in the daily double. Culmone was out of the money in the second race as Mrs. E. A. Christmas' Dollargofast, a $6.20 shot, took the purse.

Culmone took the fourth and fifth races, showing his versatility by winning with C. Crowthere's Mere Bones, paying $8.60, on a desperate around-the-outside ride that thrilled the crowd. Then he came back to make it three for te day by taking Helen S. Reineman's Twinkley to the front at the break and keeping her there, the Culmone gang collecting $15,20 for each $2 investment.

Culmone still has a sizable lead in the local races for jockey honors, topping Catalano by 18 to 8 for the current meeting.

Hoya Frosh Play

Georgetown University's freshman football team entertains Richmond's frosh today at 2 p. m. The Hoya yearlings have beaten Temple and Woodward and lost to Bullis Prep.

DEAR FOLKS: AT PIMLICO

As usual, the Maryland Racing Writers Association's dinner proved a friendly gettogether. In one singing group were observed Mrs. Josephine O'Hara of Bowie, Henry A. Parr, 3d, of Pimlico and Joe Cascarella of the new Laurel set-up. Maj. Gen. Milton Reckord, president of Havre de Grace, evidently can't sing but he was caught tapping his foot. Alfred G. Vanderbilt's Loser Weeper was awarded the plate for being voted the outstanding Maryland-bred horse of the year. Eddie Benham, former jockey who became one of the country's outstanding out-riders, has retired from the saddle. Raking and Caribou, the two horses who broke down on the Thursday program, were humanely destroyed. Good week-end show. See you on the rail.

Housewife With 3 Young Sons and A Average Leads GW Law Class Graduating Today

By Henry Rohland—The Washington Post

Finding Job Next Step For Wife of Senator's Legislative Assistant

This year's honor graduate is Mrs. Elizabeth Strachan Freret, a tall, handsome woman, who didn't let three lively sons halt her ambition to become a lawyer.

Mrs. Freret, surrounded by her family in her home at 2 Accotink rd., Alexandria, yesterday said her next step will be to look for a job.

"I will never be satisfied unless I practice law," she said.

Mrs. Freret has the approval of her husband, Julian Freret, a lawyer, too, and at present legislative assistant to Senator Allen J. Ellender, (D., La.).

The couple met at Tulane University while he was a law student and she an undergraduate. They were married in New Orleans several years later. Mrs. Freret was a lieutenant (j. g.) in the Waves and her husband an Army Air Force officer.

Mrs. Freret began work on her law degree at Tulane in 1942 but completed only a semester. The war, marriage, three children and seven years passed before she entered George Washington University. By taking extra courses in the summer she finished the three-year program in a year and a half.

While she was away from home, Mrs. Josephine Randolph, the children's nurse, watched over Payne, now 5; Charles, 4, and Norman, 3.

Mrs. Freret found that while the dual responsibility of running a home and attending school kept her busy, there was never any drudgery.

"Going to school made keeping house interesting, and keeping house kept me interested in school."

2-Car Crash Kills Man, 85; 3 Others Hurt

Bethesda Resident Fatally Injured in Maryland Smashup

An 85-year-old Bethesda resident was killed and three members of his family were injured in a two-car collision on State Route 26 near Eldersburg in Carroll County, Md., yesterday.

Pronounced dead on arrival at West Baltimore General Hospital about 6 p. m. was Edward Frederick Rauchenstein, of 6806 Exfair rd., Bethesda.

His daughter, Mrs. Helen Calhoun, 52, of the Exfair rd. address, was admitted to the same hospital with severe cuts. Her husband, John Samuel Calhoun, 56, went home after treatment for face lacerations. Their daughter, Helen Edna Calhoun, 17, was treated for shock.

Maryland State police said Calhoun was driving east on Route 26, and apparently swung to the wrong lane at the crest of a hill. He attempted to turn back when he saw a car approaching from the opposite direction, but the other car, driven by Maurice H. Muller, 50, of Westminster, Md., according to police, caught the left rear side of Calhoun's car, which was spun around, hit a bank and then was thrown back into the road.

Police said Morris Barr, 44, of 519 Powhatan pl. nw., told the manager of Ottenberg's Bakery, where he is employed, that he was the driver of the truck involved in the accident.

The admission came just before Lieut. William Liverman, head of the Accident Investigation Unit, and a witness to the accident, arrived at the bakery for a special line-up of all drivers on duty at the time of the crash.

The workman, Charles Coombs, of White Post, Va., was killed at 1st st. and New York ave ne., when he was struck by a car, and then run over by a bakery truck.

Barr told police yesterday he did not realize he had run over Coombs.

Police said no charges have been placed against Barr.

Civil Defense Group Formed For D. C. Area

Fondahl Heads New Committee To Map Plans

The District's acting civil defense director, Inspector John E. Fondahl, yesterday was named chairman of the newly formed Washington Metropolitan Area Civil Defense Committee.

In a three and a half hour closed meeting at the District National Guard Armory, representatives of the city, Maryland and Virginia laid the groundwork for the committee to "plan, coordinate and support" civil defense activities in Greater Washington.

Afterward Inspector Fondahl told reporters that although the area defense setups vary in detail, there is no basic "obstacle" to creation of an integrated, mutually helpful organization.

In addition to three divisions already announced—medical and health, warden service and emergency welfare—three others are planned. They are Fire Services, headed by Fire Chief Joseph A. Mayhew; Police Services, headed by Police Superintendent Robert J. Barrett, which will cover anti-sabotage and plant protection; and Engineer Services, headed by Assistant Engineer Commissioner Thomas J. Hayes, 3d, which will handle transportation, communications and resources.

The Area Civil Defense Committee agreed on a policy of assigning to each community in a 20-mile radius the responsibility for organizing and operating services within their jurisdictions, trying only to maintain a general pattern, Fondahl said.

Sub-groups Planned

Under the committee will be sub-groups consisting of persons actually organizing such area services as fire, police and medical aid, which will meet to discuss problems in their fields.

The top committee will meet regularly on the second Friday of each month at the armory, and bring in persons on operational levels for consultation.

Besides Inspector Fondahl, the committee includes General Jacob L. Devers (ret.), civil defense coordinator for northern Virginia; Lieut. Col. D. G. McIntosh, Maryland civil defense director; a yet unnamed representative of the Military District of Washington, and assistants for each of the D. C., Maryland and Virginia representatives.

Legal Steps Taken

As an early step in the coordination program, the committee has asked the Commissioners and the attorneys general of Maryland and Virginia to meet with the District corporation counsel to plan legislation covering mutual pacts of assistance and concurrent problems such as accident liability.

Security Asked By Trade Board For Inductees

The Washington Board of Trade directors yesterday urged members to provide for the security of employes who have been or may be inducted into the armed services by continuing their employment until the last possible day, and carrying out reemployment regulations.

The directors acted on the recommendation of the Military and Naval Affairs Committee headed by Col. John Lemp, chairman.

In a resolution, the directors asked members "to view the reserve status of an individual applying for a job in a most favorable light, since the reserve plan is the backbone of our national defense."

The officials urged the Chamber of Commerce of the United States to promote a similar policy nationally.

Firemen Put Out Leaf Blaze Under Anti-Smoke Law

"What do we do about this fire?" asked firemen of Engine Co. 29 yesterday from a lot in the 5000 block of Sherrier pl. nw.

The unusual conversation was not a case of firemen forgetting their training and instructions on how to fight a blaze.

It was just that the lot's owner, William E. Neff of 2404 Chain Bridge rd. nw., couldn't understand why he could not burn leaves and trash on his own property. He protested when firemen arrived.

Explained Second Battalion Chief William H. Ronan, who gave the "put it out" order: The District has a law against smoke, when it becomes a nuisance. The neighbors complained about the smoke from Neff's fire, so the firemen had to put it out.

ABW Wins Bus Fare Rise Of 5-10 Cents

Increase Covers Points Between District and Virginia; Granted by ICC

A general 5-cent fare increase for bus rides on the A. B. & W. Transit Co. between Washington and Virginia points was authorized by the Interstate Commerce Commission yesterday.

The new fares will go into effect at 5 a. m. Monday, it was announced last night by Robert T. Mitchell, AB & W vice president.

Most of the interstate rides on the AB & W lines will cost 5 cents more. However, riders between Washington and a few points in Fairfax County will pay 10 cents more than at present, under the ICC ruling.

The ICC, agreeing that the company needs additional revenues, authorized all increases proposed by the company, with two exceptions. It followed all recommendations of the examiner in the case, H. C. Lawton.

The bus line serves an estimated 70,000 passengers daily, most of whom are interstate riders.

As recommended by the examiner, the ICC allowed a fare of 25 cents between Washington and Annandale, rather than the 30 cents proposed by A. B. & W. The present fare is 20 cents.

The ICC fixed a fare of 45 cents for service to and from Fort Belvoir, an increase of 10 cents. This will apply both to the present service, by way of Alexandria and Route 1, and to a new route proposed by the company, over the Shirley hwy. and Virginia Routes 617 and 613, for which a fare of 60 cents was asked. The new service would be run during heavy weekend and holiday travel.

Specifically, the new fares will be 20 cents cash or 17½ cents in tokens in the second zone, where the present charge is 15 cents cash or 12½ cents in tokens.

In the third zone, the rate will increase from 15 cents to 20 cents cash.

In zones beyond the third, where fares now range from 20 cents to 45 cents, 5 cents will be added.

However, the increase will be 10 cents for trips between Washington and the Open Air Theater on Route 1 in Mount Vernon, certain points on the Mount Vernon hwy. south of Alexandria and Engleside on Route 1.

A separate fare increase for the company's first zone, which includes the Pentagon, Navy Annex, National Airport and other Government installations, has been recommended by examiner Lawton and is before the full ICC.

The A.B.&W.'s last fare boost was a 5-cent rise in most of its intrastate fares, approved by the Virginia State Corporation Commission. It went into effect June 4.

The A.B.&W.'s last interstate fare increases came in October, 1948, when boosts of 5 cents in cash or 2½ cents in tokens were made effective in various zones.

Women Pioneers Of New Jail To See It Today

Three charter members of the Organized Women Voters of Arlington, who say they started the move for the county's new jail in 1925, will join other group members in a tour of the just-completed calaboose today at 2 p. m.

The trio, Mrs. Hendree P. Simpson, 2325 N. Glebe rd.; Mrs. Crandal Mackey, 1711 N. 22d st., and Mrs. Claude Semones, 2516 S. Fern st., all of Arlington, asked the all-male Arlington Board of Supervisors for a new jail 25 years ago.

Sheriff J. Elwood Clements will guide club members through the jail, which opened for its regular clientele Monday.

Injured Woman Awarded $7500 In Taxi Crash

Mrs. Melva Davis, 40 of 1875 Good Hope rd. se., was awarded $7500 yesterday by a District Court jury for injuries suffered in a traffic accident July 10, 1948.

The verdict was against Yellow Cab Co., Inc. One of its taxis collided with Mrs. Davis' automobile at 18th and S st. se. Mrs. Davis, who was represented by Alvin L. Newmyer, jr., suffered two fractured ribs and a concussion. She still has headaches, the jury was told.

The panel deliberated three hours before returning the verdict to Judge T. Alan Goldsborough.

Blast Knocks Out Part of Home In N. E., Injuring One Occupant

Another Explosion Damages Apartments On Six Floors of Conn. Ave. Project

Fire and police officials are investigating a series of fires and a mysterious explosion which blew out one side of the second floor of a house at 5340 Ames st. ne. yesterday at 3:45 p. m., injuring one occupant.

Acting Chief Fire Marshal Roy Warfield said that his investigation so far has not disclosed what exploded. But, he added, "it definitely was not a bomb."

Although four persons were in the two-story brick house at the time, the only one hurt was George Green, 36, who gave his address as 5911 Eads st. ne.

Green was treated at Gallinger Hospital for first and second degree burns to his arms, face and hands.

Police said the blast blew out the second story section of one side of the house and bulged the front. The roof of the house slipped down over the side. Last night Warfield indicated the building may have to be razed.

Warfield said that he found fires in a second floor apartment rented by Eva and Arthur Green. He said there were fires in the kitchen, a front room closet, and in the bathroom.

George Green, who Warfield said was a brother of Mrs. Green, was asleep when the explosion occurred. He later told officials that "nothing fell" on him, that he had turned off a hot water heater.

An unidentified woman and two children were in the first floor apartment at the time of the explosion.

Warfield said last night he planned to question George Green and added, "I hope he has the answers. We don't know yet what happened."

Earlier in the day, apartments on six floors of the Kenmore Apartments in the 5400 block of Connecticut ave. nw. were damaged when an explosion shook the building. No one was injured.

Force of the blast broke windows in a whole tier of apartments. Warfield, who investigated the explosion, said it was apparently caused by a leak in the gas line in the raceway feeding all pipes through the building.

D. C. Welfare Grants Hiked For 7000

Board Approves Living Cost Rise Effective Jan. 1

By Dorothea Andrews
Post Reporter

More than 7000 persons on public assistance in Washington will get an increase in their monthly grants from the Board of Public Welfare beginning January 1.

Acting in special session to compensate for grants now far behind current living costs, the board adopted a revised public assistance budget standard and a policy of "reviewing and if necessary revising" the budget standard annually.

The new budget standard, which will supplant the current standard based on 1946 living costs, is 84 percent of 1950 living costs. It is made possible, board officials explained, because of new funds available under an amendment to the Social Security Act permitting aid to disabled.

For Washington this will mean $600,000 in added funds for the 1951 fiscal year and $900,000 more in the 1952 fiscal year.

Old age assistance, from $39.34 to $46.20, an increase of 17 percent; aid to dependent children, from $73.57 to $96.60, an increase of 31 percent; aid to the blind, from $40.85 to $48.80, an increase of 19 percent; general public assistance to single persons, from $42.54 to $50.40, an increase of 18 percent; general public assistance to families, from $61.66 to $71.40, an increase of 16 percent. Added to the public assistance categories was aid to the disabled, which was set at $52.50.

The rent allowance, now scaled from $30 to $44, was upped to $33 for one person cooking his meals to $50 for ten persons.

The board used actual prices supplied by the Bureau of Labor Statisitcs in calculating the new budget standard, and selected the "plan which provides for minimum food needs at the lowest total cost."

Other changes in the budget for one person cooking his own meals between payments now made and those proposed are: clothing, from $5 to $7; personal and household necessities, from $4 to $5.

The board noted in announcing its change in budget standards that it pays no grant in excess of $160 a month.

Murder Count

Woman Dies From Blow; Man Charged

George B. Wilgus, 28, a gas station attendant, yesterday was charged with killing his common-law wife by striking her once on the head with his fist.

Wilgus

The woman, Charlotte Bruce, 24, a slightly built brunette, died of a broken neck and cerebral hemorrhage, an autopsy disclosed.

Wilgus, who weighs less than 150 pounds, told police he struck her in their room at 913 Massachusetts ave nw., when she attempted to claw him while he was trying to put her to bed. He said she had come home about 3 a. m. after a night of drinking.

He was arraigned before United States Commissioner Cyril S. Lawrence, who set the charge at second degree murder and continued the case to Thursday. He ordered Wilgus held under $3000 bond.

In a signed confession to police, Wilgus said he met Miss Bruce for a "few beers" after finishing work at his gas station at 424 Rhode Island ave. ne., about 11 p. m.

From there they went to a second restaurant, where she drank "double shots of whisky," he told police. He said he went home alone after she refused to accompany him.

About 3 a. m. he was awakened by "loud talking" and found Miss Bruce and a girl friend in the bathroom, he told police. He said he sent the friend away and started to put Miss Bruce to bed.

It was then she tried to scratch him, so to protect himself, he struck her on her head, he said.

He did not realize, Wilgus said, that she was unconscious for several minutes. He said he thought she was merely drunk.

Wilgus told police he is married but has been living with Miss Bruce for about 18 months. He said she came here from Knoxville, Tenn.

Fatal Quarrel Leads To Arrest for Murder

He was pronounced dead on arrival at Freedmen's Hospital. Police charged the neighbor, James A. Valnes, 34, of 1332 Vermont ave. nw., with murder.

An argument started between Burns and Valnes' wife, around 7:30 p. m. in the Valnes home, according to police. They said Valnes became very angry when Burns slapped Mrs. Valnes, and the men went outside, when Burns was stabbed.

Seven Firemen Found Guilty As Incendiaries

Young Volunteers Implicated in 12 Prince Georges Blazes

Seven youthful volunteer firemen were convicted yesterday in connection with the setting of 12 fires in unoccupied dwellings and barns in Prince Georges County.

Appearing before Judges Charles C. Marbury and J. Dudley Digges in Prince Georges Circuit Court at Marlboro, the seven changed their plea from innocent to guilty after four of them were found guilty of setting one of the fires.

The court ordered a presentence investigation and adjourned until November 17 at 10 a. m. at which time sentences will be pronounced.

Convicted were: William D. Tippett, 20, of Suitland, on all 12 counts; Willy D. Grusholt, 19, of Forestville, four counts; Arthur James Stacey, 22, of Parkland, two counts; Thomas A. Marlowe, 18, of Suitland, two counts; Joseph Baker, 16, and Ford Baker, 14, brothers, of District Heights, one count and three counts, and Clifford Brown, 15, of Morningside, four counts.

All were placed under $1000 bond pending sentence.

Builders Group Hears Discussion Of Credit Curbs

A decline in home building due to Federal credit curbs may result in private investment capital showing more interest in Government-backed GI loans, the Home Builders Association of Metropolitan Washington was told last night.

The statement was made by John McCarthy of Walker Dunlop, Inc., at a meeting of the association in the Hotel Burlington attended by 210 persons.

McCarthy also said "the picture of construction loans will be good for the next six to nine months," in a discussion of the financial outlook for builders.

Others on the program included Lawrence J. Lehan, of the Joseph M. Zamoiski Co.; Russell Lamar, of Lamar & Wallace; Morgan B. Callahan, loan guarantee officer, regional Veterans Administration office; and Thomas C. Barringer, director of the FHA's District insuring office; President Clarke Daniel presided.

Connecticut Ave. Janitor Held As Pickup Man for Numbers

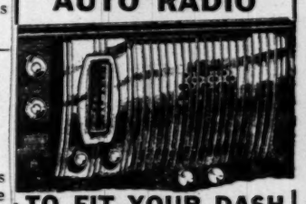

A janitor, described by police as a numbers pick-up man for fashionable Connecticut ave. apartment houses, was charged yesterday with operating a lottery and possession of numbers slips.

Arrested by members of the vice squad as he drove across the South Capitol Street Bridge, he was identified as Henry P. Hammock, 36, of 3432 Connecticut ave. nw., where, police said, he is a part-time janitor. He was released under $1500 bond for arraignment Monday before United States Commissioner Cyril S. Lawrence.

Lieut. Roy E. Blick, head of the vice squad, said his men had been watching Hammock for three days. Yesterday they followed him as he stopped at several fashionable apartment houses on Connecticut ave. and watched him pick up slips from elevator operators and janitors, Blick said.

When he started to drive across the South Capitol st. bridge, vice squad members believed he was headed into Maryland, so they ordered him to pull to the curb, Blick said. He added that a bag of numbers slips was found on the front seat of Hammock's car, other slips were found in a blanket in the trunk and Hammock had $206 in cash with him. Police had no warrant for his arrest, according to Blick.

Van Dusen Rickert, D. C. Teacher, Dies

Van Dusen Rickert, 48, a Western High School linguistic and sociology teacher, died Thursday night of a heart attack at his home, 3414 Newark st. nw.

Mr. Rickert

Well-known and well-liked by the students and faculty at Western, Mr. Rickert served in District public schools for 20 years including Jefferson Junior High and Roosevelt High Schools.

Western Principal Nathaniel Danowsky said Mr. Rickert was "one of the most outstanding scholars on the faculty of District high schools." He could speak six languages, among them Chinese.

In their 1949 Year Book, Western students said:

"As he has dedicated his years here to teaching and guiding us, so we, the Senior Class, dedicate our 1949 Westerner to Mr. Rickert. His congeniality, sense of humor and keen interest in people have helped to make our years at Western both profitable and enjoyable."

Born in Pottsville, Pa., he was graduated from Princeton University cum laude with B.A. and M.A. degrees. He traveled in India with Dr. Frank N. D. Buchman, founder of the Moral Rearmament Program, in which Mr. Rickers was an active leader. In Peiping, China, he was a teacher before coming here in 1930.

Besides his wife, Mrs. Margaret Bradley Rickert, he leaves four children, Jonathan Bradley, Philip Van Dusen, Stephan McMurtrie and Elizabeth Ann, all of the home address. He also leaves a brother, Thomas H. Rickert of Essex Falls, N. J., and a sister, Mrs. Charles Scoville Wishard of Pottsville, formerly of Washington.

Funeral services will be held in Washington Cathedral Monday at 4 p. m. Burial will be in Pottsville.

Of Blood Illness

Miss Rheem, Socialite, Dies at 29

Nancy Rheem, 29-year-old Washington socialite, died Thursday night at George Washington University Hospital of a blood illness.

MISS NANCY RHEEM
. . . socialite dies

Miss Rheem was the granddaughter of the late Harry Wardman, well-known Washington builder, and the divorced wife of John Alden Talbot, jr., a socialite yachtsman.

In the divorce proceedings Miss Rheem charged her husband caused her "great mental anguish" when he became infatuated with movie star Lana Turner.

Miss Rheem and Talbot were married April 26, 1947, in a fashionable wedding at Washington Cathedral. The divorce was granted in July, 1948, and Mrs. Talbot assumed her maiden name.

Miss Rheem made her home at 2715 Cortland pl. nw., with her mother, Mrs. Alice W. Millholland, who was the former Alice Wardman, and her stepfather, Col. George H. Millholand, USA (ret.).

She had traveled widely and on her most recent trip to Europe consulted internationally known doctors in efforts to regain her health.

Washington-born, Miss Rheem attended Holton-Arms School here and Vassar College. She was a member of the Army-Navy Country Club.

Her father, Edmund D. Rheem, was formerly a partner in an investment firm here. He now lives in Los Angeles.

Funeral services will be at 2 p. m. Tuesday in Fort Myer Chapel. Burial will be in Arlington Cemetery.

Dr. Bauman Dies; Funeral Rites Today

Funeral services for the Rev. Louis S. Bauman, D. D., 74, who died Wednesday at Sibley Hospital, will be held at 1 p. m. today at the First Brethren Church, 12th and E sts. se., where he was pastor. Burial will be Monday in Germantown, Pa.

Rev. Bauman

Dr. Bauman came to Washington in October, 1948, when he assumed the pastorate of the First Brethren Church. He resided at 3712 Carpenter st. se.

Before coming to Washington he had been founder and pastor of the First Brethren Church in Long Beach, Calif., for 34 years. He had recently finished 55 years of service in the ministry. He was treasurer of the Foreign Missionary Society of the Brethren Church, editor of the Foreign Missionary Number of the Brethren Missionary Herald and was a well-known Bible conference speaker and evangelist.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Retta Virginia Bauman; a son, Dr. Paul R. Bauman, executive vice president of Grace Theological Seminary, Winona Lake, Ind.; three grandchildren, and a sister, Mrs. Ora Anderson, of Swayzee, Ind.

The following will represent the District Bar Association: Jo V. Morgan, Paul B. Cromelin, John J. Carmody, George E. McNeil, Milton W. King, Francis W Hill, jr., Godfrey L. Munter, Austin F. Canfield, John Paul Jones and Joseph T. Keating.

E. C. Harper, U. S. Architect, Dies at 61

Funeral services for Edward Clarke Harper, 61, architect for the Public Building Administration who died at his home Wednesday, were held yesterday at Gawler's Chapel, 1756 Pennsylvania ave. nw.

Mr. Harper

Mr. Harper, who lived at 1819 P st. se., designed Government postoffices, veterans' hospitals and public health service buildings here for the past 20 years.

He was the brother of Gen. Arthur M. Harper, commandant of the Field Artillery Center at Fort Sill, Okla., and Dr. Frederick W. Harper of the United States Public Health Service.

Born in Minneapolis, Mr. Harper graduated from the University of Illinois in 1914.

Besides General Harper and Dr. Harper of 3025 Ontario rd. nw., Mr. Harper is survived by two sisters, Miss Nola S. Harper of the P st. address, and Mrs. J. F. Browne of Anaheim, Calif. Two other brothers, Alfred Harper of Red Lake Falls, Minn., and Robert C. Harper of New Rockford, N. D., also survive.

W. B. McGroarty, 92, Virginian Historian, Dies

Funeral services for William Buckner McGroarty, 92, Virginia historian, who died Thursday at his home, 122 S. Fairfax st., Alexandria, will be held at 2 p. m. today in the Presbyterian Meeting House in Alexandria. Burial will be in Oakwood Cemetery, Falls Church.

The old meeting house was the subject of one of Mr. McGroarty's books. Since his retirement in 1937 after 57 years of service with the Southern Railway, he had also written a book on "Washington, First in the Hearts of His Countrymen."

In 1925, he was sent by the Southern Railway to Alexandria to become its industrial and commercial agent there.

He had been active in the Washington Society and the Alexandria Chamber of Commerce, and was a member of the Society of Colonial Wars and the Sons of the American Revolution.

His wife, the former Georgianna Pease, died several years ago.

He is survived by two daughters, Miss Alma McGroarty, with whom he lived, and Mrs. Charles Everett Mackenzie of Halifax, N. S., two grandsons and a great-grandson.

Ceylonese Art, Songs Entrance Embassy Guests

By Marie McNair

Guests at the Ambassador of Ceylon and Mme. Corea's cocktail party yesterday afternoon were entranced with everything they saw.

The Ambassador and Mme. Corea recently back from a long stay in their country, have brought back many beautiful things—such as high polished bronzes and silver ornaments of delicate carving.

And the splendor and culture of the Orient were in the costumes and the music given by a visiting Ceylonese couple, Mr. and Mme. Suriasena, who delighted the group with Sengalese songs. In white satin trousers with an overlay of filmy silk, a red velvet bolero and cummerbund, a mitered hat, all lavishly encrusted in gold, Mr. Suriasena sang gay and plaintive melodies accompanying himself on the rebek, a form of violin cello. Mme. Suriasena in gold tissue sari embroidered in pale blue, played a rare type of harp of mother-of-pearl and cloisonne, which her husband explained had been made for her from a copy of an ancient Persian painting. And fitting into this picture of the East was the hostess herself in a magnificent sari of bright blue and scarlet banded in gold and worn with gold necklace and matching earrings.

With the trays of drinks that went the rounds, were tiny curry puffs filled with highly spiced meat and paper thin "papadon," crisp as a potato chip and filled with sesame seeds.

Ceylon delegates to FAO were in the gathering and the half dozen Ceylonese clerics there are on their way home after attending the Moral Rearmament Conference in Caux, Switzerland. They've been guests of Dr. C. Leslie Glenn, rector of St. John's, and have attended meetings here of the Washington group. Among them was the Bishop of Mandalay, Aung Hla. Others there were the Pakistan Ambassador, M. A. H. Ispahani; the Minister of Syria and Mme. El-Khouri; Mrs. Charles Malik, wife of the Lebanese Minister, and Ray Muir, Assistant Chief of Protocol. Also there were Mrs. Edward B. Meigs, John Briscoe of England; Mr. and Mrs. Felix de Weldon and Mrs. Frederick Mitchell Gould.

A BRIDE AND BRIDEGROOM were honor guests at a reception yesterday given by the Bolivian Ambassador and Senora de Martinez Vargas. The bridegroom is the embassy's First Secretary, Enrique Kempff; the bride is the former Georganne Williamson, who's a member of the editorial staff of The Washington Post. They were married in New York a fortnight ago.

Among the guests who came to offer felicitations were Edward G. Miller, jr., Assistant Secretary of State; the Ambassador of Honduras and Senora de Valle; the Colombian Ambassador and Senora de Zuleta-Angel and their daughters, Emilia and Margarita; the United States Ambassador to OAS, Paul Daniels, and the Venezuelan Ambassador to OAS and Senora de Lepervanche.

Then there were the alternate representative of Cuba to OAS, Dr. Jose Baron and Senora de Baron; the Minister Counselor of the Chilean Embassy and Senora de Rodriguez; the First Secretary of the Uruguay Embassy and Senora de Yriart; Maj. and Mrs. Jerre Boggs, Spencer King, head of the Bolivian desk at the State Department; Juan Parellada of the Spanish Embassy, the First Secretary of the Honduran Embassy and Senora de Aguero; Miss Marcela Calvo, Miss Mary Lou Little, Miss Claire Snow, Mrs. Gerald Meade and Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Whittemore.

Among other guests of the Latin American diplomatic corps were the Charge d' Affaires of Costa Rica, Jorge Hazera, and his sister, Senorita Maria Hazera; Atilio Montania, First Secretary of the Paraguay Embassy, and Jose Hernandez de Aguero, Second Secretary of the Peruvian Embassy.

IN A WORTHY CAUSE:

ST. JOHN'S CHURCH will hold its annual Armistice Day Bazaar and Book Fair all day today in the Parish Hall, 819 16th st. Mrs. Miles Coleon is general chairman.

Books both new and old will be on sale, with Christmas cards, wrappings and stocking presents, kitchen gadgets, flowering plants, white elephants and home-cooked pies, cakes and cookies, as well as jumbo Texas pecans, and candy. Sandwiches, coffee and cokes will be served all day.

Three Washington authors autographing copies of their books will be Mrs. Stockton Banks, "Washington Adventure"; Miss Marion King, "Coat of Many Colors," and Lieut. Comdr. Burke Wilkinson, "Run, Mongoose."

The bazaar and book fair will benefit St. John's Orphanage, the church Book Stall, and missions both at home and abroad.

DOWN THE MIDDLE AISLE:

News of the marriage of Josephine Louise Berliner to George Lindsay Vargas, is made known by the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Adler Berliner. The ceremony took place October 17 in Reno.

The bride, born in Washington, attended Friends School, New York University and George Washington University. Mr. Vargas is a well known lawyer in Reno where he and his bride will make their home.

ALONG EMBASSY ROW

THE BRITISH AMBASSADOR and Lady Franks will be in Princeton, N. J., today to attend the Princeton-Harvard game.

Paul Gore-Booth, Director General of British Information Services, and Mrs. Gore-Booth, left Thursday on a trip to the mid-West, visiting among other places, Chicago, Detroit, Akron and Indianapolis.

SAILING tomorrow on the African Endeavor are Col. Jacobus De Vos, retiring Military and Air Attache of the South African Embassy, and Mme. De Vos with their son, Wouter. They will arrive in Capetown on November 29.

THE BELGIAN AMBASSADOR, Baron Robert Silvercruys, is spending a few days at The Cloister in Sea Island, Ga. Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Van Slycke are also at The Cloister.

PAULETTE OF PARIS, who sells hats to some of the best dressed women in the world, has explained how it happened that Mesta, United States Minister of Luxembourg, met at a recent cocktail party wearing identical gray hats. The two ladies raised eyebrows and barely spoke, according to a story which went the rounds the day after.

But if there was any feeling of pique, Mme. Bonnet certainly didn't express it when I met her at the Soviet Embassy reception this week, wearing another Paullette model—a black number with what looked like black spruce fronds tipped with rhinestones. "See this hat," she said, with a twinkle in her black eyes, "There's another lady in town with one just like it. Next time I'm going to call her up and we'll go to the party together."

The French milliner says that Mme. Bonnet and Mrs. Mesta bought no less than 50 hats between them, and that one particular hat was selected by six of her customers. Even at $75 a throw, she doesn't guarantee an exclusive model, says Paullette. One-of-kind chapeaux are higher.

The Duchess of Windsor is a steady Paullette patron, also Mrs. David K. E. Bruce, wife of our Ambassador to France.

Last night the French Ambassador and Mme. Bonnet were hosts at dinner in honor of Mrs. Mesta. No duplication this time!

Experiment Blanche

By Ann Lawrence

THE FACIAL MASSAGE movements which we worked out for Blanche were planned for the most restful effects on muscles and nerves and were designed especially to stimulate the circulation of the face and neck.

Actually, they are known as "corrective contour massage" and can be followed by anyone whose complexion calls for a stimulating massage.

These routines which Blanche is using follow the "uplift" principle and we warned her: Never pat or stroke the skin with a downward movement. After all, you're trying to lift and tone the muscles, not drag them down!

FIRST, BLANCHE saturated a cotton pad with the lubricant-lotion. Then, starting from the outer edge of the collarbone, she stroked upward to the jawbone, continuing the same movements around the neck. She repeated the strokes three times.

For the sagging jaw muscles, she started beneath her chin, stroked firmly upward following the jawline. She continued up the side of the cheek to the temple, staying close to the hairline. These movements were repeated three times on each side of her face.

For those "frown lines" across her forehead, she started at the tip of her nose, stroking upward to the hairline. Continuing across her forehead, she used short upward strokes from the brow to the hairline and finished with brisk cross-strokes, starting from the center of the forehead and working outward to the temple, alternating each side.

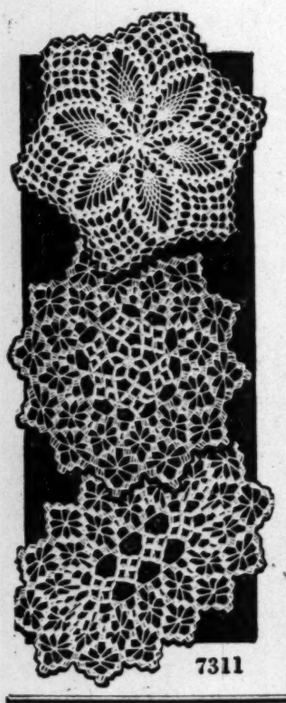

FOR THE CREASES at the sides of her nose and the "crow's feet" around her eyes, she started at the outer corner of her mouth and patted gently upward along her mouth and nose lines, towards the inner corner of her eye. She repeated this process three times, then proceeded across toward the temple, pressing the cotton pad close to each eye.

Especially for the lines around her mouth, Blanche learned these massage movements: Starting from under the chin, make strokes upward toward the mouth, across the chin. Then starting from the center of the chin, make three circles around the mouth. Repeat three times.

The entire process takes only about ten minutes time. For quicker results, Blanche will repeat the massage morning and evening.

Bookkeeper Jailed in Theft Of $200,000

A $65-a-week bookkeeper who for 30 months lived like a king yesterday was sentenced to 4 to 12 years in jail for embezzling more than $200,000 from the International Association of Machinists.

Judge David A. Pine of District Court said he was imposing the penalty as a deterrent to others who might be tempted to steal from their employers.

The sentence was meted out to Richard G. Richardson, 27, of 9 Fort Hunt rd., Alexandria, Va. While a bookkeeper for the machinists, he admittedly systematically juggled payroll adding machine tapes to effect the swindle.

Judge Pine said he had given the case "serious consideration," that Richardson came from a good family and had many advantages." But leniency was not called for, said the judge.

He pointed out that Richardson, in the two and a half years involved, had spent more than $100,000 for "luxurious living" and an equal sum for gambling.

The judge said that he hoped the sentence he was imposing would not make Richardson into a "confined criminal" and that he would prove eligible for parole in four years.

Richardson winced at the sentence but stood erect. He turned to go, and glanced at his attractive wife in the courtroom. She bit on a handkerchief and cried into her hands.

The husband turned ashen, and walked quickly into the cell-block elevator where he faced the wall so he could not see her.

In another case, two convicted holdup men each got three to nine years in jail. They are Anthony J. Betro, 34, of 3507 Varnum st., Mt. Rainier, Md., and Leon J. Cefaretti, 26, of 1813 A st. se. They were found guilty of holding up a Plaza Hotel clerk and taking two cash boxes containing $77.

Julius Evans, 1605 North Capitol st., received three to 10 years in jail for manslaughter in the fatal shooting of Madison McKoy, 29, of 48 DeFrees st. nw.

N. Washington Citizens Name Connaughton

John H. Connaughton, former president of the Federation of Citizens Associations, and delegate from the Petworth Citizens Association, has been elected president of the North Washington Council of Citizens Associations.

Mrs. Ernest W. Howard, delegate from Columbia Heights, was elected vice president, and Karl K. Gower, delegate from Brightwood, was reelected secretary-treasurer.

Meeting at the Sixth Precinct Police Station, the group had a two-hour discussion about the the community traffic light problem with George Keneipp and Wallace Braun, director and deputy director of the District Department of Vehicles and Traffic.

Congress Heights

Warren R. Ferris of 451 Lebaum st. se., was elected president of the Congress Heights Citizens Association at a meeting in the Congress Heights School.

Also elected were Benson Taylor, first vice president; Mrs. Alma Allen, second vice president; William L. Bryan, treasurer; Mark H. Hetrick, financial secretary.

The association adopted a resolution to be forwarded to the State Department disapproving the flying of any national or international flag above or parallel to the United States flag.

District Cabbie Sings His Song To Win CBS Show

"You Used to Be My Used to Was, But Now You Ain't No More."

So sang a 56-year-old Washington cab driver last night to a WTOP-CBS network audience. He rocked 'em in the aisles. He won $200. He is booked at New York's Paramount Theater December 13. His song is going to be published.

All this happened to Robert H. Croggon, 164 35th st. ne., Washington Cab Association driver 43. Herb Moss, producer of "Song for Sale" on which Croggon appeared, said it is very unusual for a composer to sing his own song. Croggon was picked from four contestants for the original song most likely to succeed.

TRUSTEES' SALE OF VALUABLE REAL ESTATE
SUITLAND, MARYLAND

By virtue of an order of the Circuit Court for Prince George's County, Md., Equity No. 1504, on August 22, 1950, the undersigned were appointed trustees to sell a tract of land containing approximately 3.75 acres of land in Suitland, Md., situated on the southwest corner of the intersection of Lacey Ave. and Lewis Ave. and being the most easterly portion of Block "C" and including Lot 1 of said Block "C," Bradbury Park Subdivision, as recorded among the plat records of Prince George's County in Plat Book R.N.R. 2, Folio 74.

Land is to be sold at Southwest corner of Lacey and Lewis Aves., Suitland, Md., at Public Auction, on MONDAY, NOVEMBER 13, 1950
At 3:00 P. M. O'Clock

Said property is unimproved except for a small frame, one-story house without improvements and is suitable for housing and apartment development. Plat of Subdivision of Block "C," Bradbury Park, Suitland, Maryland, approved by Maryland National Capital Park & Planning Commission February 7, 1947 and by the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission February 15, 1947.

TERMS OF SALE

Said property will be sold in fee simple, without liens or encumbrances. Deposit of $500.00 will be required at time of sale and full settlement in cash will be required within fifteen days after final ratification of the sale by the Court. All taxes and assessments will be adjusted to the date of sale. Conveyancing, recording, notary fees and revenue stamps are to be at the cost of the purchaser. Trustees have the right to reject any bid deemed insufficient.

TRUSTEES: David I. Abse, Atty. for Petitioner, 711 14th St. N.W., Washington 5, D. C., RE. 2008.

100 ACRES SOLD FOR DEVELOPMENT

This property is located about 4 squares beyond the District line in Southeast in the zone of the new South Capitol st. bridge. This bridge is operating with a capacity of 50,000 automobiles a day. It is bringing this acreage within about 5 minutes of the White House. Now the big news today is that Sears & Roebuck, the great department house people, has just purchased a large tract of land in this neighborhood to erect a big department store. Ground on Wisconsin ave., right close to their store there is now worth a million dollars an acre, and they will make it worth a million dollars an acre in this neighborhood. Proposed to build another bridge from Virginia across the Potomac to this neighborhood, Baltimore blvd. is coming down to this locality and this will be one of the greatest shopping centers in Greater Washington. You can look for this ground to bring in a million dollars an acre in the very near future. You will wonder why I will sell it. I am in my 84th year and I am settling my estate. It's a young man's job to subdivide and handle a large tract of land. This property can be had now at the small sum of $4,000 an acre. It's all paid for and I can give you favorable terms. FULTON R. GORDON, Owner, OL. 4408. Let me hear from you and will be very glad to hear from brokers, too.

Columnists Explain Their Attitudes

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Nov. 10 (AP).—Three newspaper columnists today told the national convention of Sigma Delta Chi, journalistic fraternity, what makes them tick.

John Crosby, Inez Robb and Robert Ruark discussed "the influence and responsibility of columnists" at a panel held at the University of Miami.

Crosby, New York Herald Tribune radio columnist, defended columning and said he believed the "contrasting opinions" of the columns are to the readers' advantage.

"Columnists," he said, "are the last vestige of personal journalism. If it weren't for columns, there might be a striking and dismal uniformity in the public press."

Miss Robb, International News Service columnist, said she didn't know all the answers or all the questions.

"I have no axes to grind; I have no profound messages for the world . . . I attempt to inform America, not reform it.

"I'm not as noble as Westbrook Pegler or Fulton Lewis," she said. "But there it is."

Ruark, United Features columnist, tufned the panel into a laugh session.

He said he was essentially a lazy fellow, who spent most of his Navy shipboard time figuring out how to avoid manual toil in the post-war world.

"My column," he said, "was conceived in sin. I figured that I was the average citizen. I believe vaguely in hell and hoped for the best. So do most citizens. I was scared stiff most of the war. So were the others. I decided I'd do a strictly Average Joe column.

"I suspect I'm a Fascist, because I still believe in free enterprise. I may be accused of being frivolous because I don't see why important things have to be presented dully."

Ailing Thorez Slated To Fly to Moscow

PARIS, Nov. 10 (U.P.)—The Foreign Office today said it has granted a Russian request for permission to send a plane here to take ailing French Communist leader Maurice Thorez to Moscow for treatment.

Thorez, for 20 years the undisputed leader of the Communist Party, the largest single political party in France, collapsed in his office October 18. A Moscow specialist and a team of French physicians have been treating him for a cerebral hemorrhage.

Mental State Held Factor in Tuberculosis

BALTIMORE, Nov. 10 (AP).—A specialist reported today about a third of all tuberculosis victims have serious mental troubles.

Dr. Jerome Hartz, assistant professor of psychiatry at the Johns Hopkins School of Medicine, told of one TB patient who recovered quickly after his mother-in-law died.

Dr. Hartz made his report before the eastern section of the American Trudeau Society, which is the medical division of the National Tuberculosis Association.

He said:

"In a surprisingly large number of patients it will eventually be seen that falling ill with tuberculosis was a way of attempting to escape from an unbearable emotional situation.

"Unless this is understood, it may stand in the way of the patient's wanting to get well. It may hinder him unconsciously from cooperating with treatment. In severe instances it may even lead him to sabotage his own recovery."

The man with mother-in-law trouble found conditions more bearable in a sanitorium than at home. She made life miserable for him with her own illnesses, incessant complaints, and self-pity.

East Blockades Berlin to Cut Stream of Refugees to West

BERLIN, Nov. 10 (AP)—Russian troops and East German police threw a tight blockade around Berlin today to stop the steady flow of refugees to Western Germany.

The soldiers and policemen, bristling with tommy guns and pistols, appeared suddenly at dawn at all street and road crossings leading to western Berlin.

All main arteries linking East and West were barricaded. Guards forced all trucks from Russian-held territory to detour so they could not reach West Berlin or Western Germany. Even Russian occupation troops from the Red army's Potsdam headquarters were compelled to make the detour.

The guards made no attempt to interfere with Allied vehicles en route to or from Berlin along the 105-mile road to the Western occupation zones.

West Berlin authorities reported escapes had increased steadily during recent months. They said that during September, 3173 East Germans sought sanctuary in West Berlin and that last month the number jumped to 5280.

Poles and Czechs Lose Consular Privileges

BONN, Nov. 10 (NYHT).—Diplomatic immunities and occupation privileges were abruptly withdrawn today from 10 Polish and Czechoslovakian consulates in western Germany after their failure to meet a deadline for establishing formal accreditation with the Western Allied High Commission.

With the action, the consulates lose their right to occupy requisitioned housing in western Germany, the use of occupation currency, access to occupation stores and PX's, exemption from German civil and legal action, tax exemption, travel facilities, motor vehicle registration and, perhaps most important of all, the right to use code communications with their home government.

The Prague and Warsaw governments had been told by the high commission that if a formal accreditation was not sought for the 10 consulates by November 10 these privileges would be withdrawn. Accreditation would, however, imply recognition of the western Germany regime and neither government made any response.

Enforcement of the order will be determined by occupation authorities in each of the three western zones. In the American zone there are consulates affected in Frankfurt, Munich and Bremen; in the British zone they are in Hamburg, Hanover, Bochum and Dusseldorf; and in the French zone is Baden-Baden.

German Troop Costs to Mount

FRANKFURT, Germany, Nov. 10 (U.P.).—Western Germany's share of the costs of maintaining allied troops in Germany for Western defense will skyrocket from one third to almost one half of the total federal budget by the end of this month, a high allied official predicted today.

Germany's share of the bill for the additional allied troops it has demanded probably will be submitted to the Bonn government by the allied high commission before December 1, he said.

He indicated the amount might well be as high as 2,500,000,000 marks (almost 600 million dollars) in additional occupation costs for the last five months of the 1950-51 fiscal year which began April 1.

Added to the approximately 4,500,000,000 marks (more than one billion dollars) of occupation costs in the 13 billion marks ($3,100,000,000) budget presented to the federal Parliament yesterday, the new sum would boost the German contribution to Western defense from approximately one third to seven sixteenths of a revised budget.

It was pointed out that while the new German total for this year would be high, it still would be less than 10 percent of Western Germany's gross national product, the rough "rule of thumb" figure currently considered the proportion of total yearly production necessary to devote to defense by European countries.

The United States, with a defense budget of 50 billion dollars is spending between 16 and 20 percent of its gross national product, while Great Britain is devoting between 12 and 15 percent, the official said.

Way Expected to Open For Zonal Trade Talks

BERLIN, Nov. 10 (NYHT).—The resumption of the delivery of electric power from East Germany to West Berlin, which was announced today, is expected to open the way for a resumption of interzonal trade talks.

The trade agreement negotiations were broken off in September by the West Germans after electric power that East Germany had been supplying to West Berlin was cut off.

The new arrangement provides that West Berlin will get 400,000 kilowatt-hours daily and that an equivalent amount will be delivered to the Soviet Zone Province of Mecklenburg from a power plant in Hamburg in the British zone.

37th Case of Polio Reported in Arlington

Arlington County yesterday reported its thirty-seventh polio case of the year, a 35-year-old woman from the 4500 block of S. 34th st. The County Health Department said she was admitted to Alexandria Hospital October 23, but her case was not diagnosed as polio until November 4.

Silver Bonus Awarded

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio, Nov. 10 (AP).—The Gardner Board and Carton Co. handed out 100,000 silver dollars—weighing approximately 7000 pounds—to its employes today as part of its 50th anniversary celebration.

E. T. Gardner, president of the company, said each of the firm's 2000 employes here and in Lockland, received 50 silver dollars.

'Big Show' Proves Radio Is Not Dead

—By John Crosby—

Crosby

NBC's WIDELY TRUMPETED "The Big Show" (NBC-WRC 6 p. m. Sundays) came perilously close to proving that radio is not dead after all, which means that some of us profound thinkers will have to revise our opinions. It was in practically every respect a perfectly wonderful show—witty, tuneful, surprisingly sophisticated and brilliantly put together.

"The Big Show" was a big enterprise in every way. The opening program contained such names as Fred Allen, Jimmy Durante, Jose Ferrer, Ethel Merman, Paul Laukas, Russell Nype, Mindy Carson and Frankie Laine—all presided over and more or less blanketed by that extraordinarily vibrant lady known as Tallu. It ran an hour and a half, one of the fastest and pleasantest 90 minutes in my memory; it was housed in N.B.C.'s newly acquired Center Theater (3000 seats); it had a 44-piece orchestra and 16 voice presided over by Meredith Willson; it cost about a trillion dollars—and, well, it was big.

N.B.C.'s BIGGEST GAMBLE may have been Tallulah Bankhead, an unpredictable volcano who has been known to sweep away whole villages when she erupts. As mistress of ceremonies, though, she was sharp as a knife and succeeded somehow in outshining even the most glittering names on that glittering roster. My sole complaint is Miss Bankhead's addiction to the word "darling" (or "dolling," as she is wont to pronounce it). She employed "dolling" 422 times—425, according to my wife's count—and that's a bit too much for an hour and a half. And besides there aren't that many dollings in the Western Hemisphere, dolling.

Tallulah is more or less inherently iconoclastic, if that's not too mild a word, and consequently the passages between her and her guests were happily lacking in that overwhelming mutual esteem which marks the pleasantries between most emcees and guests. When Jose Ferrer modestly demurred at being called the greatest actor on the New York stage, she agreed almost instantly that he probably wasn't.

CONSEQUENTLY, most of the guests approached Tallu warily, keeping their lefts up and weaving slightly. All except Fred Allen, the one man who is a match for her. Mr. Allen remarked pleasantly that N.B.C. had tried him on radio and tried him on television and was now waiting for another medium to come along. "I've decided why they call television a medium. It's because nothing on it is well done."

As for the other high spots of which there were many . . . well, let's see. Jose Ferrer did a fine bit from the first act of "Cyrano De Bergerac"; Jimmy Durante compalined in song about the terrible time he had lining up blind dates; and the whole cast in a rousing finale paid their respects to the late George M. Cohan with a selection of his songs. Even Tallu sang ("Give My Regards To Broadway") in a voice that has almost more timber than Yellowstone National Park.

I'd like to pass up the other stars in order to say a few kind words about the writers—Goodman Ace, Welburn Kelley and Frank Wilson—who turned out a script which didn't contain a single cliche and did contain a great many amusing lines.

Can You Stand One More Election Joke?

Leonidas "Santa Claus" Beall of 6420 Western ave., Chevy Chase, Md., turns loose one last pun before putting on the white whiskers in preparation for his annual busy season.

He observes that those morning-after pictures of the defeated Senator from Maryland should have been titled: "Sad Tydings."

EXCUSE IT, PLEASE

John Singerhoff, assistant city editor of this newspaper, is putting on airs these days because he's the first employe to be cut off while making a call through our new switchboard, in The Washington Post's shiny new L st. home.

What Mr. Singerhoff doesn't know is that I can lay claim to an even greater distinction.

I was visiting our telephone headquarters while John was making his call, and Chief Operator Mollie Parker was explaining to me just how everything worked.

"What happens if I pull this cord out?" I asked, yanking it out.

"Ohmygoodness," she gasped. "What happens is that you cut somebody off."

So Mr. Singerhoff can brag all he wants to about being the first caller to be cut off. My claim to fame is that I'm the lad that did the cutting.

"CH--CH." WHAT'S MISSING?

I found a magazine on a colleague's desk the other day and, idly leafing through it, came across this little item:

WHY I DON'T GO TO THE MOVIES

1. I was made to go too often when I was young.
2. No one ever speaks to me when I do go.
3. When I go, they always ask for money.
4. The Manager never calls me to ask me why I have not been there recently.
5. The people there do not live up to what they show in their films.
6. The music is very poor.
7. I was ill for six weeks and nobody from there ever came to see me.

"Television I can understand," I mused, "but these are the silliest reasons for not going to the movies I ever encountered."

I turned back to the front cover to learn the name of the magazine, and in doing so gradually began to appreciate the subtlety of the item. I had been reading the "Crusader," a church periodical published by the American Baptist Convention.

PEDESTRIANS ALSO HAVE THEIR TRAFFIC PROBLEMS

Did you ever watch the hordes of pedestrians who wait for the traffic lights to change at 13th and F nw., or at any of our other busy downtown corners?

They remind me of two football teams charging into each other on the kickoff.

The moment the "Walk" light comes on, the two phalanxes swarm out from their respective curbs in such solid fronts that it seems inevitable that there will be a collision in the middle of the street.

But somehow they manage to pass through each other, like a marching band executing one of those tricky about-face maneuvers. When they untangle, everybody is heading in the right direction and, except for a few bunions trampled in the confusion, there are no casualties.

E. J. Barrett of 1300 S. Thomas st., Arlington, Va., wonders why we couldn't borrow the idea used in other cities, and separate our downtown crosswalks into two lanes, with pedestrians educated to keep to the right, as motorists do. But in the same breath he answers his own question with: "I guess they'd never be able to enforce it."

I guess not. There's no law in the world that's going to keep a woman in the outside lane from cutting right across the white line when she passes Jelleff's and spies a snazzy new dress in the window.

ᔓᔕ

'TIS TRUE, 'TIS PITY

David Yentis of 3000 Lee hwy., Arlington, Va., notes with some dejection that voters in his county turned thumbs down on the school bond issue, but okayed funds for the improvement of sewage treatment facilities.

"A dandy slogan for the Chamber of Commerce," he mourns, "would be: 'Come live in Arlington, where we treat our sewage better than our children.'"

Taft and Warren GOP Standouts

By Drew Pearson

Jubilant Republican leaders now pretty much agree that two big names have come out of the elections as presidential possibilities for 1952. They are also confident there is enough of the "kick-the-rascals-out" sentiment, which usually attaches itself to a party long in power, to make the GPO nomination in 1952 the most glittering goal since 1928.

Warren

The two candidates who stand out are:

1. Gov. Earl Warren of California, who not only defeated a Roosevelt, but did it in a State which has a 2-to-1 Democratic registration. Two years ago, following Warren's defeat on the Dewey ticket, he was considered a dead duck. But now, in control of the second most populous State in the Union, he is probably candidate No. 1 for 1952.

2. Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio, who not only won the largest margin of victory in his career, but did it with all the forces of organized labor pitted against him. This makes him a far stronger candidate than at any time in his eight years of angling for the Presidency. Conservative party leaders, always strong for Taft, are now enthusiastic over his future—despite statements that he is no longer a candidate.

To a lesser extent, Governor Dewey and Senator-elect Jim Duff of Pennsylvania are also in the presidential picture, but are not considered potent possibilities—Duff because of his age, Dewey because of political superstition against a two-time loser.

Acheson's Status

Some important soul-searching is going on among Truman advisers regarding the future of Secretary of State Dean Acheson. Here is what it boils down to:

The President would never fire Acheson; considers him a great Secretary of State. But, on the other hand, many Truman advisers feel that Acheson was the chief reason for losing the election. His statement defending Alger Hiss left him wide open, they say, and the Republicans made the most of it. Senator Scott Lucas of Illinois, who talked to Truman about this in advance of the election, is especially bitter; feels that several Senators were defeated because of Acheson.

They compare the present situation to that of Sumner Welles, who was Undersecretary of State in the Roosevelt Administration and resigned in 1943 because of differences with Cordell Hull. At that time F. D. R. offered Welles the post of Special Ambassador to Moscow to iron out differences which were beginning to crop up between the U.S.A. and U.S.S.R.

Welles refused.

"The most important problem facing you and the world," he told FDR at that time, "is a peace treaty and its ratification by the Senate. Cordell Hull has powerful friends in the Senate. I have not. And any agreement I brought back from Russia or any peace treaty I helped to plan would not be approved by the Senate."

So Welles resigned and Cordell Hull went to Moscow.

Today, unfortunately, Acheson policies have been under such political fire that bipartisan foreign policy has blown up in smoke.

Actually, important Republicans are working inside the State Department with Acheson—among them, John Foster Dulles, right-hand adviser to Governor Dewey. He helped establish United States policy in China.

Also, Warren Austin, former Republican Senator from Vermont, is United States Ambassador to the United Nations; while Walter Gifford, a top New York Republican, is Ambassador to London; and Andrew Mellon's former son-in-law, David Bruce, is Ambassador to France. Various other Republicans hold other State Department posts; while it remains a fact that original United States policy in China was fixed by non-political Gen. George Marshall.

Nevertheless, Acheson has received the blame. Chief result is strained relations with Congress, inflexible foreign policy, and the loss of Democratic Senators at the polls.

Counter-Attacking

At 11 p. m., one night just after Secretary of the Interior Oscar Chapman had been bitterly attacked by Senator Schoeppel of Kansas for being pro-Communist, Chapman's phone rang. He had just finished testifying before a Senate committee in which he set forth an array of convincing facts blistering Schoeppel, and Acheson phoned to congratulate him.

"I am not in the habit of calling people as late as this," he told Secretary Chapman. "But I wanted to tell you what a masterful defense you made today. It made me realize that if I had taken the time to do the same thing when I was first attacked, my situation today might have been enirely different."

Note 1—Many diplomats feel that a Secretary of State who cannot carry public opinion with him, cannot mold foreign policy in a government where policy must be ratified by the Senate.

Note 2—Truman, who has publicly defended his old friend, boss Tom Pendergast of Kansas City after he went to jail, can forgive Acheson for defending his friend Alger Hiss when on trial. What neither seems to realize is that when you hold high public office, friendships must play second fiddle to national policy. FDR, who did realize this, was bitterly criticized for not being loyal to his friends.

GOP's Surprise

The Republican sweep was such a surprise to GOP national headquarters that it was not until after midnight on election night that they began to celebrate . . . Bill Mylander, the GOP's publicity chief, cautiously kept the lid on, discouraged both Chairman Guy Gabrielson and Harold Stassen from victory claims . . . "We have had so many disappointments in the past," explained one old-timer, "that we don't want to go out on a limb and get sawed off again" . . . From the time the returns started coming in, until 10 p. m., the atmosphere at the old mansion on Connecticut ave. was as glum as a funeral parlor. Finally, when victories seemed certain for Taft in Ohio and Dewey in New York, Republican bigwigs allowed cautious smiles . . . "They were like a kid who hopes the package under the Christmas tree is a sled but doesn't dare look," declared one onlooker . . . Finally, at 12:30, Gabrielson's round face was beaming happily, and he allowed that the time had come to break out the liquor.

Railroad Told To End Racism In Dining Cars

The Interstate Commerce Commission yesterday ordered the Southern Railway to end racial segregation on dining cars running across State lines.

The order was issued in response to a Supreme Court mandate last June after the court held that the practice of partitioning off tables for white persons and Negroes involved unlawful discrimination.

The issue was taken to the high tribunal by Elmer W. Henderson of Washington, who complained he was refused dining car service on the Southern Railway in 1942.

Henderson's plea to the ICC for a damage award was turned down.

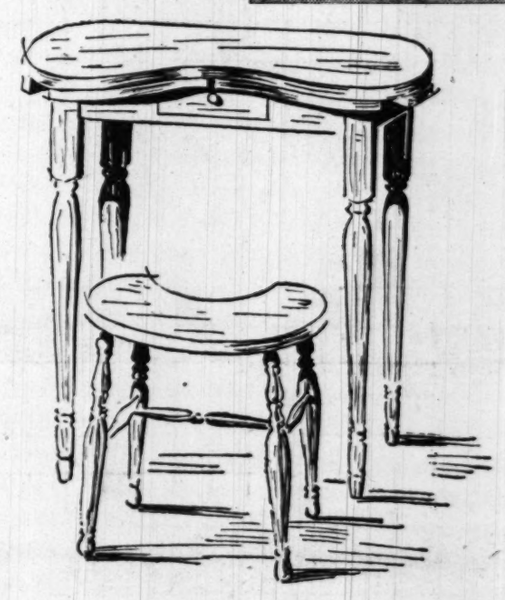

While the case was pending before the commission, Southern Railway adopted a plan for partitioning off a section of its diners for use of Negro travelers, and the ICC approved the arrangement.

This, however, was upset by the Supreme Court ruling against segregation practices in interstate commerce.

Sidney S. Alderman, vice president and general counsel for Southern said in a statement that the company "already has complied with the Supreme Court decision."

"The Southern, on July 1, 1950," he said, "voluntarily ceased and desisted from the practices which the Supreme Court disapproved."
